Holy Rosary Parish
AUXILIARY MEETING

Ladies Auxiliary Knights of St. John No 282 will hold its regular monthly meeting next Monday evening April 28 in the school hall All members are urged to attend.

Study Pope's Peace Talks At Special Meet

Rochester Branches of the Catholic Central Verein of America and the National Catholic Women's Union will hold a special meeting on May 2 at St. Joseph's Hall. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the radio broadcasts of Pope Pius XII delivered on November 24 and December 24, 1940, in behalf of peace.

The branches determined that the contents of these broadcasts should be more widely circulated and the subject treated fully discussed. It is hoped that the May 2 meeting and subsequent meetings will acquaint the members and others attending the meetings with the fundamental principles laid down by the Holy Father as a condition of a just peace.

This determination was arrived at during the joint meeting of the branches held last Sunday afternoon. It followed a discussion of the five points laid down by Pope Pius XII in his December 24, 1940, broadcast. Former County Judge Philip H. Donnelly read the points and commented on them. A general discussion followed after which the decision to hold the special meetings was made.

Plans for attending the regional conference of the State Branch of the Catholic Central Verein to be held at Utica, April 27, were talked over, and as many as possible were urged to be present. It is expected that a number sufficient to have a special car will go from Rochester. Those intending to make the trip may inquire of Charles H. Mura, Secretary of the Men's Branch.

Harry deCocq, Chairman of the Expansion Drive Fund, reported that considerable progress had been made and that Rochester would make a creditable showing.

Action was taken by the Branches at the suggestion of the Central Bureau in regard to the pamphlet furnished by the Bureau and to be given to each selectee by his pastor before the selectee leaves for camp.

At the conclusion of the meeting the members enjoyed a social hour. The social hour is an annual event and affords the members of both the men's and the women's branches an opportunity to become better acquainted. The social hour was in charge of the get acquainted committee of which Cornelius Schmitt is chairman. Benedict Ehmann entertained with two selections.

Table conversation should be cheerful and pleasant, and of such a nature that everyone may take part.

COURIER'S CURRENT CINEMA COMMENTS

By JOHN SPRINGER

The screen this week uses the trusted medium of comedy to cover a couple of timely themes in two pictures. "The Great Dictator" and "The Devil and Miss Jones." "The Great Dictator" has been covered in this column when it was first released. It, of course is satire on the dictatorships. The other picture, "Devil and Miss Jones," deals with strikes and strikers.

"Devil and Miss Jones"—A-1

Despite its theme, "Devil and Miss Jones" is completely unconcerned with social significance. But it has plenty of entertainment significance. And that is its purpose. Towards the end when it goes serious for a few moments, it lets down. In fact, the line of least resistance is followed in bringing it to a not-very-satisfactory conclusion. But the rest of it — all the way from the very clever introduction through — is bright and sprightly.

Although Jean Arthur is the nominal star, the picture belongs to Charles Coburn—lock, stock and barrel. Coburn as the richest man in the world — the introduction makes clear that he is a mythical character—gets a chance to use all the tricks of the trade and he knows them all. Miss Arthur is effective too, and so are Spring Byington, S. Z. Sakall, Edmund Gwenn and Robert Cummings. "Devil and Miss Jones" is certainly one of the bright spots of the screen season.

"Adam Had Four Sons"—A-2

A sort of hybrid offspring of "My Son, My Son" and "All This and Heaven Too" is "Adam Had Four Sons," which recounts a decade or two in the life of an American family. It's all very leisurely at times almost tedious. It holds few surprises. The movies have explored the lives of too many families of the same type.

The entrance of the character played by Susan Hayward — the promiscuous wife of one of the sons—serves to make things a little more lively but destroys what little reality the picture has had. The reactions of the people in the picture are the stock reactions of old-time melodrama.

It's a shame to see the sensitive Ingrid Bergman wasted in such a role as she plays. As the governess who loves the father of the family secretly, she must be sweet and noble and self-sacrificing. She's so noble that she becomes a little dull. Susan Hayward will probably be hailed as a great actress for her work as the wicked wife. Little ingenues who play nasty ladies generally get rave reviews. But Miss Hayward is a little too arch, a little too coy for conviction and the part is far from believable anyway. Fay Wray and Helen Westley have good bits, while Warner Baxter plods stolidly through his undemanding role. It's all well enough done but it seems quite undistinguished.

Meet Mr. Woollcott

The great man sat at a small table in his suite in the Seneca pouring coffee and talking about anything that popped into his head. An amazing variety of things popped into his head. Your COURIER Commentator interrupted the Woollcott flow of speech with occasional questions but on the whole, it was Mr. Woollcott's conversation—as any conversation in which he takes part must be.

His hair rumpled the horn-rimmed glasses perched on his nose, he looked like caricatures of himself—and a caricature of him invariably looks like an elderly owl. Famous names punctuated the conversation—Lynn and Alfred, Helen Hayes, Maurice Evans, Kit Cornell, Noel and others. He was to meet Mrs. Roosevelt at a banquet for Ethel Barrymore this week. He thinks that Orson Welles is a genius and reminisces that he found Welles' first job

He made his own personal nomination of Charles Laughton to play the Sheridan Whiteside role in the screen version of "Man Who Came to Dinner." Cary Grant is to have the role. "Who is Cary Grant?" queried Mr. Woollcott wickedly. "I have never seen him."

