Whole Aldrich Clan Has Altered Nature Since Turning To Air

The Aldrich clan has had its inception in Clifford Goldsmith's stage play, "What a Life," which did quite well for itself on Broadway.

From a child whose misadventure in social concepts would have caused him to be a pariah, the Aldrich family has become a household name.

Understanding Mother Mrs. Aldrich's mother, Mrs. Aldrich, was a woman of great strength and character.

Oooh! "Sanctum" Gets Grunter and Grissler Aired (and maybe a trifle disappointed) at the hands of the average American.

Beginning Sunday, Mar. 18, the popular "Whodunnit" titles, presented by the makers of "Carson's Little Lovers," will be heard at a new time and date over a greatly increased NBC-Blue network.

New War Length The new war length of the program will be increased to 30 minutes.

Parade of Values The parade of values will be a celebration of the values of the American people.

Named Mike Sign In "Grand-Central"

Eight microphones of almost every type known to radio, plus an isolation booth, two sets of turntables capable of playing records simultaneously and assorted filters and echo characters.

This signature, which takes the place of the usual radio theme song, is a masterpiece of sound engineering.

Various public address systems and velocity microphones are used both for the signatures and to create realism through the drama.
