St. Margaret Mary's ALTAR SOCIETY PARTY

Final dessert card party of this season's series is being planned by St. Margaret Mary's Altar Society to be held in the School Auditorium in Rogers Parkway, Thursday, May 15 at 1:15 P. M.

Mrs. Alfred G. Klinkert, General Chairman of these afternoon events has appointed Mrs. Howard T. Murphy in charge of this last affair. They and the following committees are exerting every possible effort to achieve a success worthy of closing a term of delightful as well as gainful activities:

Reservations: Mrs. Lee Shanley and Mrs. Lee W. Troy.

Hostesses: Mrs. William McGee and Mrs. Raymond A. Michel.

Refreshments: Mrs. Edwin Byrne, Mrs. Edwin Heisinger, Mrs. Clarence Thomas, Mrs. Frank E. Cudek, Mrs. Edward Fischer, Mrs. Joseph Schilling, Mrs. Fred Hall, Mrs. Elmer Mahmucker, Mrs. Robert Quinn, Mrs. Joseph C. Breitung, Mrs. E. T. Slayton, Mrs. Harry Temple, Mrs. Frank Doyle, Mrs. Walter Boden.

Decorations: Mrs. Fred Messmer. Prizes: Mrs. Raymond Brauser and Mrs. Harold Sentiff. Tables: Mrs. Lawrence Ritz.

Cards and Tallies: Mrs. John Burke and Mrs. Walter Fritz. Cashier: Mrs. Walter Major. Publicity: Mrs. George N. Ruby.

'Be A Good Neighbor'

Holy Rosary Parish FR. FERGER TO SPEAK

The Holy Name Society will hear the Rev. Edward F. Ferger, pastor of St. Mary's Church, Batavia, at their next meeting, Monday, May 12. Father Ferger is a former editor of the Union & Echo, Catholic paper of Buffalo. He is a well known speaker and has done considerable traveling especially in Spain during the Civil War. He will speak on "The Search For A Final World Authority." His message will be of interest to the members because of his wide experience and capable speaking ability.

The Novena to the Blessed Sacrament has drawn a tremendous response from the people. The first edition of the novena pamphlets has been exhausted and a new supply was printed. The crowds which attend these Thursday services has been most gratifying. The Blessed Sacrament is on exposition all day on Thursday so that many who want to make the novena but cannot get there for the services, may make their own private novena. Numerous letters have come from the sick and shut-ins indicating that many more are making the novena than attend the service.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles F. Shay, pastor of the Holy Rosary Church, distributed First Holy Communion to 118 children of the parish on Sunday morning during the children's Mass. In keeping with the occasion, the first communicants, boys and girls, were dressed in white and carried a prayer book and rosary. After making a fervent thanksgiving, with the help of their pastor, the children marched out of church in solemn procession to be greeted by their happy parents.

The members of the Senior Sodality of Holy Rosary Church are planning to honor their mothers at a formal banquet on May 20. Invitations have already been sent to all the Sodalists and friends announcing this Mothers' Day Dinner. Miss Betty Emmerich is chairman and it is her desire to have every Sodalists's mother as a happy guest of the Sodality on that evening. Further plans and committee members will be announced later.

A social evening of recreations and games is held for the Catholic and Public High School students every Friday evening in the Holy Rosary school hall. Each Friday evening is reserved for them to use as they wish, free of any charge. The evening opens with Benediction in Church at 8 o'clock, and closes promptly at 10:15 in accordance with the wishes of the parents and priests. The evening serves as an ideal meeting place for Aquinas, Nazareth and Public High students of Holy Rosary Parish.

Rosarians will sponsor a supper for members only on Wednesday, May 14 at 6:30 P. M. in the school hall.

Miss Mary Iverson has appointed Mrs. William Stock as general chairman, assisted by the following committees:

Decorations: Mrs. George Jost, Mrs. Frank Brady, Mrs. Edmund Burke, Mrs. Edward J. Schmeer and Mrs. John Gorman.

Reservations: Mrs. Frank Sullivan, Mrs. John Hart.

Flowers and Favors: Mrs. Fred Harpe, Mrs. Michael Miller, and Miss Gertrude Hoersting.

Reception: Mrs. Theresa Cook, Mrs. John Dulgnan, Mrs. Kenneth Dever, Mrs. John Murphy, Mrs. Thomas MacNamara, Mrs. William Rehberg, Mrs. William K. Gordinier, Mrs. A. D. Annis, Miss Elizabeth Isselhard and Mrs. Alfred Honan.

