Pope Urges Bolivian Catholics To Further Priesthood Vocations

VATICAN CITY — The current issue of the Acta Apostolicae Sedis contains the text of the Apostolic Letter which His Holiness Pope Pius XII addressed to the Bolivian Hierarchy last November, calling for special solicitude in the training of seminarians.

The training and education of seminarians, the Holy Father says is a most serious matter upon which depends the future well-being of the Church. He recalls the Encyclical of his predecessor Pope Pius XI, on the Catholic priesthood De Sacerdotio, in urging that seminaries provide a comprehensive training of the mind, the will and the heart, so as to produce new men, worthy ministers of Christ and dispensers of the sacred mysteries.

The Sovereign Pontiff exhorts all Bolivian Catholics, both clergy and laity to further the work of vocations to the priesthood and to interest themselves in the cause of the seminaries. He makes a special appeal to parents, emphasizing their duty to foster and encourage religious vocations among their children and expresses the hope that Bolivian Catholic Action groups would take a special interest in and lend important assistance to solving this "very serious problem."

A special appendix to this issue of the Acta contains hitherto unpublished Letters of Pope Pius XI to the Hierarchies of Argentina, Colombia and the Philippines written in 1930, 1934 and 1938, respectively and which would be serviceable as a Catholic Action manual.

The letter addressed to Argentina begins by saying that the Church assumes new forms to meet the needs of the times. Catholic Action, it says, is an apostolate the purpose of which is not only individual sanctification but also the promotion of the greatest good of neighbors through the united action of Catholics with the Hierarchy in moderating and permeating all fields of Catholic life. The letter warns against the involvement of Catholic Action in political parties, but stresses the value to society of a wholesome Catholic Action, and emphasizes that when political questions affect Catholic affairs, morals or doctrine, Catholic Action not only can but must intervene. Since the Catholic Action apostolate makes obligatory upon all clergy and laity, the divine precept of love for God and neighbor, the letter urges a wider dissemination of and participation in this apostolate.

Because the needs of the times demand other and diverse forms of the apostolate, the letter proposes as an ideal system a national council composed especially of men already functioning elsewhere and whose and which

Australian Mothers Urged To Stay Home

MELBOURNE, Australia. — The office of the Australian Director-General of Manpower has sent out instructions to the local employment centers to discourage married women with families from seeking employment that would necessitate absence from their homes. The notice in National Service offices said that such a step would not be taken unless economic conditions warranted it, and indicated that at present the manpower situation was sound.

Nevertheless, the directive declared that the voluntary contribution for national duty would continue and that more women were expected to find places in the armed services or in vital war industries.
