

'Give Public What It Wants'

By REV. JAMES M. GILLIS, C.S.P., Editor, The Catholic World

Some two or three weeks ago, a news item went the rounds of the papers telling that a fifty play album company had been closed down after a record-breaking run of six years on Broadway.

When he thinks he needs collaboration, he calls in an expert. For example, in this particular piece he summons Burke Maule, who publishes a book annually on Broadway's Best Plays.

governments have considered students for the military as needed for the non-military services they can give by following their clerical profession.

Down To Brass Facts

Political strategy is much to the front today. We are in an important presidential campaign in which two great parties are using every power to elect their candidate.

Political strategists are apt to underestimate the mental ability of the average voter. Both parties would do a real benefit to the United States if they would state the issues far more clearly than they are named in party platforms.

God Hath Visited His People

The sympathy and pity of Jesus Christ is with every bereaved parent. It is a pity that comforts the sorrowing heart, that gives strength to bear the burden of grief, a pity that consoles.

God's goodness to man is shown in many forms. He makes the sun to shine down on the earth, gives rain in season, tempers the winds with that warmth that promotes growth of vegetation, provides food and shelter and clothing, and all that is needed to meet man's earthly needs.

YOU REMEMBER how when the reputation of a cake maker spread far and near, over the wide world, every child who was a wife or maiden of age was a cake baker.

Five Years Ago

Those who are especially concerned about the education of children in this country should bear in mind that all education is human good or bad. It can be either a blessing or a curse.

Spiritual Thoughts

I saw a great multitude, which no man could number. — Apoc. 1:7. The only man who never makes a mistake is the man who never does anything. — Thea Roosevelt.

War-mongers with private gain their goal are as much to be fought as are the Fifth Columnists. Neither are the war-mongers to be counted upon as national defenders.

When our large national Catholic lay organizations assemble in annual convention their proceedings should be watched with more than passing interest.

Wisdom

This ruling line clashed with the teachings of Jehovah's Witnesses. "Judge" Rutherford's brain-storm child, a religious sect which holds that the commandment forbidding the worship of any graven image should be taken literally.

Along The Way

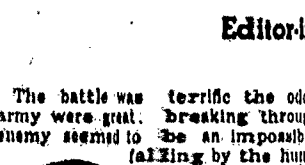

He talked things over, his teaching brother friend and himself, and he announced with all possible assurance that nothing could harm his faith, nothing could interfere with the practice of his religion.

Conception

It is to call for a conception law that is really a danger to the American people. To meet that danger we must have a conception law that is really a danger to the American people.

Unfurl That Flag Of Ours

By The Right Rev. Msgr. Peter M. H. Wynhoven, Editor-in-Chief, Catholic Action of the South

The battle was terrific the odds for the French army were great. Breaking through the lines of the enemy seemed to be an impossible task; men were falling by the hundreds.

Will Wisdom

That the Stars and Stripes, as a mere flag is a piece of cloth, is only a material thing, is the teaching of the Declaration of Independence.

The logic of this man is a daily insult to human intelligence. And still he has to be bested by his persistent followers, to have our peace disturbed by the arrogance of his assembly ignorant disciples.

No true American may claim that the Constitution of the United States gives us a right to undertake regularly constituted authority. We may criticize, yet no deliberate destruction of principles can be tolerated.

People who go around preaching against this natural patriotic sense of duty are the type of citizens who bear watching. Let us fervently object to those who would take the love of country symbolized by the flag, out of the hearts of our children.

A Story Too, Too Common

By REV. DANIEL A. LORD, S.J.

His story was told to me by a teaching brother, the brother who had known him and tried to prepare him for life.

Along The Way

He talked things over, his teaching brother friend and himself, and he announced with all possible assurance that nothing could harm his faith, nothing could interfere with the practice of his religion.

It was well along in the morning before I began to decide that the dignified men who were my fellow passengers on the Pullman were ministers.

Why Not Divorce? St. Matthew Permitted It. (5:31,32,33)

The Catholic Church rightly regards herself as the representative of God in this world. She merely repeats what Christ commanded her to teach and forbid.

For the first fifteen centuries of the Christian era, that is, from the time of Christ down to the Religious Revolt of the sixteenth century the world knew nothing of divorce.
