Father Heisel Terms 'Woman--The Welder Of Life' At St. John's Sodality Dinner

"Woman, the welder of life," was the subject of speaker Rev. Raymond L. Heisel, at the seventh annual banquet of Our Lady's Sodality of St. John the Baptist Church, held on Tuesday, Feb. 10, at the Mark Twain Hotel.

Referring to the present day manner of depicting the modern woman as a welder, Father Heisel said that instinctively she is so. "The welder of life, beneath the hammer of her heart, within the tabernacle of her bosom, welding that primitive unity—the family, without which human society cannot progress nor survive."

"Here is the sublime duty of serving and preserving the home and the family—the hope and future of America." Comparing the aprons and vacuum cleaners of the housewife to the uniforms of other women, Father Heisel stated that they are the custodians of the home, the guardians of the boys and girls who must carry on the same world that our men are fighting to fashion.

In answer to the possible charge that the mother who stays with her children is unpatriotic, Father Heisel spoke of the organization of mothers in Texas who have named themselves the MOPS—the Maternal Order of Patriots. There are certain compensations for the boys who fight, but not for the mothers who can only wait. "If it were not for her original sacrifice, no boy's sacrifice would be fighting for today."

"In these days when the human life blood of America is being depleted, it is the mother's sublime duty to preserve the family, and to raise up new men and women to replace those whose lives are being snuffed out. If mothers even fifty years ago had heeded subversive propaganda for birth control, today there would not be enough fighting men to ward off an invasion of America."

"The Catholic Church stands almost alone as the Recruiting Station for the mothers of families. If there are to be no families—no homes, what are our boys fighting for?"

To those who have lost sons and husbands and brothers in the war, Father Heisel spoke of that other Mother, who knew the pangs and sorrows of parting, saw her Son go forth to battle, and sacrifice His life. Mothers should place their hand in Mary's for her consolation, should ask her to spread her hands over their boys and girls in service, to help and protect them in their trying times.

"As good Sodality we go to Mary, we place our faith, our hope, our belief, and our wishes in the hands of Mary, the Mother of all men. We pray to her for mothers—the greatest patriots of all."

Miss Margaret Kennedy, President of the Sodality, expressed a greeting to all, and her thanks to everyone who had cooperated in making the banquet a success, to the speakers, the entertainers, and the co-chairmen, Mrs. Joseph F. Grabowski and Mrs. Anthony Kinley.

Group singing was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Joseph Herold. Vocal numbers were sung by Mrs. Carl Sunder, and Miss Beverly Ann Goggin, danced. Toastmistress Miss Grace Miller announced the birth of a son, Raymond, to Mrs. Bacon, who had acted as pianist on all previous occasions.

The Rev. Francis Hester, administrator at St. Mary's, expressed his thanks for the invitation, and his pleasure in attending. Also present at the speakers' table were Mrs. Anthony Kinley, Mrs. Mary Buznick, Miss Agnes Kadic, Mrs. Paul Affoldt, and Mrs. Agnes Kabuski.

He was studying for the priesthood in France when the war broke out. Although he left there when he was 3 years of age, the Germans considered him neutral.

CHEMICAL WARFARE SCHOOL
New Orleans.—The school at chemical warfare conducted by the War Department Civilian Defense School has been transferred from Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College to Loyola University of the South in order to locate it in the center of the Fourth and Eighth Civilian Defense Areas.

The guest speaker at the gathering was Joseph R. Palma, Corning Glass Works executive, whose topic was "Credit Unions." He explained that a CATHOLIC Church in Rochester was the first to form a Credit Union in New York State and that there are now hundreds of them in operation throughout the State.

First in Corning
The first Credit Union in Corning, said Mr. Palma, was formed in September, 1937, at the main plant of the Corning Glass Works. At the present time there are three Glass Works Credit Unions and one at the Corning Box Corporation. They are all chartered by the United States of America and are considered instruments of the government in selling government bonds.

The speaker then described the workings of the Unions from the time of their inception, telling how a charter is obtained, the manner in which shares are sold, the benefits to members and how the members are protected by audits by a supervisory committee every three months and by either Federal or State Auditors once a year, depending on the type of charter held.

William D. Amey, instructor in social studies at Corning Free Academy was the speaker at the Feb. 4 meeting. Mr. Amey spoke on "Education in 1945," describing the educational system and its aims in teaching children.
