

Owego Boy Wins Diocesan Spelling Contest Honors

Captures First Prize In Catholic Courier Sponsored Matches

St. Patrick's School, Owego, won diocesan honors when its contestant, Thomas O'Connor, refused to be spelled down last Saturday and won the first prize after a two and a half hours' ordeal.

Young Thomas O'Connor with 22 other contestants from as many Catholic schools of various parts of the diocese, vied in the diocesan finals at De Sales High School, Geneva, before an audience of friends and teachers.

Doris Kohls of St. Boniface School, Rochester, was runner up and won the second prize. Eleanor Chapuza of Holy Cross School, Rochester, came in third.

The spelling demons like "steve" and "receiv" held no terrors for these spelling champions but the "Philippines" and "Portugal" took their toll.

This spelling contest sponsored by the CATHOLIC COURIER under the auspices of the Diocesan Superintendent of Schools proved a very worthwhile innovation according to Father Duffy. Through it a new interest in spelling was stimulated. The experience of the children who, successful in regional contests, made the finals in Geneva, was an important and enjoyable one. Following the contest, the contestants were entertained at lunch at the Senses Hotel in Geneva.

ELMIRA CATHOLIC HIGH

'Clarion' Wins Again At St. Bonaventure Press Conference

By WILLIAM THOMAS

The Clarion has done it again. For the fourth time in four consecutive years, the board of judges at the St. Bonaventure College Press Conference have designated our Clarion as the best mimeographed publication entered.

A delegation of about twenty students attended the convention last Saturday at Olean in a chartered bus. All who attended spent a very profitable day, educationally and socially.

Students included in the Elmira delegation were as follows: Mary Ruth Dunn, Betty Cloke, Eleanor Maloney, Theresa Minkin, Mary Winifred Holleran, Jessa Nolan, Jean Peel, Eleanor Carey, Mary Brady, Frank Maloney, Peter Shields, Frank Bonignone, Joseph Curran, Robert Ervin, William Thomas, Bolton Terwilliger, John Kerwan, William Connelly and David Shay.

Mrs. James H. Ruddick and Mrs. Arthur Nolan went as chaperons.

Indian Boys Visit

And then came the Indians to ECHS on Monday, May 11. Father Bernard Cullen, accompanied by two Sioux Indian boys, addressed the students and appealed for more generous support of the missions, especially the priests and sisters among the Indians in the United States.

The two boys, Marvin White-Crow and Oliver Black-Feather, appeared in their native costumes (feathers, bells and all) and performed a few Indian dances and songs. Both of them are pupils at the Holy Rosary Mission School, located in a small village of South Dakota. They drew loud applause from their very appreciative audience.

Mission Rally Set

Catholic High will play host to several prominent mission personalities Friday afternoon, May 15. On that day a Mission Rally will be held here, under the auspices of the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade.

This year three of these events are being held in the diocese to replace the annual convention formerly held each year at Rochester, because of the difficulties of long distance travel. Geneva, Elmira and Rochester have been selected as centers for these mission activities this year.

3 Schools Join For Square Dance

CORNING—The three parochial schools will hold a second square dance Friday, May 15 at 8 p. m. at St. Mary's Hall. The first one was held Thursday, Apr. 23, and was a complete success.

Lucy Spears and William Hin of St. Mary's Parish are co-chairmen, assisted by Missor Rodge of St. Patrick's and Mary Alocto of St. Vincent de Paul's.

Others on the committee are Joan Purocci, Florence Wenderlich, Dorothy Lipinski, Florence Grenosio, Betty Kusty, Hilma Goff, Martha Maxwell, Doris Stogert, Joseph Lasso, Francis Marticelew, Thomas Rosetti, Francis Kneeland, William Hin, Rose Revulo, Mary Revulo, Mary Agnes Killgrew, Marie Russa.

Glasgow Catholics Pay Martyr Honor

LONDON—Blessed John Ogilvie, S.J., was martyred for the Faith at Glasgow Cross 229 years ago. On the anniversary, as always, a large crowd of Glasgow Catholics, this year 1,000 strong, walked silently to the spot. They sang two hymns and dispersed just as silently as they had assembled.

Nurse Sodalists in Candle Rite Impressively Open May Devotions

Procession for the opening of May was held Friday night, May 1, under the auspices of Our Lady's committee of the Sodality at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Miss Florence Healy, Prefect of the Sodality, and Miss Katherine Hussey, Vice-Prefect, were in charge of the arrangements for the observance. On each of five floors, beginning on ninth floor with the Annunciation, a tableaux presentation of the Five Joyful Mysteries of the Rosary was given. Reciting the Rosary as they walked from floor to floor of the Dunn Memorial Building, carrying lighted tapers and flowers, the girls made an impressive appearance. The characters depicting the Joyful Mysteries were appropriately attired in costumes of the period when Christ walked the earth. Spotlights were used effectively to illuminate the scene on each floor and the rest of the corridor was in comparative darkness except for the flickering light of the Sodality's candles.

Reaching the Chapel of the Little Flower on second floor the nurses filed in two by two. Benediction was given with the chaplain, the Rev. Philip McGhan, officiating. Before a beautifully decorated shrine of Our Lady, the girls placed their candles and flowers. Then Miss Healy as Prefect, escorted by Miss Hussey, approached the shrine and crowned our Lady with a wreath of flowers, signifying the students' choice of their Queen of the May as well as Queen of their Sodality. Benediction closed with the singing of Holy God.
