Verein To Mark Anniversary Of Encyclicals

Dr. Baierl To Speak At Public Meeting

Rev. Joseph J. Baierl, S.T.D., of St. Bernard's Seminary will be the speaker at the joint meeting of the Catholic Central Verein of America, Rochester Branch, and the National Catholic Women's Union, Rochester Branch, which will be held next Sunday afternoon in St. Joseph's Hall at 2:30 o'clock P. M.

The purpose of the meeting is to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the encyclical of Pope Leo XIII On the Condition of the Working Classes and the tenth anniversary of Pope Pius XI's encyclical On the Reconstruction of the Social Order.

Dr. Baierl is a well known writer on religious subjects, and is skilled in the social teachings of the Popes. He is peculiarly fitted to discuss the two great labor encyclicals and to interpret for his hearers their real meaning. This meeting will afford the citizens of the city a rare opportunity to become better acquainted with these papal documents

The celebration by the two organizations is part of a country-wide move on the part of the Catholic Central Verein and the National Catholic Women's Union to bring home at this time in particular the importance of the teachings contained in these papal letters.

Frs. Kleemann, Healey In Transfer From St. Joseph's

Two transfers of Redemptorist Fathers from St. Joseph's Church are announced, this week. The Rev. Michael J. Kleemann, C.SS.R. received word last week that he was assigned to new duties at St. Clement's, Ephrata, Pa., and reported for duty, May 11. The Rev. John Healey, C.SS. R., has been transferred to Sacred Heart Rectory, New Smyrna Beach, Florida.

Father Kleemann has endeared himself to many Rochesterians not only among those under the immediate charge of the Redemptorist Fathers, but throughout the Rochester area by his kindly understanding safe judgment and courtesy. The sick and the shutins he visited so faithfully will miss his gracious, generous administrations.

The societies under his guidance, the religious he directed received his best efforts.

During the last twenty years, Father Kleemann has been assigned three different times to the Rochester Community. He was a link to the parishioners with the past of St. Joseph's.

Known to Lay Groups

Father Healy's name is a pass word to the men of the Nocturnal Adoration Society to the Laymen's Retreat League, in the diocese for his engaging personality, his unhedging sermons and address. He has been assigned at Rochester for a little over three years.

Characterized by a broad, full, well-rounded understanding of human nature, a vigorous dominating love of the church, he has drawn many to Joseph's and wherever he was announced, to hear his eloquent sermons. His discourses were always constructive, upbuilding, stimulating and nourishing religious intelligence, uprightness, a general sense of honesty, decency, justice and square dealing. His broadsides against the boiling isms of the day will be missed at St. Joseph's.

It is typical of Father Healy's broad-mindedness, forward looking aims, zeal, general modernity, bristling straightforwardness, lively initiative, that he leaves a host of friends among the priests, the nuns, the men and women of the diocese.

The South's gain in Father Healey's services "will be our loss." his friends say. Father Healey is expected to leave for his new field of endeavor in early June.

Meet the Man Who Pulls Strings Behind Mr. D. A.

Ed Byron gives entertainment to the millions. If these lines introduce him to a few thousand, we'll all be happy.

The reason for Byron's anonymity is that he, like the puppeteer, is the man who pulls the strings. Byron is producer, director and co-author of the NBC-Red Network's "Mr. District Attorney," heard over WHAM Wednesdays at 9:30 P. M., EST.

Mr. District Attorney's massive audience—it is one of the top shows of radio—is evidence of the experienced hand that guides it.

Now in his early thirties, Byron has been in, and of, radio for fifteen years. His achievements, even had they been amassed in twice that many years, would still constitute one of radio's monuments.

Byron's start in radio was an application for an non-existent job. He got it—at a guaranteed salary of exactly nothing a week.

Someone connected with a midwest radio station—it was a big one—heard the station manager say that he would like to hire a writer. In those dawn days of radio the writing of scripts wasn't the specialized job it is today. Anyone on the program wrote the haphazard continuity. Or else the announcer ad libbed.

Byron's living hung on the tenuous prospect of having his scripts sold to commercial sponsors. He gradually worked himself into twenty-eight programs and $40 a week—plus a nervous breakdown. Later he got as far as program director of the station.

On his way to the top, Byron has served in every capacity around the radio station, except one. He has never been a vocal soloist. But he has organized the radio division of an advertising agency. He was radio counsel to the United Press. And he was an independent producer. "Mr. District Attorney" is one of the results of that wide experience.

Denny Decides He Can Control the Hecklers Easier

After six years as moderator of "America's Town Meeting of the Air," heard over WHAM Saturday evening at 7 P. M., George V. Denny, Jr., has decided that it's a far easier job to hold the NBC-Blue Network forum's hecklers in line than to hold the speakers to the gist of their subject. The dynamic Denny—who has ordered the expulsion of several over-enthusiastic hecklers—succeeds in doing both, however.

The tendency to wander from the kernel of the topic, common with too many speakers, he says, is sometimes evident in their prepared texts. That is why copies of talks for Town Meeting sessions are usually submitted to him before the night of broadcast. He wants to compare the arguments of the opposing speakers and insure a stimulating "meeting of minds."

Participants and several invited friends meet for dinner before each Thursday night forum. Speakers discuss the scope of the proposed argument in the friendly atmosphere of hors d'oeuvres, entree, coffee and cigarettes. Changes in approach are sometimes suggested if necessary to sharpen the debate. Occasionally the dinner table discussion turns into an unexpectedly heated verbal exchange, says Denny—mentioning no names.

Dudley Gets Dope On Change In Time

Since dynamic Dick Dudley has been rabbiting a Daylight Saving Time Contest during his NBC-Blue Network daily dither, "Who's Blue," he's received some sensational statements regarding the change in time. In fact, Dudley has let his listeners write most of the script. What's he got to lose?

Right in the running is a letter from Irmina P. Cavendish who says:

"I think that clocks should be set back a half hour and forward a half hour. But then you'd have a stalemate and who wants a stalemate?"

Another listener writes: "I think that all clocks should be set back an hour so that we can have that luxurious feeling of having slept half the morning."

Letters are still pouring in and Dudley just has to get to the studio on time to read them. Outside of that he has no worries.

Prizes? The second-class man's script for June, the director's Blue pencil for sweet, and Dick Dudley for keeps.
