Warm Weather Brings Urge To Eat Outdoors

Outdoor eating has always been an American custom. While picnicking is a popular summer pastime it is not necessarily limited to Sundays or week-ends. Week-day dinners, prepared out of doors are especially delightful during the warmer periods and Sunday breakfasts, eaten in the open, becomes a real treat.

The greatest fun in eating out of doors is to have informal meals, simple but hearty. Grilled meats are usually the mainstay of such meals. While an outdoor fireplace is a great convenience, there are on the market a number of portable grills of various sizes and types that will give the desired results and may be used either at home, in the garden, or when picnicking in the country.

What's Needed

Certain equipment will make the preparation and serving of food out of doors quite simple. Among this equipment might be included a fitted basket, including plates, cups, the necessary cutlery and napkins, salt and pepper shakers and a can opener and bottle opener. A portable grill of the type previously mentioned should be included. With this the necessary matches, ketchup, mustard, etc., should not be forgotten. Heat-proof asbestos gloves are also handy to have along. An aluminum cooking outfit of the proper capacity should include at least a boiling pot, a steaming pot and a coffee pot, although coffee may be made in the steaming pot. Paper towels are a handy item to carry.

Variety

In planning any outdoor meal, it is advisable not to try to cook more than two or three articles of the menu at the spot. The rest of the meal may consist of food that has previously been prepared at home. Foods especially adapted to out of door cooking are chops and steaks, to be either fried or grilled, wieners to be boiled or roasted over the open fire, canned corned beef hash, ham or bacon and egg corn on the cob, baked and fried potatoes, Hamburgers and ground steak are probably the favorites.

One of the high spots of the summer Sunday is breakfast prepared and eaten out of doors. A suggested menu consists of fruit, coffee, fried ham, pancakes and syrup and coffee. Get the ham in 1/4 inch cuts between 1/4 inch and 1/2 inch in thickness. It should be broiled very slowly, keeping it well away from the coals. The pancakes may be made on a griddle or on a plain sheet-iron cover. Syrup may be prepared beforehand or on the spot.

Home Show Cited As City Asset

By JAMES E. GOUTREMOULT
Chairman, Real Estate Board
Home Show Committee

Members of the Real Estate Board of Rochester feel that they are doing a definite public service in staging a complete Home Show here for the third successive year. There are undoubtedly many, many people in Rochester and the surrounding territory who are planning to build new homes this year or to remodel their present homes. These people will all be at the Home Show in the Civic Exhibit Building a complete and up-to-the-minute exhibition of every thing have to do with modern home-planning and home-building. They will see the latest building materials, and the use and application of these materials will be demonstrated. They will receive many suggestions as to what to do with the basement, what to do with the attic, the spare-room, etc.—suggestions that may be easily and inexpensively changed to their own individual needs.

Most important of all, perhaps, will be the attention given to the vital subject of home-financing. All of the latest information will be made available in every Home Show visitor.

But the general public is not the only group that will benefit directly from the Home Show. Many business and industrial are allied with the building trade. Every one of these organizations—great and small—is going to feel the beneficial effect of the Home Show, not just during the show period, but for many months to come.

It is only reasonable to believe that, as a direct result of the Home Show, Rochester will become a better, cleaner, more comfortable city in which to live.

Finally, the Home Show will be a builder of prestige for the City of Rochester. Many visitors from out of town are going to visit our show. Some of them will be able to make comparisons of it with other shows of a similar nature staged in other parts of the country. This year, as in the past, the Rochester Home Show will be worthy of favorable comparison with any Home Show anywhere in the nation.

The quality of the Rochester Home Shows does not remain stationary. It moves constantly and consistently forward. This year's Home Show will surely be a step ahead of the last. It will be just as last year's show was better than the one of the year before.

Altars Needed

Many of our mission chapels are in need of Altars. Some missionaries are offering Mass on boards that are nailed together and are held up at the ends by boxes. You can give an Altar to a mission chapel for Fifty Dollars. It would mean a lot to some mission.

THE SICK POOR

Sisters in Holy Land Have Seven Dispensaries

Some months ago we wrote about the Sisters of the Rosary in the Holy Land. We received from Archbishop Testa, the Apostolic Delegate in Jerusalem, the following letter: "The hardest of all things to do is to give one's self to give away money is often difficult, but to give your life, your time and your energy is much harder."

Every day I see this in the activities of the Sisters of the Rosary in Palestine and Transjordan. They have seven dispensaries. They have day after day for the sick poor. Catholics and non-Catholics, Mohammedans all come to them with their ailments. I have seen men covered with sores, children with all sorts of diseases waited on and cared for by these Sisters. Their good example, their unselfish devotion have won for us many converts.

Today, with everything upset by the war, their task is more difficult. The people here are becoming poorer, and so more of them are asking for help. The Sisters are terribly poor. They need assistance.

"When I visit them, they do not complain, but ask me to write you for money to buy medicines. The good they do and can do is limited only by the amount they can spend on supplies."

"I know you will do something for them. Five Dollars in American Money will buy a lot of medicine."

These women should be helped. We leave the case in the hands of our readers. We know they will reply.

GREGORIAN MASSES

Read our pamphlet on Gregorian Masses. It explains the old custom of offering a Mass every day for thirty days for one who is deceased. Write for a copy. It is free.

LONELY MISSIONARY

The missionary must spend Easter in Christmas in his mission center. He thinks of home and friends. Ask this priest to offer Holy Mass for your intentions.

Better Homes Better Living

by the Housing Editor

The custom of serving meals out of doors in the Summer has increased considerably in popularity during the past few years.

Many small homes now have porches or terraces attached to the kitchen. Dining under the stars or on an attractive porch is as convenient as dining inside, and much more pleasant.