He is to start a new radio series in the fall. A new Woollcott book will emerge from the publishers next winter. He is enjoying his touring about the country with "The Man Who Came to Dinner"—but he plans no more movies. Movie work is torture he maintains. The only movie he really enjoyed making was the one in which he appeared with the Dionne Quintuplets. And the only reason he accepted the assignment is that it meant he could play with the Dionnes for six days. He wouldn't have been able to get into the nursery otherwise.

Now he's tired of traveling and he's planning to settle down someplace for a year. London would be his first choice for a place to settle, Peking second. He plans to settle down in Louisville.

Vocational High Invites Visitors

"Visit Vocational" on next Wednesday evening, April 30 is the invitation extended to CATHOLIC COURIER readers by Principal Roy F. Johncox, the faculty, and the boys and girls of the Saratoga Avenue High School at Jay Street.

Visitors will have an opportunity to inspect the building and equipment, to meet the faculty and student guides to view exhibits of the school's activities, and to observe VEND — Vocational Education for National Defense—classes in training.

Immaculate (Ithaca)
'OLD TYME' MINSTRELS

By MARY A. VENGO

ITHACA — The people of the Immaculate Conception Parish, Ithaca will present "Old Tyme Minstrels" under the direction of Edward Barron Sr. in Parish Hall, N. Geneva Street. There will be a matinee performance for children on Sunday afternoon, April 27 at 2 P. M. and two evening performances at 8 P. M. on April 28 and 30.

Minstrel show committee consists of the following: General Chairman W. Arthur Sprague assisted by the Misses Betty McGee and Anna Kane. Tickets, Miss Jane Gaherty. Publicity, Sam Woodside. Make-up, Mrs. James Hennessey and Miss Jane Henshaw. Costumes, Mrs. Francis O'Connell. Stage Technicians, Richard Calistri, John Boronkay, Glenn Shaff and Edward Dormandy. Treasurer, M. Harry Tewey. Pianists, Miss Anne Tressy and Harold "Red" Herson.

Endmen are Michael Leary, Clarence Wilcox, Walter Fisher, Edward Barron Sr., William McKay and John Burns. Mr. Burns will also sing "Alexander's Ragtime Band" which he sang a number of years ago on the same stage when it was first published. The Chorus consists of 30 boys and girls, members of local Catholic organizations.

Specialty numbers this year will bring back Robert Banfield, with his marimba, and William Sullivan with another famous dance. Others in this group are Clara Nardi, Barbara Clines, Mina Ciecchetti, Filbert Molella, Mary Nazer, Teresa Mignardi, and a Quartet from Ithaca College.

Interlocutor for this minstrel will be Bid TenEyck.

Large Audience Hails St. Bona's Glee Club

Featuring a new trend in Glee Club concerts, The St. Bonaventure college Gleemen scored a splendid success before an audience of 700 in their first appearance in the City of Rochester. The concert was sponsored by the Barons Club and was held April 17 at St. Monica's Hall.

Under the leadership of the Rev. Claude Kean, O.F.M., the thirty collegiate singers presented a gay, informal entertainment which appealed to the large audience. The generous and frequent applause gave full evidence that this type of program is exactly what the public wants.

Much credit must be given for the scope of the program as the group offers selections which run musically from A to Z. The skits and solos interspersed throughout offer a lightness to the program which drew much applause and frequent encores.

William De Maria acquitted himself capably as accompanist.

In rangy, the Gleemen moved from the familiar classics including Schubert's "Ave Maria" and "Pilgrim's Chorus" from Tannhauser through a medley from Romberg's "Student Prince" to Negro spirituals and oldtime ballads from the "hit parade" of 1900.

Numerous individual offerings revealed a showmanship on the part of every member that bespoke careful training and natural ability. With variety as the keynote and appeal as the goal, the St. Bonaventure Glee Club in its first appearance here, has scored a fine success and earned for itself a high place in the hearts of Rochester's music lovers.—E. W. E.

Rochester Girl Named May Queen

TARRYTOWN-ON-HUDSON — At the fifteenth annual May Day festivities which will be held on the campus of Marymount College Sunday afternoon, May 4, Miss Jane Butler Flynn, daughter of Dr. James M. Flynn of Rochester, N. Y. President of the New York State Medical Society, will be crowned queen of the May by Miss Rosemary Hogan of Baltimore Md., President of the Senior Class.

Miss Betty Connor of New Haven Conn., President of the Junior Class, has been named to head the procession of undergraduates. A programme of songs and dances has been arranged in honor of the queen and her court.

Miss Flynn, a graduate of Marymount Preparatory School, has been President of her class for three years and was elected President of the Student Council last May. A Biology major, she is also an active member of the Choral and Literary Clubs.

Miss Imogene Flynn of the Senior Class, designed the queen's dress as one of a series of dress designing projects. A period gown in white satin with inserted panels of blue silk velvet and a blue velvet train five yards in length, together with a golden tiara and floral sceptre complete the costume.

Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament will be given at the outdoor shrine immediately after the May Day exercises. After Benediction the graduates will form a procession to the Butler Memorial Crypt where the May Queen will please a wreath of flowers on the tomb of the late Very Reverend Mother Butler, foundress of the College.

'Open House' Listed At Edison Tech

Efforts of the Rochester public school system to train youths for jobs in industry will be demonstrated at Edison Technical and Industrial High School, 725 Clifford Avenue, during the week beginning April 28.

Prospective pupils, parents and friends of pupils and others will be welcomed at the school during that week, which will be highlighted by an "open house" night on Wednesday, April 30.