Publicity: Mrs. Gilbert Cottrell.

They Keep The Faith

An instance is the Catholic educational system from the lowest to the highest rung. It outranks in many ways the huge public-supported State school systems, the heavily endowed colleges and universities with their huge campuses, their influential graduates and their paid ballyhoo. Our schools keep the faith. They build for God. They safeguard against the loss of religious faith and the endangering of one's soul. Catholics should look into their hearts and see if they are undervaluing real things because they come in small measures.

Mother's Day

Builders Three— Mary, My Son and Me

By MARGARET B. GERALD

He was only three, with starry blue eyes and golden blonde curls, but I watched him, yesterday, striving with all his diminutive manliness, to build a house with his bright-colored blocks. One unsuccessful attempt followed the other, and still he worked patiently on, until he looked up and saw his Mother in the doorway. His smile answered hers, with a fleeting, but silent plea for help, which she did not disregard.

I listened and marveled at the glad note in her voice and his happy chatter in reply. As she carefully piled the blocks, they took on a resemblance to a church, and as each row was put in place, she told her child, the story of God's house on earth, in sweet, simple words, which could be easily understood by his baby mind.

A few minutes later, she went back to the many duties of a Mother of five, but was he left the room, she paused before the tiny May altar in the corner, and I saw her lips move in silent prayer. Only that Blessed Mother and her Divine Son heard that brief whisper, but I, who know her, thought she might well have said, "We are builders three, Mary, My child and Me. I can not build his life alone, dear Blessed Mother, nor can he. Did you notice how the blocks tumbled down when his baby fingers tried to place them? Help me, dear Mother to guide his baby hands, so that he may make his human body a fitting temple, wherein Thy Divine Son may dwell in Holy Communion."

MARY'S DAY

And throughout the rest of that day, I thought often of that Mother and of her model, Mary, the queen of this beautiful Month of May. In what more fitting season could we select a day to pay special tribute to our earthly Mothers? On Saturday, May 10, Mary's Day will be internationally observed, in this war torn world, by thousands of her devoted followers, by attendance at Mass and the reception of Holy Communion. The following day, thoughtful sons and daughters will honor their earthly Mothers and many of these Mothers will ask of Mary, the Blessed Mother, her help, and guidance that she may guard both the physical and spiritual well-being of those under her charge.

How easy it is for us, who have been blessed by God, with good Mothers, to keep close to our Blessed Lady. In those last anguished moments, as the Son of God hung on the cross, He must have looked down through the ages and seen as the most precious of gifts that Men might know, a Mother. His Baby feet had carried Him often to our Blessed Lady's side, when tiny hurts brought tears to His Divine eyes; and at her knee, He, who held the universe in His tiny hands, had knelt night and morning to pray to God His Father. She had been His greatest comfort, His guide, His source of the closest earthly companionship and so as He gazed down on her at the foot of the Cross on that First Good Friday, He must have thought, "To this best beloved of my Apostles, and to all men, made to the image and likeness of my Father in Heaven, I will give this woman, who has been my dearly beloved Mother on earth." And can we not think of Him as adding, "And she shall be the model of all Mothers as long as the sun, the moon and the stars shine in the heavens"

THE BISHOP'S REQUEST

Mother's Day in 1941, as well as each day in this beautiful Month, which is consecrated to our Blessed Lady, is associated with a request from His Excellency, the Most Rev. James Edward Kearney, D.D., for prayers for world peace. As I think of the strains of the current theme song, "God Bless America," I would like to answer "God will bless America as long as American Mothers bless God." And is not this plea for peace of our Shepherd to his flock an intimate echo of the cry of every Mother in her anguished prayer for the welfare of the sons of all Mothers.

The Catholic Digest in a recent condensation from the Clergy Review, of an article, entitled the "City of Mary," by T. E. Bird, gives an account of the coming of our Blessed Mother to Ephesus. We quote "There were about 330,000 people in the city when our Lady arrived there, of them only a handful were Christians. St Paul had first preached the faith in this city, but had been forced to leave after the riot -- Ephesus gloried in the worship of the great Artemis (Diana) the ugly goddess of reproduction. This worship lent itself to the most revolting excesses of immorality. Into such a city (with no parallel, thank God, today) came the ever-blessed Virgin. What happened? A generation later St. Ignatius could write with profound admiration of the Christians there, "You all live according to the truth, and no heresy has a home among you." Later still (431) when there was not a vestige of the cult of Artemis, remaining in that same city—a great council—defined as an article of Catholic faith that Mary is the Mother of God—Pilgrims are flocking from all parts—cheer upon cheer greets the proclamation of the divine maternity of the Blessed Virgin—Instead of "Great is Diana of Ephesians" the city resounds with the cry "Great is Mary the Mother of God!" Such was the change at Ephesus from grossest immorality to high spirituality, through the presence of our Blessed Lady. She can do the same today."

