Pat and Nora travelled with the company for more than a year and Pat counted his future bride and radio partner in great style. But Nora's mother hadn't met her daughter's recent suitor so there was no wedding bells until the show returned to Chicago.

They were always watched as a team. Hence making their radio debut ten years ago in Milwaukee they toured the country in a vaudeville act. They were billed as "The Two Old Partners" for even in those days Pat and Nora were doing character parts similar to their roles on the "Uncle Sam" program.

Raymond Paige Has 11 Professional Understudies on Musical American

Every legitimate stage star has a talented understudy, an excellent performer who is prepared and eager to step in and take over the star's role in a minute's notice. One never hears of understudies in the ranks of orchestral music, but if Raymond Paige, conductor of Musical American, (WJLH, Thursday, 10:30 P. M.) were late, or unable to attend a broadcast for some reason, Westinghouse, the sponsor, would find it easy in the Paige orchestra who have had previous experience as conductors.