Older homes which unfortunately do not have outdoor dining space may be provided with a terrace or porch wherever there is open space accessible from the kitchen. An addition of this kind need not be expensive and can be financed under the Modernization Credit Plan of the Federal Housing Administration. Funds for the work may be obtained from a qualified lending institution.

balls. Place on floured pie tin; brush with cold milk and bake about 15 minutes in hot oven. While warm break in half; butter each biscuit; put into dish and pour berries over. Serve hot with hard sauce.

Ham Rosettes
Cut a slice of loafed ham for each serving and, without peeling the edge place in shallow nipped baking pan. On every slice place a heaping teaspoon of well seasoned, hot mashed potatoes. Top with slice of tomato, dusted lightly with salt and pepper. Bake in hot oven. The sides of the ham curl up a trifle and make it appear like a cup. Time in cooking, 15 minutes; temperature, 400 degrees.

YOUR HOME MAY BE PUT IN GOOD REPAIR, REMODELED, REDECORATED ON THE FHA PLAN

FHA-insured Modernization Loans may be used for repairs, redecorating, or remodeling; for structural changes; for the installation of modern conveniences; for some types of new construction such as a garage; and for landscaping. Payments are made conveniently out of monthly income.

Home Life Is True Foundation of Society

By RT. REV. MGR. WM. M. HART, V.G.

Rochester is a home city. This has been its glory in days past, it is its pride today. A home in the best sense is a permanent possession of the family: a rented house or an apartment may have its good points, but it can never be the center about which can rise the lasting memories of life and death of birth and growth of parents and children that so solemnly consecrate the home that belongs to the family. What is true of Rochester is true likewise of Elmira and Corning of Hornell and Ithaca of Geneva and Auburn. Each of these cities numbers a majority of homeowners among its citizens and finds in them the surest guarantee of continued healthy growth.

A good home is made up of father and mother with the children, all brought together by the blessing of Almighty God to dwell in one house. Recall the benediction pronounced by the Holy Writers in the Old Testament: "They will like a fruitful vine within thy home: who maketh the childless woman to dwell in a home as the joyful mother of children." Four walls alone do not make a home; plaster and brick and mortar and wood can never build a true home. All of these go to make the edifice, the house, which becomes a home only through the consecrating influence of family life. Unless the Lord build the home they labor in vain that build it. And the Lord builds the home through the ministry of a devoted father, a loving mother, and dutiful children.

Home Show Includes Latest Improvements

Numerous model houses will be displayed together with complete floor plans. Many of these miniature homes will be completely landscaped and will be set on revolving pedestals to afford a better and more comprehensive view of the Home Show will include numerous features of a purely entertaining nature. There will be a modified version of the Eastman Kodak Company's beautiful "Cavalade of Color" which attracted such enthusiastic comment at the World's Fair in New York. There will be a real old-fashioned Punch and Judy show featuring Ajax, Jolly Jans and his puppet. There will be Marshall Montgomery, well-known ventriloquist, and his walking and talking doll.

Hours of the Show will be soon to 11 P. M. daily. In view of the large attendance figures established for Rochester Home Shows in the past it is predicted by the Show Management that well over 40,000 Western New Yorkers will visit the Show during its seven-day period.

NEEDS IN HOME

But it would be wrong to deny the need that these little things of a material nature give to the home. Family life profits by the comfort and convenience they offer. Primitive conditions were essential only when better conditions were not available. The man should think a leaky roof or a tumble-down shack type of architecture are in themselves desirable. There is far more poetry and beauty in a house that is well constructed, light against all weather conditions, and affording the modern conveniences that the electrician and plumber supply. A happy family is better as a family than an unhappy one. Happiness is somewhat dependent on comfort; therefore a modern, comfortable home makes for better and larger family life.

Little wonder then that the Church is interested in Better Homes! Most natural that a Church paper should assist the National Home Show. The pastor in his parish cares for all his flock, but places greater reliance on those who own their homes and are accordingly permanent parishioners. He rejoices with each parishioner who attains the dignity of a home-ownership. Some of the earliest pastors were the trusted advisers of their parishioners, and counseled them in the actual building or purchasing of the family home. The great Encyclopaedia of the Pope has emphasized the owning of a home as a desirable and natural equipment of a family.

The CATHOLIC COURIER, step towards perfection in the recommendations of all its readers' articles, considers that a home can mean to a family. Let the young married man look forward to the day when he can call the house in which he lives his own possession. What a wise thing for those contemplating marriage to be the very best home available.

Show Gives Impetus To Home Building

By E. CLINTON WOLCOTT
First Federal Home Loan

The Home Show this year should prove especially interesting to the family of average income desirous of the security of a home. Because 1941 promises to offer greater opportunity for building. This is due partly to the fact that wages are rising, employment is becoming more widespread.

As the defense program reaches out into more and more industries, the prosperity natural to increased business activity is making itself apparent to America. It is well known that the more money that is put into your pocket, the more money you have to spend. It is not a natural property, but of natural activity. It is a property which may or may not last permanently in the sense that it is not a permanent work has increased. We must be prepared for either alternative.

Wise investors are turning their increased earnings into more permanent security for the future. They are putting their money into home ownership. It is well known that a man and his family have inexhaustible patience. Because under the old-fashioned method of payment the principal remained untouched year after year. Payment after payment applied simply on the interest charged for the loan. The principal remained the same.

The modern type of mortgage—the direct-reduction method—enables a man to own a home. All that is needed is a small down payment. The rest of the money can be borrowed and then repaid in convenient monthly sums.

As a result of this easy-on-the-income home ownership plan, American has more homes per family than any other nation. With more Americans gaining employment, this ratio will probably increase. America will have the valuable inner security of a contented people.