It is Mother's Day in a world that is saddened by the shadows of a deadly conflict. Mothers are anxiously looking to the future, begging our Blessed Mother to help her build the temple of God in her children, and pleading that war may not destroy this work of hers. Builders three, everything that I have been able to do, has only been possible because of the faith of my Mother in me and the ever present consciousness of the loving care of Mary, Queen of all Mothers.

Builders three, each son and daughter, and every Mother in the world can bring to the feet of our Blessed Lady, a fitting observance of Mother's Day. We can voice our fervent prayer to that "Model Mother," the Queen of Peace, that God may bless not only America but all His Nations, that He may bring peace to them and into the hearts of our Mothers on this their special day in the Month of Mary, whose Son is the Prince of Peace.

COURIER'S CURRENT CINEMA COMMENTS

By JOHN SPRINGER

(Editor's Note: Listed by the National Legion of Decency this week, as Class B, are "The Ape"—Objection: "Suggestive situations," and "Under Age, "Objection: "Tendency of pictures to present as permissible murders committed for scientific purposes.")

"That Hamilton Woman"—A-2

Exceptional in its acting and production, "That Hamilton Woman" fails to live up to its promise because it attempts too many things. It leans over backward to draw analogies between events of the Napoleonic wars and the present day and is propaganda without subtlety. It attempts to cover the whole career of Lady Hamilton from the time she is a young girl until her windup as a frowsy harpy on the streets of Paris. The result is that it is jerky and episodic, dwelling at too great length on some sequences, neglecting others.

Yet, despite its blatant propaganda, despite its occasional stodginess, it is an excellent picture. This is due principally to the fine work of Vivien Leigh in the title role. Miss Leigh is a beautiful and generally believable Lady Hamilton and she gets excellent support, particularly from Alan Mowbray, as the aging Lord Hamilton, Sara Allgood, as Emma's mother; Gladys Cooper as the wife of Lord Nelson and Heather Angel, a street girl. Laurence Olivier is adequate as Nelson, but lacks fire in his characterization. Perhaps Nelson was really such a stuffy person, but Producer Korda might have used a little dramatic license to make the character more human.

"The Great Lie"—A-2

Bette Davis has reached the stage where she needs a distinguished picture for every appearance. She's been pretty lucky in getting them, too, but "The Great Lie" isn't one of them. It's moderately entertaining, acted and directed with finish . . . but the story is thin, artificial, unbelievable. Such a story might succeed as sophisticated comedy, but the dialogue here is something less than sparkling. A typical bit of repartee is Doris Lloyd's answer to George Brent's question, "What's that I smell?"

"Fresh air," answers Miss Lloyd . . . and the audience is supposed to be convulsed. Bette Davis gives a typically Bettedavis performance, George Brent and Hattie McDaniel handle other roles well enough. But the best thing about the picture is Mary Astor, whose beauty grows more striking with the years, and whose acting ability has been maturing. The musical score, particularly the Tschiakowsky concerto which runs through the film as a sort of theme, is exceptional.

"The Great Lie" is interesting—often quite entertaining—but after it's all over you have to restrain an impulse to murmur, "So what?"

"Model Wife"—A-2

Somehow situations that should be screamingly funny never quite come off as more than merely amusing in "Model Wife." The picture follows familiar comedy grooves rigorously but it moves along quickly and turns out to be quite pleasant. Joan Blondell and Dick Powell are both very good in the leading roles and there is a clever bit of acting by Lee Bowman in a support job. It's all quite pleasant to watch even though you probably won't remember it a month after you have seen it.

"The Trial of Mary Dugan"—A-2

I'm a pushover for courtroom melodramas, even though I know the killer and the verdict all along. Now anyone knows darn well that nobody is going to hang the har-

'Be A Good Neighbor'

WEATHER GAUGE

The house agent decided that he had better be quite frank with his latest clients.

"Of course," he began, "this house has one or two drawbacks which I feel I must mention. It is bounded on the north by an india-rubber works, on the east by a vinegar factory, and in the west there is a glue-boiling establishment."

"Good heavens" gasped the buyer. What a neighborhood"

"Quite so," replied the agent, "but there are advantages. The rent is cheap, and you can always tell which way the wind is blowing."
