

Tubercular Patient
Spurs War Bond Sale

been recognized by the National Tuberculosis Association. J. K. Deegan, M.D., superintendent at Biggs is pleased with the success of the campaign and appreciates the effort the committee has made in promoting the plan. Joe Pettigrew entitled his editorial on the War effort, "A Message to Other Sams."

The plan is as follows: Biggs are made up with numbers ranging from one to one hundred and eighty-eight inclusive and they are divided up proportionately between the different hospital floors and some thirty numbers are allotted to the employees. Each week the numbers are juggled around so that each floor will have different numbers from the ones they had the previous week. A volunteer committeeman is needed for each floor and a supervising committeeman, to cover all the wards, to collect the returns, so that they may be turned into the secretary-treasurer. A house radio is turned on each Thursday night (movie night) for the benefit of the bed patients and employees. A glass bowl containing capsules with the numbers in them is held while another person has all the slips with the names on them ready to check the numbers drawn.

In addition to the patients' contributions toward the community bond, there are many patients who have their own personal albums and each week the floor committeeman or committeewoman take their orders for extra stamps. The patients' and employees' extra stamp and bond purchases are a big asset to the program. This does not include the employees' 10 per cent deduction plan which is also in effect here.

Joe Pettigrew says in his "Message to Other Sams": "We may not be able to fight the enemy. We may not be able to help out on other war time duties on the home front. What can we do? We can buy bonds and stamps. That'll help lick all the Hitlers, Mussolinis and four-eyed Hirohitos put together. Just imagine what the total tuberculosis patients' contributions will be if all of us combine our figures of bonds and stamps we buy together! Remember our President telling the Axis powers to be careful, because the United States of America is united. He meant us patients too. Yea, we are sick, but that doesn't mean we are exempt from our president's proclamation."

Says Enduring Peace
Must Be Based Upon
Social Encyclicals

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—"Any enduring peace, any post-war stabilization of national and international economics, must find the pattern for ultimate realization in the fundamental principles of the Papal Encyclicals Rerum Novarum and Quadragesimo Anno, the Rev. Charles B. Quirk, O.P., professor of economics at Providence College, told an audience at Rhode Island College of Education. Speaking as one of a series of guest lecturers in economics, Father Quirk outlined the conditions for a successful resolution of post-war problems of economic rehabilitation which, he said, will occur only in a society "which will guarantee the inviolability of the human personality while directing human activity toward the common good."

1,500 Soldiers Go
To California
Mission In Week

MISSION SAN MIGUEL, Calif.—As many as 1,500 soldiers from Camp Roberts, located near here, have visited this old California mission in one week and thousands have attended Mass before an altar beneath which he buried the remains of the Franciscan founders of the mission and received Holy Communion at an altar rail fashioned by California Indians in 1797.

Those who do not suffer are in danger of becoming enervated and of being lost. Sorrow ennobles, purifies, sanctifies, transfigures.

Summer School in Chinatown

You guessed it! It's a summer school picture. In the heart of Chicago's Chinatown, little parishioners of St. Theresa's Mission open their books again in new seats in the City Hall school room. Regular grade schools are conducted in the morning by Sisters of Notre Dame and in the afternoon there are frolics in the park. Photo by Bob Koak. (N.C.W.C.)
