Getting On In The World

Foolish spending is the father of poverty.

Don't be ashamed of hard work Work for the best salary you can get. Be your own master, and don't let society swallow up your individuality—hat, coat and boots. Do not eat up or wear out all you earn. Compel your selfish body to spare something for your own soul.

Be stingy to your own appetite, but merciful to others' necessities. Help others and ask no help for yourself. Be proud; but let your pride be of the right kind. Be too proud to wear a coat you can't afford; too proud to lie or steal or cheat; too proud to be stingy; in short be a man of integrity and individuality.

No one can be happy without working. One of the conditions of self-respect—and self-respect is one of the conditions of happiness—is that we shall feel of use in the world. And no one can feel that way who has nothing to do.

Do not be sorry for yourself because you have work to do, and work that must be done, whether you feel like it or not. That is one of the things that will help you to bear your troubles and to appreciate your blessings.

People without work get to loathe their enjoyments as men on a wager to eat quail every day for a month grow to loathe that delicacy.

THE GOSPEL— In The New Bible Text

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO ST. LUKE
Chapter 15, Verses 1 to 10

The publicans and sinners were drawing near to him to listen to him. And the Pharisees and the Scribes murmured, saying, "This man welcomes sinners and eats with them."

But he spake to them this parable, saying, "What man of you having a hundred sheep, and losing one of them, does not leave the ninety-nine in the desert, and go after that which is lost, until he find it? And when he has found it, he lays it upon his shoulders rejoicing. And on coming home he calls together his friends and neighbors, saying to them, 'Rejoice with me, because I have found my sheep that was lost.' I say to you that, even so, there will be joy in heaven over one sinner who repents, more than over ninety-nine just who have no need of repentance.

"Or what woman, having ten drachmas, if she loses one drachma, does not light a lamp and sweep the house and search carefully until she finds it? And when she has found it, she calls together her friends and neighbors, saying, 'Rejoice with me, for I have found the drachma that I had lost.' Even so, I say to you, there will be joy among the angels of God over one sinner who repents."

The Gospel in the Mass of the Third Sunday after Pentecost is taken from the Gospel according to St. Luke, chapter 15, verses 1-10. The text is given here according to the revision which has recently appeared and which is now being used in the majority of the churches throughout the country, which has recently been published.

It is presented without the numerals which, in the printed form, appear in the lefthand margin and refer to the verses in the old text. Moreover, certain words in the text below are in boldface, whereas they are not in boldface in the printed form of the revision. The boldface is employed here to show the places where changes have been made from the old text of this particular Gospel. In the old text, italics were used for two purposes; (1) to indicate quotations from the Old Testament and (2) to indicate words which had been used to complete the thought in English, but for which there was no corresponding word in the Latin text. In the revision of the New Testament, quotations from the Old Testament are indented rather than italicised. The second use which italics had in the old form of the New Testament does not arise in the revision, for the additional words necessary in English expression by the thought are a real part of the translation, and should not be emphasized by the use of italics or boldface.

Full appreciation of the improvement in the new Text can be had only by comparing the general sentence structure with that of the old text.

The sense of "this man receiveth sinners" is better given by "this man welcomes sinners."

The old text was rather clumsy in the construction of the sentence, "What man of you that hath an hundred sheep; and if he shall lose one of them doth he not leave the ninety-nine in the desert, and go after that which is lost until he find it?" It reads more smoothly in the revision: "What man of you having a hundred sheep, and losing one of them, does not leave the ninety-nine . . . ?"

"The sinners that doth penance" and "the just who need not penance" have been changed to "the sinner who repents" and "the just who have no need of repentance." 'Doing penance' has with us the meaning of performing acts of abasement and mortification to show repentance and make reparation. The Greek word here refers directly to the mental state of repentance.

