The chorus will include approximately twenty-five members of the Sodality.

SOCIAL LISTED APRIL 23

The L. C. B. A. is conducting an Easter Social after their next meeting on Wednesday evening, April 23. This affair will be for the Junior and Senior members and will provide a fine time for all. Much effort has been put into the planning of this social, and everything is being done to make it a success.

The School Collection will be taken up on the last Sunday of the month, April 27.

The new parking lot accommodated 72 cars last Sunday. Plans have been made for 48 more this week. Policeman Homer Pulver will again be on hand to direct traffic. Parishioners have expressed their satisfaction with the parking lot, as it facilitates traffic after services and keeps the street open for moving traffic. Much congestion is avoided now that the parishioners have a place to park their machines as the new lot has already eased the traffic situation.

Volley ball courts have now been erected for the children. This not only provides an opportunity to get much needed exercise but it also keeps the children off the streets and supplies a safe place for them to play.

The wedding of Rita N. Ames to Eugene Cushman was solemnized Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock with the Rev. George M. Kalb, pastor, officiating. The Nuptial High Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Francis C. Waterstraat.

Attendants at the wedding were Margaret Ames, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, and Paul Propson of East Rochester as best man.

The schedule of Masses will remain the same for another month. Masses are at 7, 8:15, 9:30 and 11.

FUNDS SOLICITED FOR FIRST CHURCH SINCE 1836

KINGSTON, Ont.—This episcopal seat of Ontario's oldest see has had but one Catholic Church since 1836 when Kingston Diocese was set up the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception. Now plans are under way for the erection of a second parish in this city to be dedicated to St. John the Apostle.

In the appeal sent out to the 1,000 Catholic families in Kingston the committee in charge adds this forceful reminder:

"Don't forget—we have the rare privilege of subscribing towards the construction of a new church; we are not faced with the tragic task of rebuilding a beloved old one torn to pieces by bombs or shells. Thousands of Catholics in England, France, Holland, Belgium and other European countries face the cheerless prospect amid their own homes may be in ruins too. We are so well off in Canada that we sometimes forget our happy lot."

Get Bequests

Philadelphia. — Seven Catholic charitable institutions will share most of the $87,000 estate of Miss Mary F. Mullen, who died here last month. The benefitted institutions include the Seminary of St. Charles Borromeo; the Little Sisters of the Poor; St. Joseph's Home for Homeless Industrious Boys; St. Joseph's Home for Orphan Girls; the Society for the Propagation of the Faith; the Sisters of the Perpetual Adoration here, and St. Mary's Institute for the Blind, Lansdale.

Getting On In The World

Beware too sublime a sense
Of your own worths and consequence.

One of the most uninteresting and downright disgusting things to run into is a man whose head is filled with an exalted idea of his own importance. On closer inspection you will find his brain so small that there isn't room for two ideas.

The pompous chap although he generally doesn't know it—is most tedious. He is forever busying himself trying to impress people with his importance. If he holds a superior position, his subordinates may (because of necessity) act toward him as if he really were great—and behind his back smile at his pomposity. If he is an inferior, he often gets that stuffed-shirt idea knocked out of him.

If you find yourself strutting about in a superior fashion, there is only one cure — humility, and plenty of it. No matter how good you are in your own line there are hundreds who are better. And even if you're tops in your field, you most probably are a complete dunce in fifty other lines.

Aiming high is a noble quality. To think that you're arrived at the top when you really haven't is ignoble, irrational, and unfair to others as well as yourself.

'MOUNTAIN MEADOW,' BOOK BY JOHN BUCHAN, CHOSEN

NEW YORK (NC) — "Mountain Meadow," by John Buchan, is the April selection of the Catholic Book Club. It is published by Houghton, Mifflin Company here.

Reviewing Mr. Buchan's volume in the Catholic Book Club's Newsletter, Francis X. Connolly says the book "combines the virtues of a travel book, an adventure, a detective story and a psychological thriller." "A companion piece to John Buchan's autobiographical 'Pilgrim's Way,' it is in many ways a spiritual testament, tonic in its honesty, tolerance and humility," says the reviewer. "It abounds in sharp characterizations and in a quiet confidence in the sword of the spirit."

One cloud is enough to eclipse all the sun.

Home Needs

John Boyle O'Reilly, Irish-American poet, was in many respects a pioneer among Catholic interracialists in this country. He dedicated to Crispus Attucks, Negro martyr in the Revolutionary War, one of America's most inspiring historical poems. After the Civil War he wrote in their defense: "The destiny of the colored American is one of the big problems to be worked out in the life of this Republic."

It was after this same time of their emancipation that the system of sharecropping was introduced as a tentative plan to feed the thousands of recently freed slaves. However, today the system still exists. The sharecropper is a farm tenant who has nothing to invest in exchange for his rent save the labor of himself and his family. The average sharecropper lives a hopeless existence with nothing to look forward to but the prospects of another years' labor with no recompense, another year to go further into debt another year of sickness and undernourishment. In most states he cannot even vote since he is not able to pay poll tax. Having no vote he is a prey to every politician who has friends in different departments of the country, state and federal.

It is among these people that our Home Missionaries are working, trying to plant the seed of trust and hope in God. They cannot be successful if we American Catholics are not willing to help.

