Watkins Glen Tops Beauty of Famed Region

Watkins Glen is truly one of the great natural wonders of the world. It is known on two continents and draws thousands of people every year.

It has nineteen waterfalls, many cascades, cool grates and spacious amphitheaters. Through a giant door into the mountainside, the visitor goes up and up, over waterfalls, beneath them and in the spray of them, through weird windings of the glen. One bridge is 145 feet above swirling waters. Mountainous cliffs rise nearly 300 feet above the stream. Stairs and paths make travel through the glen easy. Views of Grandeur reward those who climb to dizzy lookout stations of the park.

The history of the glen is most fascinating. At the time Columbus first stepped on this great continent, a chain of ancient fortifications occupied all commanding positions and served as a natural defense. The Iroquois Indians had a village on the very site of the present Watkins Glen.

Watkins Glen is the most famous of a famed territory which boasts of many attractions of natural beauty. Some of the more popular ones are described in detail.

COMMITTEE ON 'AFRICA, THE WAR, AND PEACE ARMS'

NEW YORK. — Formation of a Committee on Africa, the War, and Peace Arms, the subject of which is "The formation from an American standpoint of the application of the Eight Points of the Atlantic Charter to the problems of Africa, present and future," is announced by Dr. James Phelps Stokes, chairman.

In announcing the formation of the committee, Dr. Stokes said: "It is believed that it will help inform public opinion and provide a basis of study for international, business and church groups. It should be remembered that one-tenth of the population of the United States is made up of persons of African descent, and that this country has not only treaty rights and responsibilities in Africa, but also vital interests—missionary, educational, philanthropic and financial. It should also be able, because of its lack of political involvements, to view African problems with some independence of judgment."
