Dorothy Day Tells of Saint's Example In Love For Poor

Prayers to St. Elizabeth of Hungary "to teach us how to love" as an aid in meeting "the heavy problem of our times" were urged Saturday by Miss Dorothy Day, Editor of the Catholic Worker, in the "Call to Youth" radio program of the National Council of Catholic Women.

Sketching the life of St. Elizabeth, Miss Day said "the great need of the time is to remember the counsel of perfection laid down in the New Testament, that Christian manifesto which is just as good for the present time as it was 1900 years ago."

"We are to love our neighbor as ourselves," she added, "and our neighbors may even be our enemy. We have an example in the lavishly kind life of the saint who gave up all to the Samaritan who helped him. We are to give to those who ask of us, and when our brother is in need we should not say to him, 'Go, be thou filled.' If anyone asks for our coat, we are to give him our coat, too. In other words, we are to have some of that lavish, reckless, uninquiring love of our brother which St. Elizabeth showed so constantly. We have an example in the lavishly kind life of the saint who gave up all to the Samaritan who helped him. We are to give to those who ask of us, and when our brother is in need we should not say to him, 'Go, be thou filled.'"

Robert's Views on Travel

I sure have my history teacher fooled—the says I'm an outstanding student, but I'd hate to tell you how little time I spend on my history text book. You see the way I learned about history was by travelling. You just go to some of the places like the battle fields at Chattanooga, and you'll never forget the facts about the Civil War.
