RBI Newman Club Holds Outing

Forty members of the Newman Club of Rochester Business Institute held a picnic at Geneva Valley Park on Tuesday, July 22, thus marking the close of the first year of the club at the Institute. The Newman Club has been one of the most active and best attended organizations at the R. B. I. where it was organized early last fall at a meeting attended by His Excellency, Bishop Kearney.

The Rev. Joseph O'Connell, moderator of the club, attended the outing at the park as did Ernest W. Veigel, Jr., president of R. B. I. Audrey Hoffmann was general chairman assisted by the following: Eleanor Hoffmann, in charge of refreshments; Eleanor Del Vecchio, games; Ann Boljad, publicity; Bernard Meyerling and Larry O'Neil in charge of transportation.

Set August 22 To Pick-up Tin In Salvage Drive

Setting August 22 as the day for city trucks to pick up tin cans saved by housewives, city salvage officials are urging all-out cooperation of Rochesterians in the effort to recover tin vitally needed for the country's war machine.

William T. Nolan, city salvage chairman and co-chairman of the tin drive, Mrs. Bernard E. Finucane and Mrs. John A. Rodgers are directing plans for the August 22 pick-up.

Steps to be taken by housewives in salvaging tin cans are requested by Mrs. Finucane as follows:

- 1.—Wash can and remove label.
- 2.—Cut open, or off, both ends of can.
- 3.—Flatten can slightly by pressure of the foot.
- 4.—Store cans in convenient box or basket.

On the Aug. 22 collection day, housewives are requested to place cans at the curb for collection by the city trucks. The material will be driven directly to the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad yards and dumped into gondola cars for shipment to detinning plants in Pittsburgh.

The opening and flattening of cans is necessary, Mrs. Finucane said, both for convenience in packing and shipping, and to permit free flow of the fluid chemical used in removing the coating of pure tin from the cans.

Grease Salvage

Plans for collection of waste fats in households of Monroe County's 19 towns are being advanced.

J. Franklin Bonner, head of the county Salvage Committee, says conferences are under way to establish a method of collecting the fats from meat markets and grocery stores in the county. Data from the War Production Board is being awaited before plans are completed, he added.

In the city, housewives are asked to dump their waste grease and fats into the garbage can. The city has one of the few garbage reduction plants in the country, and the fats are extracted at the plant and put into channels that lead to the war program.

Fats are necessary to obtain glycerine for explosives, it was explained.

President Roosevelt has stressed the need for collection of fats and all sorts of salvage material, including metals, rubber and rags.

Brothers Will Direct New Seafarers' Home

LOS ANGELES.—The Brothers Hospitaller of St. John of God have been named as guardians of the new Seafarers' Home opened at San Pedro under the direction of the St. Vincent de Paul Society.

The home will be a haven for thousands of sailors of the merchant marine, many of them attached to war convoys.

The Rev. James McLaughlin, pastor of Star of the Sea Church and director of the Apostleship of the Sea in San Pedro, who has worked unremittently among the seamen for five years, making provision for the distribution of more than 250,000 magazines as well as clothes and other necessities, will be chaplain.

Train 539 For War Work

The need for skilled workers in war plants is beginning to be appreciated by those in non-essential occupations.

That was the opinion expressed by Verne A. Bird, Assistant Superintendent of Schools here and Director, locally, of the Vocational Education for National Defense war industries training program.

Director Bird said that since the first of this month 539 registrants, many of them employed in a variety of jobs not connected with the war effort, had been assigned to the eleven VENDOR schools here, with classes day, evening, and all-night.

The registrants included 178 men and 361 women. Most of the men were assigned to machine shop training, welding, aviation ground school, Army ordnance inspection, foundry, and drafting and blue print reading.

Verne A. Bird said that the weekly VENDOR state department reports showed that war plant employers in many sections are making large placements of trained women workers.

Director Bird also announced that tons of material, including parts for ordnance inspection courses, surfact plates, lathe brackets, and school stock materials for machine shop training schools throughout the area is being shipped from the Junior Vocational Foundry. Verne A. Bird said that the Junior Vocational School VENDOR Foundry has graduated many war workers since it was started over a year ago. The Junior Vocational Foundry is one of four in New York State and ranks first in production and training.
