REAL WORSHIP MUST BE PAID TO WHOLE CHRIST

By Linus Riordan

Christ, even though He assumed the nature of man and lived among men for more than 30 years, is God, and we must pay Him the complete worship that is due to God. We must, and we do, adore Him, the eternal God, the Second Person of the Most Holy Trinity.

Christ is a unique Person, and the adoration that we accord Him is unique.

The worship that we pay to Christ is, of course, directed to the Divine Person of the Second Person of the Trinity. Yet, because the human nature of Christ cannot be separated from the Person of the Son of God, we must, in adoring Christ, worship the whole Christ with the one and same act of adoration.

Adoration is properly made to one single and complete substantial being. Thus even in honoring our fellowmen we do not pay tribute to their hands or to their feet or to their humanity but we praise them as a whole and complete person. In Christ there is but one substantial being, the Divine Person as the Son of God, to whom the highest form of adoration is properly due. But the Divine Person of the Incarnate Word subsists in two natures, the divine and the human. Accordingly, the one and same adoration must be paid to the whole Christ: To the Word for its own sake of the Word to which it is hypostatically united. The worship, however, that we render to the humanity of Our Lord can by no means be reconstructed as idiosyncrasy, because we do not adore mere flesh, but flesh joined to the Divine Word in the most sublime union.

This doctrine of the adoration of the whole Christ was laid down by the Second Council of Constantinople. "If anyone . . . shall not adore in one act of worship God the Incarnate Word, together with the flesh that is proper to Him as was taught to the Church of God from the beginning, let him be anathema." The Council of Ephesus declared: "If anyone shall dare to say that the man assumed into

HAITI CONSECRATES NATION TO OUR LADY

At impressive ceremonies in front of the Presidential Palace, in Port-au-Prince, December 8, the Bishop of Haiti came to read President Eric Lescot's proclamation consecrating the nation to Our Lady of Perpetual Help. the angels of God adore Him" (Geb. 1:6).

These texts show unmistakably that Christ's humanity must be adored together with the Word Himself, to whom it is hypostatically united; for we must adore not the Word only, but the whole Christ, namely the Word made visible who received the power of judgment, humiliated Himself, remained obedient unto death, and was introduced to the entire world—in a word, the Godman.

This adoration of the whole Christ, which has been held and taught from the very first centuries, is beautifully and clearly expressed by St. John Damascene: "Whence it is that Christ is one, perfect God and perfect man, to whom we render one and the same adoration with the Father and the Spirit, nor do we exclude His incarnate flesh." But the flesh is adored in the one Person of the Word . . . for we do not adore it as simply flesh, but flesh united to the Divinity . . . I adore both natures of Christ because the Divinity is united to the flesh." The Western Catholic.

Released Time Bill Backed

CONCORD, N. H.—A measure introduced in the State Legislature here provides for the releasing of students from classes one hour a week to receive religious education in schools, upon written permission from their parents or guardian.

An editorial in the Manchester Union, supporting the bill, said in part:

"It is the conviction of the sponsors that the times call for increasing emphasis on moral teaching, and their conviction is equally firm that the means they propose would remedy a condition growing out of our modern social and industrial system."

"Knowing, as everyone knows, that the principle upon which moral law is founded is the basis of all man-made regulations in the field of law, order and decency, the bill provides the opportunity to give the teachings of religion week-day attention. No one will want to gainsay that."

NAZIS CONSCRIPT NOVICES IN SWISS MONASTERIES

ZURICH, Switzerland.—German novices in Swiss monasteries, who hitherto have been exempt from conscription for the Nazi armed services are now receiving mobilization papers.

The new order is the subject of much comment in ecclesiastical circles here.

The effect of patience is to purify one's soul, and, in proportion to our patience do we acquire complete and perfect possession of our souls.
