The national "May Party" held recently in Washington, D. C., under the auspices of the Washington Auxiliary of the National Catholic School of Social Service took place on the evening of Monday, May 6. A number of similar events occurred throughout the country the same evening. The faculty of the School looks forward to having a very busy summer. Following the closing of the school, the annual Institute on Industry will be held June 15-21. Early registration is requested of any who are interested in attending. Mrs. Hugh was the mother of 12 children. Although her devotion was to her family, she found time and opportunity to take a leading role in civic and charitable enterprises, especially in Catholic affairs.

The Institute will be followed by the meeting of the Chaplains of Penal Institutions who will make the school their headquarters during the week of the conference. The possibility of establishing a summer institute for prospective workers on the National Defense Program is being considered. It will be necessary for the National Catholic Service to build up a personnel of trained workers to be employed in the field of community organization and welfare work near training camps, naval and industrial areas which are growing up in different parts of the country. A great task is ahead in providing for such training of representative American Catholic citizens to prepare for meeting this great responsibility and opportunity. Going from the Chair of Laurens' statement in the April Message: "A training program and budget have been drafted and presented. The facility is equipped and eager to render extra service. Inspired by the convention that there can be no democracy without religion, no morals without morality, the Catholic women of America, through their National Council of Social Service, are going into the service for God and country in this emergency. The call has been issued. The Scholastic Society of the National Council of Catholic Women may well be happy that the institution which grew out of the World War in 1918 is ready to meet the emergency of another World War even more tragic in its consequences."

On Mary's Day, Saturday, May 10, our beloved Bishop will offer the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament at 12:00 noon. It always is the Saturday immediately preceding Mother's Day when tribute is paid our earthly Mothers.