In changing "groat" to "drachma" it was not expected that the new word would be more easily understood "Drachma" was introduced in conformity with the general policy of leaving the biblical names of coins untranslated wherever there is not an English word for a coin of the same value. A groat was an old English silver coin worth fourpence, or eight cents. It is pointed out in the glossary appended to the revised text that a drachma was a Greek coin worth about 17 cents.

The word "candle" comes from a Latin word meaning a small light. The word is rendered "lamp" in the revised text because at the time of Christ "candles," as we understand the word, were not used, but small oil lamps.

"There shall be joy before the Angels of God" is changed to "There will be joy among the angels of God." The word for "before" means "in the sight of," "in the judgment of" "Joy among the angels" gives this sense more idiomatically

COURIER'S CURRENT CINEMA COMMENTS.

By JOHN SPRINGER

(Listed as Class B by the National Legion of Decency, this week, in "Underground," objective, "Tendency to present suicide as justifiable; excessive brutality and gruesomeness."

There is pretty good contrast in American and British technique in melodramas this week. There is "Billy the Kid," an American picture, which has been given an expensive Technicolor production and is based on the exploits of one of America's legendary figures. One of the screen's popular stars has the Billy role. Yet, despite all the shooting and riding, the picture moves slowly . . . never builds up suspense. On the other hand, there is "Girl in the News," a British film, which was probably made on a very limited budget and in which not one gun is fired and in which there is no such thing as a spectacular chase scene. Yet, "Girl in the News" is a melodrama of steadily mounting suspense.

"Girl in the News"—A-2

The British pictures build their suspense not by gunfire, not by hidden panels, clutching hands or any of that ancient paraphernalia They're more subtle than that. British melodramas build up by studying character quirks which makes them no less terrifying but many times more mentally satisfying. You remember such classic examples as "Night Must Fall," "Love from a Stranger," "Ladies in Retirement" and the Alfred Hitchcock pictures. Now that Hitchcock has gone to Hollywood, a talented new director has come to the British screen. He is Carol Reed and his first picture was the sensational "Night Train." Now he has brought out another gripping melodrama, "Girl in the News." It may not attain the popularity of "Night Train," because it is not built about such a timely subject. Nor is the action as breathtaking. But from the first scene, Reed builds his effects with steadiness that never lets down Margaret Lockwood is one of the best actresses on this type of thing and she is excellent again She is aided by Barry K Barnes, Emlyn Williams and Margretta Scott with a brief but unforgettable characterization by Irene Handl as a horrible, nagging old woman invalid, whose suicide starts the events moving. The picture has humor and the suspense doesn't let up

"Billy the Kid"—A-1

Well, if it isn't "Billy the Kid"—all dressed up in a shiny coat of Technicolor. But don't let him fool you, chillun. Behind that three days' growth of beard, it's just Bobby Taylor after all. Taylor may not be the most believable person in the world when he swaggers up to the brawniest bad men and subdues them with a steely glance, but he's adequate enough in the role. But the picture is disappointing.

You've heard of pictures that take too long to get started. Well, "Billy the Kid" isn't one of them. You're into it the minute it begins so far in that it's a bit confusing. But the action doesn't last very long. You spend long, long stretches just waiting for something to happen. Occasionally something does, but the waiting isn't usually worth the results. It's just riding and shooting, shooting and riding. "Billy the Kid" should have had a lot more color—I don't mean Technicolor—and dash. But it's pretty much just a placid horse opera. Brian Donlevy, Ian Hunter and Gene Lockhart are good enough in undemanding roles.

"Sunny"—A-1

Apparently producer Herbert Wilcox has decided that he wants Anna Neagle to build up a following in light, tuneful nothings like "Sunny." Then he may give her another chance at the dramatic roles she can handle so well. Now, after two false starts—"Irene" and "No, No Nanette"—the Neagle-Wilcox combination has come out with a musical picture that may get the popularity Wilcox hoped for.

It's just a very light, very fluffy musical, but it is pleasingly handled and contains some good Jerome Kern music, some exceptional dancing and some engaging, if familiar, comedy.

