St. Andrew's Parish

PARISH FEAST DAY SUPPER

On the occasion of the celebration of the feast day of the pastor of St. Andrew's, the Rev. George W. Eckl, on Wednesday, April 23, the Rosary Society has arranged a parish feast day supper.

St. Andrew's Hall on Portland Ave., the place for this celebration, will take on the aroma of "Delicious Roast Beef," in memory of the conquering of the dragon by St. George. Supper will be served from 5:30 to 8:00 P. M. on that night.

This will prove to be a very gala occasion in the history of the parish. After the supper, games will be played and special entertainment will be offered.

Mrs. Jacob Bauer, president of the Rosary Society is chairlady of the supper, to be assisted by the members of that society. Tickets at 50 cents have been sent to all the families of the parish.

The Boy Scout Committee has set Wednesday, April 30, as the occasion for its Spring Court of Honor. Plans are being made to hold this affair in the Church, the first time St. Andrew's will see this Catholic Scout investiture ceremony in church.

The Sodality of St. Andrew's held its April meeting on Monday at 8:00 o'clock in the school hall. The shrine was beautifully erected by Gloria Bossert, Irma D. Argento and Dorothy Richert.

The principal business of the meeting called to order by Evelyn Contestable was the voting upon for a May queen and her attendants. The results will be published only on the day of the crowning which is scheduled for the last week of May. The list of eligible Sodalists was compiled from the twenty highest young ladies on the activity points list.

Father Wurst addressed the assembled group outlining the plan of the Holy Name Society to the draftees from the parish. The Sodality has been sponsoring a letter a month to each of the men from the parish who are in the camp.

A double or nothing quiz program was conducted by Virginia Sullivan which was very enjoyable and netted cash prizes to the contestants. Refreshments were served and dancing to new records rounded out the evening, under Catherine Bauerschmidt.

Members of the Sodality of Our Lady and the Junior Holy Name Society will receive corporate Holy Communion at the 9 o'clock Mass next Sunday. Some of the members of the Junior Holy Name Society will act as altar boys and all those receiving will participate in a Missa Recitata.

The Junior Holy Name Society will hold its postponed April meeting next Monday, 8 o'clock, in the school hall. Refreshments and a full program are planned.

Priest Lauded For Labor Settlement

HONOLULU — The Rev. John M. Coulehan, pastor of Sacred Heart Church and Spiritual Director of the Diocesan Union of the Holy Name Society, has been praised by Joseph B. Poindexter, Governor of Hawaii, for his service on the three-man fact finding committee that worked toward the settlement of the month-long transportation strike.

Governor Poindexter said the fact finding committee "had a great deal to do with settling the strike." "Father Coulehan and the committee worked hard at all hours, and I'm sure that their efforts were largely instrumental in ending the strike," he said.

Father Hickey Dies

Cincinnati — The Rev. George F. Hickey, chaplain of Mount Notre Dame Academy, Reading, O., and former Pastor of several Ohio churches, died Sunday at Good Samaritan Hospital here after an illness of several months. He was 73.

More Than Color

By Mary Mosser Mauger

Issued by the National Kindergarten Association, 8 West 40th Street, New York City. These articles are appearing weekly in our columns.

Sally is not yet five. When spring came last year, she took a sudden interest in flowers. Before this she had liked to smell them and seemed to admire their bright colors. But this spring, flowers came alive for Sally.

She asked endless questions. How did they grow? Did they eat and sleep like she did? Had they a mother and daddy?

I did the best I could in answering the questions. First, I explained that they lived underground all winter. It was warm and cosy there. Then in the spring, when the sun shone brightly, they came out to see the world. Even Sally I said, did not come into the garden very much when the earth and air were cold. I explained that the leaves mingled with peat moss, which I was putting on the flower beds, was their food.

Sally trailed along after me, deeply interested in all I did. She even tried to use the rake. And finally one afternoon she announced, "Mommy me want a garden too."

I laughed. "Why, of course," I said. "Of course you shall have a garden."

Secretly I was rather ashamed that Sally had had to suggest it. When I was a child, we lived with my grandmother in a tiny apartment in a very large city. Granny was an amazing woman. Almost the first thing I remember is that, when spring approached she took us down to the five-and-ten-cent store and bought the three largest flower pots they had. Later these were filled with dirt and perched on our bedroom window sills and thereafter known as our gardens. Mine was green. Then each child was advised to save up five cents with which to buy seeds. We did this. It took Brother John the longest, I remember, but he finally purchased his seeds, too.

I insisted that I wanted daisies. And daisies I had, as fine a crop as any youngster ever grew.

Yes, Granny was an amazing woman. Even in a tiny apartment she understood and satisfied a child's longing for things that grow.

So my Sally was given a small plot of her own. It was not in a corner hidden out of sight, because, even if it should become a little weedy, I wanted her to be proud of it. Sally's garden was about four-foot square and soon became a riot of color. She had a tiny watering can of her own, a rake and a hoe. The flowers did not arrive exactly at the places she planted them; but they came up! In spite of all her digging and poking with her fingers, they came up.

Sally loved to give her flowers away, too. She hadn't very many, but what she had—she gave. And that is another lesson of childhood: to give.

Flowers that blossom under our care bring a satisfaction that money alone cannot buy. They are the regard of patience and devotion. There is more to a flower than mere color. Sally has learned that.

PHILIPPINES' PRESIDENT MAKES TWO RETREATS

QUEZON CITY, P. I.—President Manuel L. Quezon, of the Commonwealth, has made two spiritual retreats since his illness six months ago.

The first was conducted by the Rev. Francis Cosgrave, C.SS.R., local Superior of the Redemptorist Fathers, with the President as the lone retreatant at the temporary presidential home just outside of Manila. The second retreat was given by Father Cosgrave also, but to a larger number, headed by the President and his family, and by prominent government officials and their families. This was conducted only a few weeks after the first at the President's country home in Mariquina, Rizal.

St. Stephen Urged As Exemplar For Times

VATICAN CITY — Calling for greater fidelity to Christ and His Commandments in these difficult times, His Eminence Justinian Cardinal Seredi, Primate of Hungary, in a pastoral letter, urges his faithful to follow the example of St. Stephen, first King of Hungary.

Domestic and public as well as national and international life should follow the advice and example of Stephen, His Eminence declares. On the basis of this teaching, His Eminence writes, present world problems could be easily solved and eternal justice, truth and charity would be established.

GOD'S GIFTS

Planting a seed is a marvelous thing.
Trusting God's sunshine and rain to bring

To perfect beauty, a lovely flower,
Or ripe fruit and grain—the sower's dower.

No scientist tells us just how it's done,
Of knowledge beyond us, we have none.

We've learned to have faith in Nature's laws,
And in God's creations, we find no flaws.

From budding springtime, till fall days wane,
And swirling red leaves scatter after cool rain.

Does this Great Magician, year after year,
Send freely, such bounty, such beauty and cheer.

Also we glimpse a heaven on earth
A spiritual harvest of infinite worth!
