Priest Cites Heroism Need At First Friday Club Meet

Heroism which often relieves by its cheerful brightness, the grim gloom of war is needed today. The primary need is for heroes who emulate God's heroes, the Saints, loyal to the first and greatest of all causes—God.

Spectacular such a saint as St. Gregory the Great was held up to members of the First Friday League Club in an address by Rev. Dr. John A. W. Reddington of St. Bernard's Seminary faculty on March 5 at Hotel Sagamore.

Doctor Reddington was presided by Chairman Albert W. Finck. "With the world surrounded by the terrifying clouds of human passions that have gathered and broken over it, the deeds of a real hero will stand out with all the light and comfort and warmth that a beacon could spread against the forbidding backdrop of a stormy night," declared Dr. Reddington.

"Heroes comfort and cheer and enkindle hope by reminding us that if men can hate and be selfish and act like beasts, they can also love and be self-sacrificing, and act with the courage and determination that can come only to a man capable of recognizing what is right and good, and having the moral stamina to fight for it." "Because men, when put to the test, show us the heights of which man is capable, we can hope and look forward to a better world. Their deeds show us the way. They light the path to security and peace."

Analysing the making of a hero, Father Reddington said that at the bottom of all heroism is a great loyalty.

"A man will never be drawn to the heights of heroism by a great fear. He must necessarily have conceived a great love for someone or something, let us say for example, his country. He must see in it some great good, demanding his faith and loyalty."

Once this great loyalty is conceived, the hero will spare no effort in securing the object of his love. Because he is a real hero his self-sacrifice of courage will never bore others.

God's Heroes

Calling the Saints, God's heroes, Father Reddington illustrated his point with the life of St. Gregory the Great, "one of God's heroes whose memory will ever be a shining light and a benediction wherever manly loyalty and courage are held in their proper esteem."

After reviewing the early life of the Saint-hero who came to realize that his loyalty was demanded first and foremost by Him who is the All-God—God Himself, Father Reddington cited the deeds of 14 years in the Pontificate.

St. Gregory the Great utilized every moment in the interests of the Church for the spiritual and temporal welfare of the people.

The heroic Saint (yet not heroic, healed nations, enforced spiritual discipline, reformed official prayers and organized liturgical chant, gave aid to the poor, reformed and consequences of pillage and famine, endeavored to avert from Rome and the empire the threatened invasion of the Lombards. A zealous missionary he sent St. Augustine and his monks to convert Britain. Nothing escaped his vigilant eye and apostolic zeal.

Saints of the heroic proportions of St. Gregory the Great who having conceived a tremendous love and loyalty toward his God, opened no action, no sacrifice to obtain the object of his love. "Have shown us the way. They have cheered us on. They light the path. It is for us to follow and be a source of cheer and light to our fellowmen," Father Reddington concluded.

The First Friday League Club will meet again on Friday, April 2, at Hotel Sagamore. It is open to Catholic laymen who have received Holy Communion that morning and is sponsored by Rochester Council Knights of Columbus.

ST. GEORGE'S PARISH

MISSION SPIRIT

A canceled stamp drive is being held for two weeks at St. George's Lithuanian School. The children are showing a real mission spirit by bringing in their canceled stamps by the hundreds.

Monday a pre-lenten candy sale was held for the benefit of the missions. The children of the sixth, seventh and eighth grades made candy and sold it to the student body. The candy came in fast, but went out to the children faster. The home-made candy sale was a great success.

Congratulations to our "Little Mission Helpers." Their efforts will be awarded. For Christ said, "what you have done to the least of these little ones you did unto Me."

JUNIOR RED CROSS

Our Junior Red Cross War Corps is working untiringly to raise pennies for the ever increasing necessities of the Red Cross work. Many of our school children have obtained little odd jobs after the school hours in order to help in their own limited way in this great salvation of our beloved armed forces. Although we are only few in number, we feel we are doing a large and important part in this great work. We hope only for the recompense of our Beloved Savior Who we know is guiding our most sincere efforts.

PRE-LENTEN DANCE SUCCESS

Many of the young people of St. Michael's Parish and the city attended one of the finest dances of the season at St. Michael's Auditorium, Clinton Ave. North, on March 5. This Pre-Lenten Hop was sponsored by the Young Ladies' Sodality.

The Rev. Edward Shamon, Sodality Director, and Miss Marion Boehly, Prefect, considered the evening a tremendous success not so much because a capacity crowd of over 100 enjoyed a most wholesome evening of fun but rather because this entire group enthusiastically gathered with Father Shamon around a beautiful shrine to Our Blessed Lady, Queen of the Sodality and there "sent a beautiful prayer winging its way heavenward for those of our Country on active service." The shrine dominated the whole atmosphere of the dance floor. The flickering light of the clustering night candles ing the shrine an impression was made "on the hearts of all present which will long be remembered."

Miss Rita Boehly, general chairman, was highly commended by Father Shamon for a fine piece of work. Miss Margaret Keable assisted as co-chairman. On committees were Misses Socialists: Admittance desk, Monica Heller and Rita Gelfell; Checking, Gloriana and Patricia Menager; Arlene Keable and Mary Alice Anderson; Decorations, Anna Mae Leinberger; Refreshment booth, Justine Boehly, Helen Wentworth, Elizabeth Heinerich.

Miss Marion Boehly, Sodality Prefect, announces that the general meeting of the Sodality on Mar. 19 will have many interesting things to offer including skits on "Vocation Week" and "The True Meaning of Lent." It is at this meeting "The Little Office of the Immaculate Conception" will be introduced to the Socialists. All are urged to be present at this important meeting.