Science and Religion

An "I-told-you-so" attitude is not what we wish to flaunt before all who have held that Catholicity conflicts with and condemns science. But a certain smugness is the human reaction upon reading Life's account of the scientific research now being conducted in Florida under the auspices of the Institutum Divi Thomae in Cincinnati. Pictures of nuns investigating marine life illustrate the article which tells of the work being done by them. Life says:

"The Institutum is concerned with the fundamental nature of the living cell. These studies have made important contributions to cancer research . . . The Institutum today is recognized as one of the country's outstanding organizations for research on the frontier of pure science."

Another contribution to the field of science is in the process of completion. "Fathers Francis and Louis Keenoy, S.J., twin priests, have discovered what is described as a new high-speed de-icing fluid, a boon to airmen. It melts ice at 40 degrees below zero. They demonstrated their discovery at the recent meeting of the National Jesuit Science Association in Chicago."

A-Tisket-A-Tasket

Instead of "Bundles for Britain" the Marist Father Deihle, is interested in "Baskets from Samoa."

"We have a new war industry —baskets," he writes. "It's an ill wind that blows nobody good. New Zealand housewives, because of shortage of wrapping paper and restrictions on gasoline, are carrying home their store purchases. Samoan women have always made baskets of every description, but today they are making them more than ever: there's a big market for them in New Zealand and the Post Office is stacked high with them for each boat."

confirmed New Yorker. He's being married in New York this week. Interviewed Betty Field as she made up in her dressing room before curtain. Miss Field is to leave the cast of "Flight to the West" in order to return to Hollywood. She hated movies before she made "Of Mice and Men." Now she loves them. She won't commit herself about the rumors that she is to play Maria in "For Whom the Bell Tolls." George David's wife and daughter, Ann, arrived in New York and joined us at the evening performance of "Arsenic and Old Lace," which is surely the most outrageously hilarious play in years.

Friday: A day of missed interviews. Robert E. Sherwood had been unexpectedly called to Washington and playwright Elmer Rice was starting a series of lectures at Yale earlier than he had planned. Missed interviews with Sylvia Sidney, Ray Milland, Jean Muir and Boris Karloff due to a combination of unfortunate circumstances. Saw the Walt Disney-Leopold Stokowski marvel, "Fantasia" —and Miss Dorothy Thompson, you can go to the foot of the class. Nazi indeed! Watched John L. Lewis coddling some clam chowder and then to "Lady in the Dark" for a before-curtain interview with Bert Lytell. The show itself is one more proof of Gertrude Lawrence's versatility and it also has the remarkable young Danny Kaye. Caught a glimpse of lovely Nancy Carroll in the audience and Genevieve Tobin was there too.

Saturday: Last day of a full week. Called Sylvia Sidney to see if the missed interview could be straightened out but it was impossible to get together on time. Lunch at Sardi's. Sterling Holloway, Elissa Landi, Philip Merivale and Patricia Collinge among those present. To matinee of "Native Son," a terrific play that leaves you limp and completely exhausted emotionally after you have seen it. Orson Welles produced it. He has certainly become the white-haired boy of Hollywood and Broadway again but the play itself is wholly objectionable in theme. Interviewed Canada Lee, the ex-pug, ex-bandleader, who has the role of Bigger Thomas. Lee shows no semblance of cockiness or conceit because of his amazing success in this—his biggest Broadway role—and probably the finest masculine performance on Broadway this season. He's a very real and very likable person still a little bewildered by his success and sincerely humble about it, trying to pass all of the credit on to Wells. With Adrienne Ames went to Hotel Pierre between shows. Gossiped with Raphael Hakim, French producer of such films as "Baker's Wife" and "Pepe Le Moko." Among others present — Phillips Holmes, Elissa Landi, Ina Claire and others. Just managed to make the rowdy musical, "Pal Joey" in time for curtain and missed interviews with Frances Starr and Paul Lukas in order to make the train. Everything was fine—until the conductor came along. Springer had lost his ticket. Anyway, it was a grand trip—and thanks, George David, for the invitation.

(John Springer is heard at 10 A. M. over WHAM every Saturday morning, rather than at 10:15 as formerly.)

Passports' Color Now Is Green; Others Invalid

WASHINGTON — If you are planning a trip to some foreign country you had better make sure your passport is green, and not red.

The old style red passports are invalid, effective yesterday, the State Department advises. All travelers leaving the United States for foreign points must now have the new style passport, green in color.

Those planning to travel abroad and possessing potentially valid red passports are advised to submit them for exchange. They must be accompanied by two recent photographs and full information concerning travel plans.

The State Department has not yet fixed the date on which the old style passports now in use abroad are to be declared invalid and withdrawn from circulation.

Papal Delegate Visits Italian Prisoners

VATICAN CITY — With the permission of the British authorities, His Excellency the Most Rev. Gustave Testa, Apostolic Delegate to Egypt and Palestine, has paid a visit to a concentration camp where Italian prisoners of war are held in Egypt.

He has reported that the Italian soldiers received him with many manifestations of gratitude for the interest in them shown by the Holy Father. Religious services, he said, have been satisfactorily arranged for their spiritual comfort.

Will Aids Charities

Baltimore.—Five Catholic institutions share in the estate of Mrs. Mary J. Kearney, according to the will filed in Orphan's Court here. Mrs. Kearney left $52,000 to the Bureau of Catholic Charities, $1,000 to St. Vincent's Male Orphan Asylum, $200 each to the Carmelite Sisters and the Little Sisters of the Poor, and $100 to St. Elizabeth's Home of Baltimore.
