75 Corning Boy Scouts Enjoy Three-Day Camporee

CORNING—About 75 Boy Scouts attended the three-day camporee held by Scout Troops, 31, sponsored by St. Mary's Church, 60, sponsored by the Marconi Lodge, 63, sponsored by St. Vincent de Paul's Church at the Corning Fish and Game Club Farm over the past weekend.

Camp was made between 4 P. M. and 6 P. M. on Friday under the direction of Commissioner Carley Lewis, assisted by leaders from the three troops. Following supper camp inspection was made by the director and his official staff. Taps was sounded at 9:30 P. M. after prayer.

Saturday was a busy day with reveille at 7 A. M. After inspection at 8, Scoutcraft and class tests were given until lunch time. In the afternoon besides a program of sports, Game Protector Ray M. Reed of Gibson entertained the Scouts with bird calls and with an exhibition of bird houses. Mr. Reed also presented a collection of herbs and explained their uses in the treatment of certain ailments.

A demonstration of First Aid, with particular attention to splints was given by William G. Nelson.

In the evening Mr. Lewis welcomed 20 Tenderfoot Scouts into the Scouting ranks following their initiation. Commissioners John E. Rice and Robert Said spoke on Scout camp life and presented films, showing camp equipment and explaining its use. A campfire ended the day's activities.

On Sunday morning the Rev. Joseph F. McCarthy, assistant pastor at St. Vincent de Paul's Church, celebrated a field Mass, bringing the camporee to a close. The Rev. Joseph V. Guilfoil, pastor of St. Vincent's, spoke to the boys, reminding them of their Scout oath, to be true to God and Country. Father Guilfoil also mentioned the fact that Masses are being held in all parts of the world under the blue heavens, particularly in the war areas. He also brought out the lesson of the day's Epistle and Gospel, telling the Scouts to carry forgiveness in their hearts.

HOLY FATHER VOICES HOPE FOR WELFARE OF POLES

NEW YORK—His Holiness, Pope Pius XII, has expressed "his hope that the desires of the Poles, based on Christian sentiments, may soon be fulfilled," according to a British broadcast heard here by the Columbia Broadcasting System. The hope was said to have been expressed in a preface to a Polish edition of the New Testament, just published in Vatican City.

Indigestion, ennui, bodily weakness, are often more difficult to bear properly than bodily austerity.

Catholic Rural Life Movement

THE LAST STRAW

(A Release of the National Catholic Rural Life Conference, 3801 Grand Ave., Des Moines, Ia.)

"Two jobs for tomorrow, Bill, St. Mary's at 9:00 and Dundin's Parlors at 2:00."

"Okay, Jack, I will be there if I get my suit back on time."

It was the business agent of the Pallbearers' Union arranging for a day's work.

Once upon a time they hired mourners to do the crying because tear ducts do not work automatically for grief-stricken relatives but hiring union pallbearers is the product of our modern big city. In the countryside, neighbors and friends carry us to our resting place. Even if we are shipped in after an absence of fifty years, the old neighbors or their children still remember us but in a city how can they?

So they hire pallbearers. It is all included in the quotation of the funeral director. It is a part of the efficient "goods and services" for which our "civilization" is noted. It is part of the profit system which has caused our "immense strides."

I hear it said very often, "There is more social life in the big city"; yet they hire pallbearers. "You meet more people in the big city"; yet they hire pallbearers. "You make lots of friends in the big city"; yet they hire pallbearers. "You make more money in the city." Perhaps you do, but you cannot take it with you because you have to hire pallbearers.

For my funeral I choose the little village church. The farmers will unharness their teams for the half day; they will stop threshing, planting, cultivating, picking or plowing. Because a funeral is still a social institution in the countryside. Pallbearers are available and free of charge—not merely so they may exercise a corporal work of mercy but as an expression of neighborliness and friendship.

Among the poorer folk the neighbors still help dig the grave. In many a spot the undertaking job is a specialized job of a neighbor as well as the making of the casket. I see nothing wrong in that. It may not measure up to the "high standards of living" but it is not a "low standard of dying"—not if we measure it by heart beats in place of jingling dollars.

Many years ago he had left the drudgery of the farm for the bright lights and the choice jobs that succeed each other in more or less irregular fashion. He went from bad to worse. They found him in a flop house. Back home there were still some who loved him. The Church was not filled but old neighbors were his pallbearers—a little clumsy with gray gloves over rough hands. They were not expert pallbearers we admit, but he was carried back to Mother Earth by the hands of his friends.

We never buy anything that is not union made but we shall draw a line. We don't want union pallbearers; that would be the last straw.—L. G. Ligutti

DIOCESE TO HOLD FIFTY PARISH MEETINGS TO PLAN FOR CHARITIES CONVENTION

KANSAS CITY—The part to be played by the men and women of each parish of the Diocese of Kansas City in connection with the National Conference of Catholic Charities to be held here September 27-30, will be the principal topic under discussion at a series of 50 meetings to be held in the course of the next six weeks.

Arranged by the Rev. Arthur M. Tighe, Director of the Catholic Welfare Bureau and Executive Secretary of the Convention Committee, the meetings are to be held in every parish in Kansas City and in those in Jackson County outside the city, as well as at central points in each of the nine other divisions in the diocese.

Colored motion pictures of the diocesan charities and hospitals, will be shown at the meetings. Panel discussions on the Holy Name society, the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, and the Women's Social Service Committee will be held.
