

Red Cross Food for War Prisoners

Catholic Women Join In Packing Red Cross Food For War Prisoners

PHILADELPHIA — Catholic women in Philadelphia are serving the assembly line at the first packing center established by the Red Cross to prepare food parcels for American and Allied prisoners of war in enemy countries. The latest 100 volunteers produced an average of 4,000 parcels a day.

Two More Publications Banned From Mails

WASHINGTON — Second class mailing privileges of two publications, "Judge" and "Clean-Up," have been revoked. It has been announced here by Postmaster General Frank C. Walker, on the ground that both, in one or more of their recent issues, published material and pictures which appeared to be maliciously libelous. The Post Office Department stated an opportunity was given for the appearance of representatives of both publications before the department's hearing board, but no representatives were present on the dates set for the hearings.
