NEW YORK (NC)—The world order of the future must rest on a new kind of democracy that will be neither old-fashioned Communism nor the internationalist variety nor old-fashioned isolationism. Vice-President Henry A. Wallace declared here, Nov. 8.

This assertion was all the more striking in view of the fact that Mr. Wallace addressed it to the Congress of American Social Friendship, mobilized by friends of Communist Russia. Speaking in Madison Square Garden, the Vice-President said "the old democracy did not serve as a guarantee of peace." "The new democracy, in which people of the United States and Russia are so deeply interested, must give us a guarantee," he added. "This new democracy will be neither Communism of the old-fashioned internationalist type nor democracy of the old-fashioned isolationist sort. Willingness to support world organization to maintain world peace by justice implemented by force is fundamental to the democracy of the common man in these days of airplanes."

CITES FOUR PHASES

Mr. Wallace did not touch upon religious freedom, but cited four phases of the "new democracy, the democracy of the common man," which, in addition to the Bill of Rights, he said were "economic democracy, ethnic democracy, educational democracy, and democracy in the treatment of sexes." He added that "the first article in the international law of the future is undoubtedly the United Nations' Charter." "The United Nations' Charter," he said, "includes the Atlantic Charter, and there is little reason why it should longer be called the 'Atlantic Charter' in view of the fact that the broader instrument has been validated by 50 nations."

Among other things, the United Nations' Charter states the conviction that religious liberty is one of the freedoms for which the United Nations are fighting. The section states:

"Complete victory over their enemies is essential to defend life, liberty, independence and religious freedom, and to preserve human rights and justice in their own lands as well as in other lands."

Mr. Wallace declared that all the United Nations will have a most important role to play in the post-war world, but in order that they "may effectively serve the world, it is vital that the United States and Russia be in accord as to the fundamentals of an enduring peace based on the aspirations of the common man." "I am here this afternoon to say that it is my belief that the American and Russian people can and will throw their influence on the side of building a new democracy which will be the hope of the world," he said.

Hears Confessions In 'Jeep'

WASHINGTON (NC)—Chaplain in order to stay right with their troops, are riding into the battle in planes and parachutes, in warships and commando landing barges in trucks and staff cars, and now the Chief of Chaplains, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. William R. Arnold, reports that one chaplain aboard used a jeep as a confessional as if sped at a reckless pace.

In a circular letter to chaplains, it is revealed how an unnamed priest "would go with the American fliers as they raced to their planes in jeeps while the cars were traveling at breakneck speed. Many also asked for his blessing before taking off saying that they didn't know what the future held." "Circuit-riding chaplains of the new A. E. F.," the letter says,

To the Men of the Diocese

My dear Men:

The Holy Name Society is engaged in an effort to increase its membership. Everywhere the local parish unit has been depleted by the departure of men to the service of their country. These places must be taken by those who remain behind unless we are willing to sacrifice the great amount of Divine Grace and blessing that comes to a parish from the large attendance of men at the monthly Holy Name Communion.

May I urge then, that any men who are not already active members of the Holy Name Society will accept the invitation of Christ as expressed in the present campaign of the Society and sign the application blank distributed today. The prayer front at home must be strengthened to support the battle fronts elsewhere. Dedicated to the honor of the Holy Name of Jesus and to the sanctification of the individual, the Society has a special mission in the world today. We must keep faith with the members who are going to fight for us.

May I repeat once again my sincere hope for the Diocese of Rochester—"Every Catholic man a Holy Name man."

Your devoted Shepherd in Christ

BISHOP OF ROCHESTER

Catholic Press Hailed For Aid To Chaplains

NEW YORK—The Chaplains' Aid Association, announcing that it "must acknowledge the magnificent cooperation extended" by the Catholic Press, expresses its gratification for the enrollment of 100,000 aid articles throughout the country in supplying chaplains in the armed services with Mass outfits.

"The great tragedy of Pearl Harbor and the consequent escalation of war," the organization's Bulletin says, "brought forth a renewed demand for Mass outfits for the new influx of chaplains volunteering for war service. The financial drain on the limited resources of this small organization was indeed heavy. Orders had to be placed immediately for hundreds of chalices and patens, candlesticks and crucifixes, altarpieces, and the other necessary articles for the altar. Religious articles, such as prayer books, rosaries, medals, catechisms, etc., were ordered by the thousands."

"So that those who have helped so willingly and generously, may know all that has been accomplished, we take pleasure in listing the following distribution that has taken place during the period from September 1, 1940, to June 1, 1942:

664 complete Mass outfits, which contained a total of 1,328 two-yard altar cloths, 2,656 small altar cloths, 9,900 small linens, and 1,316 sets of vestments, in addition to the other articles as shown in the picture of the outfit.

OTHER EQUIPMENT

Practical Devotion

To offer God our prayers, works and sufferings in union with the intentions for which Jesus is pleading in the Tabernacle and in the Holy Sacrifice is a practical and very excellent of devotion to God.
