SCOUTING FOR CATHOLICS

Contributed by
BERNARD MEYERING
and
FRED HEFFER

Troops wishing representation in this Catholic Scout News Column are requested to send their news in to either Bernard Meyering, 245 Norton Street, or Fred Heffer, 31 Bartlett Street. Girl Scout Units, as well as any Catholic Scout Group in the Rochester Diocese, are invited to send their news in, too.

The last surviving Pony Express Rider "Bronco" Charlie Miller, who carried the mail through the Indian territory of Sante Fe Trail, was the honor guest at the twelfth Annual Camporee of the Rochester Council held at Warren Cutler recently.

The 92-year-old pioneer entertained Scouts and parents at a camp fire on the opening night. On this occasion he related how he was born in a covered wagon while his family was traveling west to Sacramento how he grew up in the frontier towns and learned to ride horseback from the Indians. The Indians also taught him to use the bullwhip, and throw a lasso.

"Bronco" Charlie became a Pony Express rider at the age of 11, because there had been no rider to return the mail on one of the trips. The rider from Carson City to Sacramento had been shot to death while on the trip. In need of a rider the express agent requested Charlie to ride for the Pony Express.

Mingling through the camp Charlie told many stories about frontier days. He rode in a dress parade on Saturday after which he performed rope tricks at a gathering around the flag pole.

In an interview with Charlie he told of many of his thrilling adventures. He described various parts of his costume, pointing out that a pair of beaded gloves he held were made by a great Indian Chief. He wore a black 10-gallon hat which was given to him by the late Dan Beard, National Scout Commissioner. Around his waist he wore a crimson red and yellow Spanish silk sash.

In conclusion he stated that he was an honorary member of the Troop Committee of Troop 104, Queens, New York.

Nearly fifteen hundred Scouts are expected to camp at the Warren Cutler Scout Reservation this summer, breaking last year's record attendance of one thousand.

Fifty-five troops have signed to camp a week or more during the nine-weeks' camping period that Cutler will be in operation. The Troops will conduct their own camp and program, and furnish their own leadership.

The executive staff of the camp is composed of Camp Chief Forest White, Assistant Scout Executive of the Rochester Council; Wallace Christensen, Assistant Camp Chief; and Divisional Directors, Dan Earle, Ray Angevine, and Ed Hesser.

Catholic Troops that have registered at camp this season include Troop 101, of Holy Rosary; Troop 217, of St. Michael's, Troop 212, of Holy Family. Troop 215, of St. Francis, and Troop 240, of Merrimac Center.

Ithaca Boy Scouts Going To Camp

Camp Barton will be the home of nine members of Boy Scout Troop 12 of Ithaca from July 20-27. This sets up a new camp record.

In keeping with this encampment plan, the Knights of Columbus, who sponsor one of the few "scout families" in the Scout Council, will substitute one week at Camp Barton for each Scout instead of the customary annual dinner. This was announced by Scout Executive Ralph Harrison.

The Knights will also provide a hot dog roast and softball game for scouts who cannot stay at the camp on August 13. Each scout will also receive a subscription to the official scout magazine, Boys' Life.

For the year 1941-42, the troop is re-registering 18 boys. They are Robert Baker, Aldo Casciotti, Romolo Cochi, William Egan, Jr., Robert Garcia, Joseph Longo, Richard Moore, Robert Moore, Thomas Perry, Herbert Riker, Joseph Stark, John Stark, Charles Webb, Carmine Yengo, Warren Young, Roger Paolangeli, Anthony DiGiacomo and Robert Finneran.

The troop committee, with Joseph F. Farley chairman and Thomas E. Solan, Michael J. Leary and Harry Sohon, have selected Edward J. Moore, Jr., as scoutmaster, replacing George K. Loveless, who is now in Syracuse. Mr. Loveless and Leon Stark will serve as assistant scoutmasters.

CINEMA COMMENTS

for no good reason "Angels With Broken Wings," in which preposterous and unnatural tots cavort in a comedy without laughs. The handsome Gilbert Roland also proves to be a good comedian, giving the picture its only funny sequence.

The "Strawhat" Season is On!

