NUN'S ANNIVERSARY ORPHANS' POEM

The Joneses (14 of Them) Make Page One

The family of Mr. and Mrs. Scarpia W. Jones, all members of St. Christopher's parish, Houston, Tex., made page one of "The Houston Press" recently when that paper, in a picture story, set out to prove the exception McGinnis Daniel P. O'Connell, of Galveston, speaking before the Diocesan Council of Catholic Women, had stated that "You'll never make Page One of a newspaper by just making a good home. Newspapers are prone to emphasize divorce news." (N.C.W.C.)

Rochester Diocesan Council N. C. W. 536 Columbus Civic Center

All members of the Rochester Diocesan Council, N. C. W. M. W. together with the rest of the diocese, mourn the passing of our beloved Archbishop Hickey.

Always interested in the National Council he sent a diocesan delegate to the national convention long before the organization of our Diocesan Council when the only local affiliation were the Catholic Women's Club and the Catholic Women's Union.

We will not forget him in our prayers. An offering sent some time ago to Rev. Frederick Gehring C.M. who addressed us at the time of our sustaining membership campaign, has brought us this charming poem.

The little ones of Bethlehem Were not so blent as we Gathered round the crib today As happy as can be Your kindness traveled from afar With Christ's message sweet "Suffer the little ones to come" You brought us to his feet

Hanging Toys

Found by Edwards and Lydia in London, 8 West 46th Street New York City. There are times when a child is all or during which he must stay quiet for a week when it is unwise to let him play with his usual toys, but he may enjoy looking at pictures of things that are interesting and amusing. These are the hanging toys.

Sister M. Philomena Marks Golden Jubilee In Corning

Fittingly begun with celebration of High Mass, the 50th anniversary of Sister M. Philomena Cullen's profession in the Sisters of Mercy was commemorated in Corning on the feast of the Immaculate Conception, Sunday, Dec. 1.

According To The Doctor

Nearly all the starch of our food is supplied by grains. They also contain from 2 to 15 per cent of a protein called gluten. The chief grains are wheat, oats, barley, corn, rice and buckwheat. The more gluten there is in grain, the more sticky or sticky the flour will be.
