

St. John the Baptist Parish

MEN'S BREAKFAST LISTED

The annual men's Communion breakfast of St. John's Church will be held on Sunday, March 29, at the Mark Twain Hotel.

The speaker at the breakfast will be Dr. James N. Eastham, chairman of the Catholic Speakers Bureau sponsored by Rochester Council, Knights of Columbus.

ST. PATRICK'S (Elmira)

BISHOP AT MIRACULOUS MEDAL NOVENA

The Miraculous Medal Novena being offered our boys in the service and for the welfare of our country. Special prayers are offered for this intention.

The Most Rev. Bishop closed the service with benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The priests of the parish and the parishioners sincerely appreciated the kindness of the Bishop in giving his time on such a very busy day.

On Sunday, March 15, the Most Reverend Bishop Kearney preached at the Novena service. He complimented the congregation upon its attendance and praised them for their love and devotion to Our Blessed Mother.

St. Patrick's Day

The pastor of the church offered a High Mass at 8:30 in honor of St. Patrick.

After the Mass the relic of St. Patrick was venerated.

Father Cleary

Sermon by the Rev. Donald M. Cleary, Catholic Chaplain, Cornell University on Wednesday, March 25 will be on "Calvary and the Home."

THE OLD-FASHIONED ONES

By LAURA GRAY

Issued by the National Kindergarten Association, 8 West 40th Street, New York City. These articles are appearing weekly in our columns.

Lella Dent, eighteen, and lovely in long evening frock of blue tulle, swept into the Dent sitting room where her mother and I were knitting.

is one answer to the question. "What shall we do now?"

"Don't they disturb the house, coming in like that so late at night?" asked Mrs. Dent.

"Ready, Mummy take a look before I put on my coat!" The girl tossed a head of fair curls and wheeled round, a white fur wrap over her arm. She laughed a deep, happy laugh.

"No. Perhaps Ethel and Bert are a bit choosy about those they bring, for they are considerate. As soon as they come in I'm relieved. I like to know they're safe, to hear their soft laughter and then to get whiffs of coffee or cocoa."

"You won't be home until..." "No, Mummy, not until you see me! Don't worry. Bill will take care of me. Here he is now!"

Mrs. Dent spoke again. What do you think of this petting in parked cars that we read so much about?"

"I can't get used to these late nights—parties after parties, cabarets after shows and all the rest!" Lella's mother spoke out. "I go to bed, but never sleep until Lella comes in."

"It's too distressing to dwell upon. I wonder if the same sort of thing went on when we were young."

"How? Tell me!" "I leave provisions for a little party by our own fireside. When I go to bed I make up the fire, leave the reading lamp turned low and an old-kettle near that goes right into the fire and boils quickly for tea, coffee or cocoa, as they please. A few dainty sandwiches and cakes are handy in the pantry. My young people do not always come here after the show, but they know this little feast of warmth and refreshment waits for them. It

"If so it didn't touch us," smiled Mrs. Dent. "We weren't that kind."

"I'm hoping our children aren't that kind either. Seems to me about all we can do is to continue to help them cultivate high ideals, and then trust them—they must face life alone."

"We might insist upon having them home at a certain time—don't you think?" asked Lella's mother.

"Then there is this boy-friend and girl-friend business, in place of being engaged—as in our day," Mrs. Dent changed needles in the blue knitting.