One of the more recent American institutions — an institution that has really come into its own only in the last few years—is the summer theater. It started as the stamping ground of enthusiastic amateurs who converted old barns into a reasonable replica of a stage and put on their performances under the stars. Within the last few years, professionals have taken over until now most eastern communities have a summer theater within easy driving distance.

In the summer theaters — or "strawhats," as they are more popularly known—such stars as Sylvia Sidney, Miriam Hopkins, Nancy Carroll, Tallulah Bankhead, Ingrid Bergman, Moss Hart, Alexander Woollcott, Harpo Marx, Mildred Natwick, Jane Cowl, Gertrude Lawrence, Luise Rainer, Anna Sten, Francis Lederer, Gloria Stuart, Ramon Novarro, Elissa Landi, Phillips Holmes, Madge Evans and many, many others will be delighting the natives this summer. The beautiful Jean Muir, who is producing as well as acting at Suffern has invited us to be her guest sometime during the summer—an invitation this department will be very glad to accept if it is at all possible. Adrienne Ames tells us that her summer theater schedule is pretty well filled. She was to have been a guest star at the ill-fated Highland Park Summer Theater last year, you may remember. Many other prominent people are rounding the strawhat circuit, although it is unlikely that Rochester will see them this year.

There are no such outstanding names at the veteran Rochester summer theater at Avon, but what the company lacks in nationally-known players, it makes up in quality of performances and to localities, the names of Leonard Altobell and his players have grown to mean superior acting and superior production. Altobell is in the midst of another summer season in Avon at present and he has brought together another capable company.

We covered their first-night performance of "Craig's Wife" last week and found the ancient but unaging drama given a highly effective production. It was a vehicle which gave particular opportunities to the feminine contingent of players. Although Lawrence Blade, Saralie Bodge, Vern Armstrong and other members of the cast were, for the most part, consistently good, it was Margrit Wyler who dominated proceedings as Harriet Craig—one of the most meaty feminine roles in the American theater. Miss Wyler's European accent and mannerisms made it a trifle difficult at first to accept her as the typically American Mrs. Craig but after the first few moments, her deft, intelligent handling of the role removed that element of incongruity.

The program notes ask for suggestions on plays to be produced through the rest of the summer. Here are a few random ideas. Take them for what they are worth. Mr. Altobell, Elmer Rice's "Flight to the West," for instance, is a strong play which had a good Broadway run last season. This department covered it on its recent playgoing jaunt to New York with George David of the Democrat. The play would furnish excellent roles for Altobell, Miss Bodge, Harald Dyrenforth, who appeared in it on Broadway and who is a member of the Avon company, and others. And Miss Wyler would be excellent as the embittered Belgian refugee. "Ladies in Retirement" would be a fine play for the feminine members of the company, but it might not be quite fair to most of the men. "Mr. and Mrs. North," another recent Broadway play, is proving a popular attraction in other summer theaters. "Love from a Stranger," "20th Century" and "Petrified Forest" are among older plays of merit which have not been produced recently in Rochester and which should be fully within the Avon Players' scope.

(John Springer reminisces about popular pictures of the past on Your Movie Memory program, heard on WSAY every Monday morning at 11 o'clock. This week's Movie Memory will be the strange drama, "Death Takes a Holiday," which starred Fredric March on the screen.)

OPEN NEW SCOUT CAMP

The new camp for Boy Scouts will open the week of July 14. It is located on the Rigney farm on lower Dewey Ave., near Beach Ave. There are ample facilities for camping outside, but if the weather is disagreeable, there is plenty of room in a large house on the property.

The cost per week for each boy is $5.00. Of this, $1.00 must be paid at the time of registration, the remainder at the camp.

Boys who wish to register for the week of July 14-20 must do so at the rectory today.

SUMMER FESTIVAL PLANNED

A festival will be held on the Church grounds on Thursday and Friday evenings, July 24 and 25. Elmer Hurch is general chairman with Margaret Frank and Maryann Waldmann treasurer of the affair.

Tickets have been distributed among the parishioners. Among valuable prizes is the sum of $300.

On Monday evening, July 14, there will be a meeting of the Committee to make final arrangements for the festival.
