GENERAL INTENTION OF SACRED HEART LEAGUE FOR APRIL, 1941

The parish has been aptly termed the Mystical Body of Christ in miniature, for as the family is the cell of the civil organism, the State, so the parish is the cell of the spiritual organism of souls which Christ established as His Mystical Body. Hence the condition of the parish affects the condition of the whole Church as an organism.

The parish is as a family whose home is the parish church, whose common table is the parish altar and whose father is the parish priest representing the Heavenly Father. The parish altar is the source of spiritual nourishment and instruction which make the true Catholic; thence he imbibes the spirit of charity which unites him to God and to his fellow men, and thence is imparted an increase of faith and hope.

The parish priest has received from the Church the duty and prerogatives of the care of souls of his parishioners. To him the Church wishes them to be bound by ties of reverence, love, gratitude and co-operation. Where these sentiments flourish, Catholic life is flourishing, those in whom such a spirit is lacking are usually deficient as Catholics. Hence, the importance of praying for a flourishing parish life.

EDUCATORS VISIT HISTORIC SCHOOL

The old Ursuline Convent, in New Orleans, a pioneer among Catholic girls' schools in the United States, and founded in 1727, will soon have restored the famous garden that adorned the front grounds of the structure, in a plan to preserve the old school and other historic buildings in the French Quarter of New Orleans. The re-established garden will be a replica of the first botanical garden in this country. It will be a center of interest to the delegates to the 38th annual convention of the National Catholic Educational Association, to be held in New Orleans, April 16 to 18. (N.C.W.C.)

An Easter Thought

hearts shrdlu shrdlu shrdlu shrd hearts shrdlu shrdlu shrdlu shrd

The sentiments which filled the hearts of the three Marys as they journeyed to the sepulchre on the first Easter morning must have been somewhat like our own at the present time. They were crushed beneath a weight of sorrow. They had lost Him Whom they loved so well. They were shocked by the violence of hate and force hurled at Him Who was the Essence of pity and charity. Now His Body lay entombed beneath the mighty stone which was meant to destroy forever the glory of His work of redemption.

And looking they saw the stone rolled back. For it was very great.

With that sight hope was reborn in the hearts of these three faithful women, just as it should be in our own souls today. The agonies of our present passion-tide wherein might become the proof of right, wholesale slaughter the prerogative of nations, have not sealed our future beneath the great stone of hate, force and distrust. Easter 1941 dawns for us as did the joyful morning of the Resurrection our wish is that the hope and love of the Risen Saviour may attend every friend of the mission cause each day during this blessed season.

I'd Walk a Mile For . . .

It is not only the debutante that you see blowing smoke circles or the busy oil king chewing on the end of an imported Cuban cigar or the lackadaisical farmer philosophically puffing the well-used corn cob pipe. No indeed the art or habit of smoking tobacco is part of the every day life of the Jamaicans and goes under the category of juggling or trickery. Why in Jamaica even the women imbibe, despite age or refinement.

Father Francis G. Deevy, S.J. missionary in Jamaica, B.W.I. says "They use a short stemmed clay pipe black and strong. Fuel for the pipe is usually Jackass rope and it is well named. It lies in teh market like coils of rope and is sold by the yard. One yard would do me a lifetime. One pipeful judging by the fragrance would be more than enough. My delicate lungs could not stand it but the country people, even the women like their tobacco strong. A cigarette lacks character if smoked in the orthodox way. It must be smoked with the burning end in the mouth. Given a little practice, a Jamaican woman can flip a cigarette from one end to the other, puffing alternately at each, and never touch her fingers to it. She doesn't burn herself either though. I am dubious on that point. It should be very diverting."

Presence of Mind

Would you enjoy the prospect of being greeted, as you step from your front door by the most ferocious of animals, the king of the jungle? If you think you would, here is a tale to confirm or change that opinion.

"An Oblate Father was riding on his bicycle to the outlying villages of his district in Urundi. Suddenly, in a clearing of the forest he came upon lions. What could he do? To retreat was futile! To attack meant certain death! One course remained and this he took. Father headed directly towards the lions, ringing his bell as loudly as possible. The lions, astounded by the sight of a machine which they never saw before and bewildered by the sound of the bell, turned and fled. The conquerer rode on after the shortest successful combat ever staged between one man and six lions."

According To The Doctor

Most people cannot resist temptation to step on a scale when one happens to be handy. But how many of them believe the story it tells.

The reading of a scale often indicates more than a person's actual weight in pounds. It is sometimes a prediction of the future.

If the scale shows that you are losing weight rapidly, and if you know of no reasonable explanation for such a loss, you had best heed the warning and consult a doctor. For loss of weight is often a symptom of tuberculosis.

There are several common danger signals of tuberculosis. They include loss of weight, tiring too easily, loss of appetite, indigestion, a cough that hangs on and, blood spitting.

These are nature's warning that something is wrong. It may mean the dreaded T. B. Let the doctor be your guide.

The Shadow of the Cross

One prayer alone my heart would pray
To you my dearest Lord, today.
"With love of Thee my poor heart fill
And then do with me what You will."

If, with a cross, my love You'd test,
Oh let it on my shoulder rest,
And break my heart until it bleed
Since You are near to meet my need.

As I walk in the shadow of the Cross
Teach me to count the world but dross
For if its shadow mark our path,
Heaven will be the aftermath.

Easter Sunday

Resurrection! Victory over death! The radiant cross symbolizes for us the story of triumph over suffering. What more fitting symbol on a monument or headstone than this age-old expression of our faith.

Let us assist you in planning for a monument, headstone or marker that will have a truly religious significance.

QUERIES and REPLIES

Q. Is it wrong to see a fortune-teller just to see what they say and not to believe in them?

A. This would not be wrong in itself unless there were danger of gradually believing in him. Again, one must avoid scandal giving; you may be giving a bad example to others.

Q. Why are lighted candles used at the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass and in other religious functions?

A. There is a twofold reason for the use of candles. In the early days of the Church this was the principal means of illumination and hence candles served a definite need, particularly during the times of persecution when many of the sacred functions had to be administered in dark caves and underground passages; symbolically they represent the faith which should ever burn brightly in the hearts of all true believers.

Getting On In The World

The one chap in the world who doesn't deserve much sympathy and who generally doesn't get it is the Whiner.

He is forever complaining the way things turn out — always wrong. He can name two or three or ten or twelve other people who were the cause of his failure. If they had worked with him, the lot of his life would be different. He would have succeeded.

Instead, to hear him tell it, the whole world seems to conspire against him. He is so occupied with whinning that he hasn't time for doing any job well.

He relies upon the other fellow to do the greater share of what makes for success. He expects others to busy themselves making things easy for him making the path smooth. When he does stumble over an obstacle he is furious, not at himself for being unable to conquer it, but at somebody else some indefinite thing, or the whole world.

Whenever the temptation to whine gets hold of you, just yourself into action. Do something quick—hard labor, exercise, anything to keep from brooding from self-pity. Whining is a waste of time, also a sign of mental deficiency as well as lack of character.

Shrine Replica

New Iberia.—A replica of the Lourdes shrine is being erected on the campus of St. Peter's College as a memorial to the deceased members of St. Peter's Parish. It is made possible through the New Iberia Deanery Council of the National Council of Catholic Women. It will be under a live oak tree facing a street which is part of the Old Spanish Trail.
