Faith Stories For Little Ones

MANDER REBUKED

It is related of St. Augustine, the illustrious Doctor of the Church, that he had an extreme horror of all uncharitable conver-sation. To prevent any discourse of this nature from being held in his presence, he caused the following inscription to be painted in large letters, upon the walls of th om where he usually entertains for thee; Nore nought shall reign but trull

mediately reproved them, saying, "My friends, you must either coase te speak on such a subject, or will be necessary for me to ha those verses blotted out from the walls of my room." -- Catech. d

Perseverance.
The last win mentioned in the mandment, is that of tale-bearing.

by which we mean the habit of carrying tales backwards and for whole from house to house, from perion to person.

For example, Peter goes to the house of Paul, who happens to say in his presence something unkind about his neighbor John. Peter's maximum in the house of John, to whom he repeats wood for word. to whom he repeats word for word, and often with additions, what Paul has said of him. Thus does Peter create an ill feeling, and no infrequently sows the seeds of a la mentable quarrel between two neighbors. Even children often cause trouble in families, someby carrying tales from one to an other:

"Whenever, therefore, you see or hear anything that is likely to hear anything that is likely to cause anything that is likely to cause anything that the something which is your duty to tell, and then tell it only to the proper person.

Tale bearers are the greates petts to society; they are the cause of half the quarrels and dissen-dons which arise among mankind. foreover, though they may bitterly eperit of it, they can seldom repair the evil they have caused, o pair the syst (ney nave cause, or their undo the consequences of their own thoughtless words.

My dear children, avoid carefully this demnion but most mischlevous vice Rev. Heary Chees.

Polish Churches Pay Russia $5,000 a Week

NEW YORK — Soviet Russian authorities are gradually "liquidaling" the churches in that section of Poland which they seized by charging exhorbitant, "rentals" for church properties—often as much as $5.000 a week—according to information. The Polish Information Center here amounces it has re-

Center here announces it has received.

The Center also made public a translation of an article which, it was anneanced appeared in RemeasureMain Travia, Russian newspaper, declaring that Consatian ideology is incompatible with the Soviet Constitution. It was further stated that about 25,000 Communist agitaters had been sent into Russian-occupied Poland, that special propaganda conters had been set us and that anti-religious talks are broadcast from all radio stations. In order, to get work, it was stated, residents of the region must loin, the League of Godies. Four hundred priests, the Center and have been sent to Siberia.
