Catholic Weekly Offices Moved To New Quarters

NEW ORLEANS.—The editorial, advertising and circulation departments of Catholic Action of the South have been moved from rented quarters at 422 Camp St. to 523 Natchez St., a four-story building recently bought by the Archdiocese of New Orleans.

When war conditions and restrictions permit, the mechanical departments will be moved to this building from Hope Haven, Marrero, La., which is across the river from New Orleans.

Lord, Thou art my hope, in Thee will I place my confidence.

Warime 'Mission Sunday' Set Oct. 18

VATICAN CITY.—An appeal for world-wide observance of Mission Sunday on Oct. 18 by the Most Rev. John Cantwell, Secretary of the National Organization for the Propagation of the Faith, has been published by L'Espresso magazine.

Archbishop Cantwell emphasized the terrible devastation caused by the war, which, he said, has greatly increased the needs of the faithful.

NEW YORK CITY.—Calling attention to the parallel between the "war effort" and the "mission effort" in that each requires wide material and spiritual support, the Society for the Propagation of the Faith has issued an appeal that Oct. 18 be made a real "Mission Sunday."

Asserting that "these soldiers of Christ can win the struggle against the powers of darkness only if they are supported by their friends at home," the Society asked the faithful to "keep praying and giving."

Jesuits Plan New College in Syracuse

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—A welcome to the Jesuits, who will establish a new college here, is extended editorially by the Catholic Sun, Catholic weekly newspaper of this diocese.

The Society of Jesus has purchased property in this city on which will be erected a new college as soon as war demands will permit construction.

"A Jesuit college in Syracuse will give magnificent opportunities for the young men of Central New York to acquire an education," the Sun says, "promises well for an increase in the spiritual good of the diocese, and adds a noble institution to the list of establishments already in operation."
