

Holy Father's Letter Calls For More Peace Prayers In May

VATICAN CITY—(N. C.)—"While the world, trusting solely in the force of arms and most murderous inventions, advances along its bloodstained path, We—addressed by the immense carnage and driven by the love of the Universal Father—do not limit Ourselves to the indication of the most convenient ways for real peace and an order of things based on the principles of Christian justice, but re-

Spanish Prelate Warns People Of Nazism's 'Monstrous' Teachings

(By N. C. W. C. News Service)

A calm and reasoned, but nonetheless vigorous, warning against the errors of Nazi doctrine, particularly as they constitute a threat to the faith of Spanish Catholics, is sounded by the Most Rev. Fidel Garcia Martinez, Bishop of Calahorra, Spain in a Pastoral Letter, a copy of which has become available in the United States.

Bishop Garcia Martinez states that he speaks out in keeping with His Majesty's first duty, namely, to preserve "entire and free from all error among the faithful," the sacred trust of revealed truth which Jesus Christ has entrusted to His Church.

"Were it a question only of purely temporal, political, or social matters, or of conflicting claims between different peoples or races, or of ideologies concerning problems of a material order only," the Bishop says "we would say nothing; we would only deplore this descent to materialism and barbarity of the most elemental feelings of good, honor, justice and truth. But it is a question of matters and ideologies which have a direct effect on that revealed truth, which it is our duty to defend within us, Venerable Brothers and Beloved Sons, and it therefore seemed to be necessary to draw your attention to certain of the errors contained in these matters or ideologies and which in the present circumstances may well prove a serious danger to the integrity and purity of your faith.

"One of these errors or collection of errors, openly in contradiction to the most fundamental principles of our Holy Religion, is that known by the name of Communism. Its ghastly leaps to the eye. Of its virulence and disastrous effects we have had a terrible and instructive demonstration in our own country.

The Bishop says the impassioned, turbulent and confused times through which we are living "have succeeded in creating a sphere of special danger particularly suited for the infiltration among us of these errors."

"Publications contaminated by these erroneous ideologies are circulating in Spain and the translation into our language has just been

Spurs Legitimacy Legislation Defeat

SAN JUAN, P. R.—Following two weeks of public discussion touched off by a statement by the Most Rev. Edwin V. Byrne, Bishop of San Juan, which appeared in the newspaper El Mundo, the House of Representatives of Puerto Rico voted down a bill dealing with illegitimacy in the island. The Senate had passed the measure before Bishop Byrne's statement appeared.

Claimed by its supporters to be a move to establish "a regime of social justice in behalf of children born in Puerto Rico," the bill aimed at the elimination of all classification of children as to legitimacy or illegitimacy.

Bishop Byrne, in his statement, said "the social justice which the bill intends to introduce in behalf of illegitimates is in reality a social injustice to legitimate children, and above all it would lead to a radical destruction of the social institution of marriage."

"It is well," the Bishop added, "that the illegitimate child should be protected as much as possible by obliging his parents to fulfill the duties which this class of paternity brings with it, but not at announced of the work which figures as a symbol of all such errors and is condemned by the Church," Bishop Garcia Martinez continues.

"Men and institutions representing these ideologies are praised frequently and without measure and certainly without any reservation. With countries of nations where there are people, prominent cultural relations and interchanges of all kinds are maintained."

"A strict and lasting silence is kept about the unshakable condemnation by the Church of these errors and about the religious persecutions, impious and tenacious, resulting from such errors, unknown to us but ever present for our Brothers, the Catholics of these countries where such errors are widespread. Tendentious versions are even accepted, placing the blame for these persecutions on alleged political crimes committed by the persecuted. Hence, we repeat, the special danger of this misinformation and misunderstanding."

Bishop Garcia Martinez says these errors "are so manifestly anti-Christian and even monstrous," that, "for the Catholic conscience of our people to deny them energetically and wholeheartedly," it "is sufficient to mention them, separating them from the passions, confusions and party feelings, under which they may well wish to hide."

