

Sodal talk

One of the most impressive ceremonies conducted by the Rochester Sodality Union was the celebration of the Birthday of the Hall Mary. Members of each Parish were represented in the Living Rosary which was led by the Rev. Alphonsus P. Crimmens. This was the second annual observance by the Sodality Union of the Feast of the Annunciation, Mar. 25. A very hearty "thank you" is extended to the Rev. Joseph Sullivan and the Sodalists of Sacred Heart Parish for their hard work in making the affair such a successful one.

Mar. 19 was a red letter meeting night for the Juniors of Holy Rosary Parish. Following committee reports was a discussion on "How the Sodality can be bettered." Mary Agnes Brophy, a budding playwright, wrote and directed a play, "What Shall I Be?" This play fitted in very well with the observance of Vocation Week. At the close of the meeting, the girls gathered around the shrine of Our Lady and sang hymns in her honor. During the singing, books containing the sacrifices of the Sodalists for Our Lady's Consolation, were burned before her shrine.

Holy Ghost Sodality—
Our Lady's Committee made a call for the slips given out at the beginning of Lent on which the Sodalists were to record their gifts for Our Lady's Consolation on Good Friday. A scroll was prepared by the members of the committee portraying Our Sorrowful Mother. The names will be inscribed beneath the picture.

It was rumored that Coldwater property was to be transferred on Mar. 25. Don't be frightened for it was only transferred to the place where it belonged. Mar. 25 was the Feast of St. Dismas, the good thief. It has become a custom of Sodalists to return all borrowed articles on that day in honor of the thief who repented on the cross on Good Friday.

Visitation Committee: Evelyn Jacobs reports that there are no priorities on the Parish Sick List.

Miniature Cathedral Exhibit Opens

A miniature of a 12th Century Gothic Cathedral, faithful to Catholic liturgical requirements in the tiniest detail, is one of the wonders of the Thorne Miniature Room exhibit opening Easter Sunday at the Memorial Art Gallery, under the auspices of about 25 women's organizations in Rochester, including the Women's Council of the Gallery.

Scaled three-quarters of an inch to the foot, the cathedral, "Our Lady Queen of Angels" was designed by Elliott L. Chising, a New York architect, who has specialized in Gothic architecture. The paintings in the recesses and the rear wall of the chapel are the work of Hilbreth Meire, New York mural painter. Complete with the

Basketball Catholic Quints Win in Tourney

Genesee Institute and St. Jerome of East Rochester took final honors in the second annual Youth Association Invitation Basketball tournament Sunday afternoon, Mar. 29, on the JYMA court, with the former scoring over the Northside "Y" Oxfords for the tourney title a 45-42 victory, and Father John S. Whalen's St. Jerome aggregation taking the consolation round, in the first game of the bill, by handing the Monroe YMCA branch a 37-29 lacing.

The new titleholders, Genesee Institute, who finished up as the consolation winners, in last year's inaugural tourney, gained the final rung up the ladder of successful tournament competition by copping top honors. The small and speedy fast breaking quintet although outmanned in the Industry State School quarter-final game, nevertheless, the Institute boys, by their do or die spirit gained the semi-final round by scoring a decisive 48-24 win. St. Jerome offered the opposition for the Genesee team in the semi-final and they were set back 41-22, as the winners went to work in the same manner against other opponents by cutting them down to their size. In the final round the tourney titleholders really had to do some chopping down against the Northside "Y" Oxfords from Edison Tech, with the latter fielding the tallest club in the tourney, with three of the starting five being six-foot and better, with the height advantage carrying them to the final round against the victors.

St. Jerome's coached by Charlie Zona and Frank O'Donnell, fielded another small team on the court, but what they lacked in size, they made up in speed and ability, by faking a 24-22 quarter final heat, against JYMA, and later succumbing to the superior Genesee Institute team in the semi-final round. St. Jerome's bettered their record of the 1941 when they were eliminated in the opening round, by reaching the semi-final and consolation rounds in this year's classic.

The two teams, Genesee Institute and St. Jerome's received the 40-8 Voiture number 111, American Legion trophy awards, for their successful bids in the tournament.
