Ten Rules of Life

- 1. To value life and make good use of it.
2. To live with faith.
3. To observe the Commandments of God.
4. To pray and work.
5. To consecrate all cares and troubles to Our Saviour.
6. To dispose each day well, beginning it with the sign of the Cross and in the name of God.
7. To observe Sunday and holy-days.
8. To order family and domestic life according to Christian principles.
9. To apply charity and justice to social life.
10. To follow always and in all things the commands of the Church.

Getting On In The World

If we knew all the truths about ourselves we should find little regrets and a great abundance of neighbors and look down on them with arrogance or contempt. Our superiority of mind or person comes to us, with every natural and supernatural gift, from God and may be taken from us at any moment by a fit of illness or some other natural cause.

Priest Sees Radio as Great Missionary Aid

NEW YORK (NO) — Radio, carrying the voices of leaders of religion, culture and political thought into the worldly world of selfish ambition, has warned that democracy without God cannot endure," declared the Rev. Bryan J.
McIntegart, Director of Child Care of the New York Catholic Charities here.

Military Masses Said For Boston Guardsmen

BOSTON — Special military Masses were celebrated here at locations throughout the Commonwealth early Sunday morning for thousands of Massachusetts National Guardsmen just before their departure for Summer maneuvers in Upper New York.

Priest Heads Band Of Canadian Colonizers

SHERBROOKE — Accompanied by the Rev. Armand Desjardins, a young missionary, the fathers of 17 families left here for Bellefleur County.
When they have built their homes they will send for their families and the district are now families numbering 2,800 persons.