"To give an example of these errors stating their exact meaning and scope," Bishop Garcia Martinez quotes at some length from "Gott und Volk-Sozialistisches Bekenntnis" (God and the People-Profession of Faith of a Soldier), published in Berlin and widely circulated by the Nazis and adds:

"As we have already stated, the errors of which we have given a sample, which could easily be many times multiplied, in the previous paragraphs are so anti-Christian, so anti-humanitarian; they imply such monstrous religious, moral, social and political ideas; and they even reveal in their texture such arbitrary, exaggerated and anti-scientific thought that no comment is necessary, for the conscience of the Spanish people will reject them with energy and even be moved to give thanks to God that they have had preserved for them sufficient mental equilibrium to prevent their falling into such aberration and belief in such myths."

that illegitimate child, and legislation must wisely provide for that effect. There is, however, a wide abyss between this and the establishment by law that all children are legitimate.

"Such a bill, in practice, makes all the children legitimate. It states from this date forward no declaration shall be made concerning the legitimacy or illegitimacy of births." Nevertheless, the suppression of such a distinction of birth cannot make all children born in illegitimacy equal by pretending to remove the alleged social injustice attached to a condition which its brands with reproach and social injustice.

"If the matrimonial institution is to be maintained, the legitimacy or illegitimacy of birth is not an empty fiction subject to sentimentality.

"If the matrimonial institution is to be maintained, illegitimacy is a disgraceful fact, even criminal in some cases, but nevertheless a real fact which cannot be removed by introducing into the Legislature of Puerto Rico a mere

Thus speaks His Holiness Pope Pius XII in his letter to His Eminence Luigi Cardinal Maglione, Papal Secretary of State, asking that the month of May be made again a time of special supplication.

Children Must Come

It is his desire, His Holiness indicates, to profit by the month of May, as he has in years just past, to invite all—especially the little ones, whom, according to the Divine Redeemer, He prefers for age and innocence—to a holy crusade of prayers. As we can hope for every grace through Mary, Pope Pius XII exhorts all to appeal to her. Especially the children must come to her altars, led by their parents, because, if Jesus is the Universal King and Lord of Rulers, His saintly mother is venerated by the faithful as Queen of the World and has most powerful intercession with Him, His Holiness points out. The Holy Father recalls the miracles which Jesus wrought at the intercessions of Mary, as at the marriage feast of Cana, and the gift of Mary as our mother made by Jesus from the Cross.

We must do as our ancestors did so often, namely, appeal confidently to Mary in public and private necessities. As all obey the command of God, His Holiness continues, so in a certain sense we can be certain that Christ listens benignantly to the prayers of His divine mother, and that Mary as she has immense power has equally for all of us tender pity, being our most beloved mother.

But, besides prayer the faithful must fulfill works of penance and charity to placate divine justice, the Holy Father states.

Pontiff Greet Bolivian Envoy Named To Holy See

VATICAN CITY.—His Holiness, Pope Pius XII, in a private audience this morning, received Balboa Mercado, new Ambassador of Bolivia to the Holy See.

In a brief address, delivered in Spanish, Senor Mercado expressed filial homage to the Sovereign Pontiff and asked the support of His Holiness in the fulfillment of the new diplomatic task assigned him by the President of Bolivia. The new envoy also implored the Apostolic Blessing for Catholic Bolivia and her rulers.

The Holy Father, responding to these utterances, thanked Senor Mercado for such noble sentiments, promised his unceasing benevolence, and expressed his paternal good wishes for the success of the Ambassador's mission, heartily granting the blessings requested by the Envoy.

After the official audience, the Holy Father and the Ambassador engaged in a private conversation for a quarter of an hour. Senor Mercado then visited His Eminence Luigi Cardinal Maglione, Papal Secretary of State, and following this call went to the Vatican Basilica, where he prayed at the Tomb of St. Peter.

In the afternoon, Cardinal Maglione visited Ambassador Mercado at the Grand Hotel in Rome where the Bolivian envoy is staying pending the preparation of his apartments in Vatican City.
