LA FIESTA DE LA RAZA

Last week I said I write my column for the COURIER on Saturday I did so yesterday in an article on the Basque language...

Mr. Wallace's article appears in the caption "The Day of the New World" because that is the name which he suggests for the Feast of Discovery...

It has been for me a real pleasure to read this article although not an unalloyed pleasure. Mr. Wallace is a deeply religious, tolerant man, without any personal, political, religious or racial taint...

VEHICLE TO CULTURE

You, Mr. Wallace has one great advantage over such writers, for you cannot obtain a knowledge of any language without acquiring at the same time some knowledge of the background of the people who speak it...

I have said that the reading of Mr. Wallace's article has not been an unalloyed pleasure, and if I call attention to some things in which I believe he is mistaken it is not in a spirit of carping criticism...

WISDOM UNDERSTAND THEM

Columbus Day has a meaning for all of us this year that it has never had in the past. We need now more than ever before to broaden and strengthen the good neighbor spirit begun and fostered by President Roosevelt...

...er's article which to me seem to need correction, or at least further explanation or amplification.

1. In his opening paragraphs Mr. Wallace seems to intimate that the observance of Columbus Day dates back for generations, both in North and South America. As a matter of fact it was started by the Knights of Columbus only 48 years ago.

An example of this spirit of opposition was manifested in the attempt still continued in some quarters to deny Columbus the credit of discovery and give it to a Norseman of an earlier generation. The attempt was ridiculous, especially if you consider its motives. Grant that a Norseman discovered America...

2. Mr. Wallace writes (2nd paragraph): "In all Spanish-speaking America, Oct. 12 is celebrated as El Dia de la Raza literally The Day of the Race, or in other words, the day of those who speak Spanish. This phrase is of fairly recent origin. It is only since 1913 that it has prevailed..."

3. But not so with what Mr. Wallace adds of the motives for giving that name to the day. Those who fostered it had in mind, without doubt, opposing or at least delaying the inexorable progress of neighborliness which had been under way in this hemisphere since 1810.
