241 At Inter-Faith Dinner Hear Refugee Aid Lauded

AUBURN—The Interfaith Luncheon was attended by 241 women of the Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faith on Thursday Noon in the Pumpian Room of the Osborne Hotel.

Women of all faith were seated at the tables and an effort was made to learn the names of all within reach.

Mrs. David Crowley was the song leader and she was assisted by two tablefuls of singers from various churches. The singers were accompanied by Miss Mary Day.

The invocation was given by Mrs. John C. O'Toole and the speaker was introduced by Mrs. I. S. Liberman who also welcomed the guests. Mrs. Malcolm E. Peabody of Syracuse was the guest speaker at the luncheon.

Mrs. Peabody said in part: "The American Committee for Christian Refugees have two organizations: the National Refugee Service and the Joint Distribution Committee. The Friends have a committee, and the Catholics have several, all working in close cooperation to find homes, jobs, training, instruction in English, in many cases money for food and clothing and medical care and above all, a chance to become useful American citizens, for these refugees who often, as a result of their terrible experiences, come to us broken physically and spiritually.

The aim of these agencies is to lessen the concentration of the refugees in New York City. There are 20,000 refugees in New York City. We must help to make them a part of American life. We must avoid the Nazi way. We must give them the American way for American life means individual development and individual contribution to the common good. These people have very much to offer. One rural neighborhood in Michigan asked that a musician be sent to them. He has now become a center for the cultural life of that region.

Doctors Needed Many villages need doctors and there are 1,500 well trained doctors among the exiles, but every State with the exception of two has from practice men who are not citizens. Since our entry into the war, many exiles, who had obtained jobs have lost them through fear of "enemy aliens." Don't make me a refugee again! is the title of a leaflet published by one of the committees in an appeal for careful study of each individual before barring him or her from opportunity or from fellowship. BLESSING OF BAMES ON PROGRAM AT MERCY HOSPITAL HOME COMING Mercy Hospital celebrated their annual "Home Coming" on Tuesday, May 12. The celebration is held every year in connection with Hospital Day.

An invocation was extended to all those born during the past year in Mercy Hospital, in union and to bring their mothers for Hospital Day. At four o'clock a "Blessing of the Babies" took place in Mercy Hospital.

The blessing was imparted by Rev. Joseph M. McNamara, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Church. Father McNamara also delivered the address and said Benediction.

Following the blessing of the babies a complete list of the born at the Hospital was made by the visitors and the equipment of the Hospital was demonstrated.

points by some of the guests will grab your jobs! and other abusive lines. At least 275 refugees have started businesses which employ 3000 Americans.

Many have worked their way up into jobs which give full play to their talents, but have not still hundreds who are unhappy because their knowledge and skill is being wasted at all completely useless. One woman retelling in the new air of freedom, said "You don't need money to be happy in America! But you do need the chance to do something creative to make your own special contribution to your generation. We must be on our guard against conservative ways of thought but we who believe that biology and not that sort of these attitudes had led to the whole situation to be faced again.

An occasion like this is one big help toward this goal and for these persecutions have happened to sensitive people just like us who have had pleasant homes, enjoy art and music, make security and pray for happiness for their children."