Miss Neagle doesn't have to work very hard in the one-time Marilyn Miller role but she looks charming, plays easily and dances with grace. John Carroll continues to improve as a leading man. Ray Bolger's

St. Francis De Sales MARK PATRON'S FEAST

By KATHRYN MORAN

Members of the St. Anthony Society of St. Francis de Sales parish attended Solemn High Mass and received Holy Communion in a body last Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock as part of their celebration in honor of St. Anthony, patron of the society. Celebrant of the Mass was the Rev. Anthony LoCoco, C.S.B., of Aquinas Institute in Rochester, with the Rev. William O'Brien as deacon and the Rev. Ralph Neagle as subdeacon.

Altar decorations included red and white peonies and St. Anthony lillies. The shrine of St. Anthony was placed to the left of the church. Father LoCoco delivered the sermon relating to the "Life of St. Anthony."

In the evening a dinner was served by Alexander Frenti in Community Hall, with covers laid for about 150. Garden flowers and tall tapers were used in carrying out a brown and gold scheme. The tables were arranged in horseshoe fashion and in the center was the St. Anthony shrine. Guests of the society were Father LoCoco and Father Neagle.

Dancing was enjoyed following the dinner. Arrangements for the affair were in charge of Mrs. Josephine Rifkadde, assisted by a large committee.

Officers of the society include: Mrs. Angelina Borsa, president; Mrs. Adele Ciolli, vice-president; Edith Chacchia, financial secretary; Mrs. Anna Matteoli, secretary of correspondence; Mrs. Christina Farr, treasurer; Mrs. Dora David, Mrs. Anna Ferraro and Mrs. Josephine Di Radde, trustees, and Mary Damico, Mrs. Carrie Acquilano and Mrs. Antionette Antennuoci, committeewomen.

Members of the Junior Rosary Sodality of St. Francis de Sales parish held their regular monthly meeting last Monday, when several important business matters were discussed.

The present officers including the Misses Helen Pierleoni, Mary Pierleoni and Elsie Palletta who have been loyal and active workers in the organization for the past three years and who have contributed greatly to its success, have retired from office, and new officers were elected.

The new officers are: president, Miss Loretta Galasso; vice-president, Miss Mary Luongo; secretary, Miss Josephine D'Angelo; treasurer, Miss Rita Calvani. The new officers will take over their duties in September since there will not be any meetings during July and August.

Immaculate (Ithaca) ORGANIZATION NEWS

By MARY A. YENGO

ITHACA.—Novena devotions in honor of Our Lady of the Miraculous Medal will be held on Tuesday evenings at 7:30 P. M. instead of on Sundays. This will remain in effect during the summer months.

Graduation for 83 pupils of Immaculate Conception parish will be held on Friday evening in the parish hall at 8 o'clock.

A triduum in honor and in preparation of the Sacred Heart was started on Wednesday morning. It closes with Solemn Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament on Friday morning. The general intention of world peace was recommended in the devotion.

A reorganization meeting and breakfast of the Holy Name Society of the Church of the Immaculate Conception was held in Parish Hall last Sunday, at which time Dr A A. Cross was installed as president. Preceding the breakfast, the group of 150 took Holy Communion in a body at 7 A. M.

Other officers of the society are: Vice-president, John Fitch; secretary, Francis Sullivan; treasurer, Rockwith Miller, and moderator, the Rev. Paul J. Cuddy. John Sullivan was chairman of the meeting and Jasper Farley presided.

Father Cuddy said that "it is purely coincidental that this communion breakfast and reorganization meeting is being held on Father's Day. However, it brings to our attention the aims of the society to bring father and son in closer union with Christ in the blessed sacrament of a monthly corporate communion; through vigorous reverence for the holy name of Christ."

Father Cuddy also announced that students of the high school and also their fathers should become members of the society.

On July 20, the organization will sponsor a parish picnic at Stewart Park under supervision of William Egan.
