Canadian Educator Hits Red Newspapers

TORONTO. — Nine foreign-language newspapers published in Toronto were branded by Dr. Watson Kirkconnell, professor, linguist and author, as "a mushroom crop of Communist newspapers" and there is grave fear the mushrooms are poisonous. Dr. Kirkconnell spoke before the Canadian Club of this city on "Our Communists and the case Canadians." The constituency served by 100 Communist papers, he said, is about 27,000. Dr. Kirkconnell explained that in exposing these newspapers he was not motivated by anti-Russian sentiments, but believed in full support for the Soviets, and also regarded it as fundamental that "we must learn to cooperate with Russia after the war."

Catholic Status Of Reformatory Inmates

tended a Catholic School and most of these, in fact 53, spent some time in the public schools.

"Twenty-four, or about 5 per cent went above the sixth grade in a Catholic School. Only 8 or about 1 1/2 per cent of the 514 received all their education, whatever it may have been, exclusively under Catholic auspices.

"The outstanding feature of these figures is that of the 514 men received, only 20, about 4 per cent attended church regularly, while on the other hand, of the 408 who were paroled during 1942, 368 or 90 per cent had received the Sacraments while here.

"We think that to get that number to practice their religious duties even while in the institution is a remarkable record. This is due to a large extent to our Holy Name Society whose membership comprises at least 60 per cent of our Catholic population and to our Perpetual Novena in honor of St. Don Bosco our Patron Saint which attracts many each week.

"The recent death of one of our Catholic inmates prompted us to inquire at the Chaplain's Office as to how many of our Faith had died during the past ten years.

"We were told that there has been ten deaths among our Catholic inmates during the past twenty-one years but what impressed us most was the statement that every one of these ten received the Last Rites of the Church before they died.

"The thought came to us would they have been as fortunate if death had come to them on the outside. Probably they would, at least we hope so, however it isn't unreasonable to doubt it considering the life most of us were leading before we were apprehended.

"Certainly God's ways are strange ways. Furthermore, it is a source of great comfort and consolation to our parents and loved ones to know that we have here a zealous and vigilant shepherd who keeps a close watch over his 'black sheep'."

Nazi Paper Confirms Polish Deportations
