

Congregation To Consider Martyrdom Of Roman Girl

VATICAN CITY The martyrdom of Maria Goretti, a saintly young girl who suffered death near Rome in 1902 in defense of her purity will be taken up first, when

"Young man," said the old lady to the grocery clerk, "how do you sell your hamburger cheese?" "Madam," replied the clerk, "I sometimes wonder about that, myself."

the Sacred Congregation of Rites resumes its consideration of causes for beatification and canonization.

After due consideration, it has been decided by the Deanery Presidents and the Diocesan Executive Committee, N. C. C. W., that travel limitations make it inadvisable to hold the usual Diocesan Convention this Fall.

The Board of Directors, however, will meet in Rochester on Saturday, Nov. 21, at Hotel Seneca. Written reports on the year's work are requested from Deanery Presidents and Chairmen of Committees.

Our beloved Bishop will honor us with his presence at the 12:30 luncheon.

This occasion will serve as a follow-up meeting on the Conferences on Cooperating with Catholic Charities held in July. We understand that plans are now under way at headquarters for a similar series of conferences in the Indianapolis Diocese.

ON THE HOME FRONT

Here is a sketch of a corner in a smart living room. Over the desk hangs a piece of applique work that any woman who can sew a seam can make with a piece of natural colored linen, a few scraps of gingham and odds and ends of embroidery thread. The design is of poppies, cornflowers and wheat, with graceful green leaves. The poppy petals and leaves are of gingham applied on the linen. The bright blue cornflowers, the yellow wheat and stems are embroidered in simple stitches.

This quickly made piece of hand work was framed by stretching it over cardboard, and it set the color scheme for the entire room. No one would ever guess that the desk is a transformation of the fancy oak one shown at the left. The top was sawed off and a plain board added. The bookcases were then added at the sides and the plywood door was hinged to them. The sketch shows how the coloring of the applique picture was repeated in the desk, blotter and stool.

NOTE: A hot iron transfer pattern has been made of this applique design with extra patterns of cornflowers and poppies for a luncheon set or guest towels. You will love working with these fascinating colors and the quick results are just the thing for Christmas gifts. Pattern complete with directions will be mailed for 10c.
