

K. of C. Launch Drive For Service Chaplains Aid

State-Wide Campaign For Chaplains To Be Testimonial To Bishop

Following to a special Chaplains Aid call for additional funds from New York State Council, Knights of Columbus, Rochester Council, opened its campaign Tuesday evening at Columbus Club Center in a message from His Excellency, Bishop Kearney, State Chaplain.

From Hugh A. Doyle, state deputy, has come an appeal to each Council in the state to provide additional funds for Mass Kits for our army and navy chaplains during April. The Rochester Council campaign has been put in the hands of Francis M. Beaucourt, chairman, by Grand Knight Thomas H. O'Connor.

Funds raised in this campaign will be in addition to the $3,000 donation, this year, of the State Council provided through the per capita tax assessment.

The need for the funds for Mass Kits and other religious necessities of the chaplains was stressed by Bishop Kearney who spoke of the excellent record being made by St. Bernard's Seminary student.

Frags of Alumni

Brigadier General William R. Arnold, chief of chaplains, told the bishop that the chaplain graduates of St. Bernard's record in service "make me feel prouder every day to have been an alumnus of St. Bernard's." The bishop said that Rochester diocese stands prominently ahead of any diocese in the number of priests now in the service. The number has already reached 20 and the bishop said many more were waiting to go when the present class at St. Bernard's is graduated.

Chairman Beaucourt outlined the purpose of the Chaplains Aid campaign and announced that the State Council would turn the money over to Bishop Kearney as a testimonial for his extensive service as State Chaplain. Bishop Kearney will present the total amount realized to Bishop John F. O'Hara, C.S.C., Military Delegate on the first Sunday in May.

In connection with the launching of the Chaplains Aid campaign, came the announcement that Rochester Council will also participate in the Supreme Council's $5,000,000 War Bond Campaign during "Fourteen Months, May 21 - Apr. 23." Treasurer Leo F. Rombaut is chairman of the Rochester campaign.

Square Mass Drive

Extolling the late Rev. Michael J. McGivern and the other founders of the Knights of Columbus, Bishop Kearney called upon Rochester Knights to emulate their example and to work for overexceeding the quota set for Rochester. The bishop paid tribute to Rochester Fourth Degree Assembly for pioneering in war bond sales in this area with Master Cyril J. Stant of the Fifth District directing the sale.

War Activities of the State Council in this diocese are under the direction of Past Grand Knight Joseph P. Flynn who is vice-chairman of the state organization. He urged his own council to lead in the activities.

The dinner last Thursday was in the nature of a St. Patrick's Day celebration and Irish music was provided by John T. Moore and Arthur McVillie with Paul A. Fredmore leading group singing.

Brief messages were heard from the Rev. Raymond G. Heigel, council chaplain, and the Rev. Joseph E. Vogt, director, Social Action Division, Rochester Catholic Charities. Grand Knight O'Connor was toastmaster. John A. Gorman was chairman of the dinner.

Special guests of honor were Chiefs John Mullane and Bart McFarland who came from Simpson Naval Training Station. Chief Mullane is past deputy grand of Chelsea, Mass., council, K. of C.

Aquinas To Have Baseball Nine

A baseball team will again represent Aquinas Institute after many years have it is announced in Madison and White student publications, on this week. Competition, the paper announces, will be with the city's public high schools.

SODALTALK

The long talked about poster contest was brought to a close on Monday evening, Mar. 22. Miss Rita Hitch of Holy Ghost Sodality won first prize for her poster on vocations. The entries were judged for originality and neatness. Many Sodalists submitted posters and the contest was considered a great success.

Who says the Sodality can't turn out a good crowd? Last Thursday, Eddie's Roller Palace was the scene of the biggest gathering since its opening. Sodalists will not soon forget the skating party on Mar. 18. Proceeds will be used for the benefit of the Union.

St. Patrick's Sodality really celebrated the feast of their patron saint. On Sunday afternoon, Mar. 21, these Sodalists held a tea to which all members of the Union were invited. Miss Frances Grande, Chairman, was responsible for the very enjoyable time which Sodalists will long remember.

Following the suggestion of the Queen's Work, St. Francis Xavier will sponsor a drive during the month of April for members over 18 years of age. This is a plan to reach girls beyond the high school age who read the Sodality very much.

Those who attended Union meeting on Monday evening heard a very inspiring talk by Lieut. Helen Kraft of the W.A.A.C. Lieutenant Kraft explained the regulations and routine of the corps. While most of the Sodalists are not within the age limit, Lieutenant Kraft hoped to reach the older members of the families who might be interested.

A second guest speaker left very vivid memories with the Sodality Union. Most Rev. Emmett Walsh, D.D., Bishop of Charleston, S. C., impressed on the minds of all the importance of the youth of today. He reminded them that the Sodalists of today will decide the future of the Catholic Church.

Our Lady of Perpetual Help Sodality is really going strong. The members of this group comprise a Living Mass throughout Lent, i. e., at least one member attends Mass and receives Holy Communion each morning. Can anyone think of a better means to keep up the morale of the world?

Holy Family has recently given two more Sodalists to Uncle Sam. Ray Nau and William Sauters left last Friday for the Navy and Army, respectively.

At Holy Family's last meeting, Rev. Lawrence B. Cusey spoke on vocations. This is one of many groups in the city which celebrated vocation week. Francis St. John, Seaman 2nd Class, a former Sodalist, also spoke at the meeting and recounted his experiences in the Navy.

Sacred Heart Sodalists celebrated three happy occasions at their monthly meeting held recently. They were Father Sullivan's birthday, feast day and his 3rd anniversary with the Sodality. The singing of "Happy Birthday," a large cake decorated with green and the presentation of a gift highlighted the surprise party.

CONNELLY COMMISSIONED AT ADJT. GENERAL'S SCHOOL

FORT WASHINGTON, Md. Peter J. Connelly, Jr., of 934 No. Goodman St., Rochester, N. Y., has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army of the United States after successfully completing a course of training at the Adjutant General's School here.

His letter of appointment was handed to him by Brigadier General H. C. Holdridge, commandant of the school and Director of Schools Training of the Army Administration Schools, at the graduation exercises of Class 13.

Lieutenant Connelly was one of a selected group of enlisted men drawn from virtually all arms and branches of the service and designated to attend the Officer Candidate School. During the twelve weeks intensive course he received training in the executive and administrative functions of the nation's largest business, the Army of the United States.

When trouble or sorrow comes to the humble man he bears it patiently, remembering that "whom the Lord loveth He chastiseth."

Miss Peggy Walsh was elected chairman of the Communion Breakfast to be held sometime in April. Miss Mary Catherine Shy will act as co-chairman.

Father Roy Morphy, Gleason director of the Sodality Union, was guest speaker and he held the Sodalists' undivided attention not only with his famous jokes but also with his very excellent ideas and helpful suggestions on "Vocations."

Children, Not Schools, Benefit By Bus Law, State Jurist Asserts

SEATTLE—Children and not the schools which they attend benefit by the use of school buses, it is asserted by two of the four Justices of the State Supreme Court who wrote dissenting opinions in the recent 5-to-4 decision which held unconstitutional the State law permitting pupils of parochial and private schools to ride in buses provided for public school pupils.

The dissenting Justices were John S. Robinson, Joseph A. Mallory, Walter B. Heals and C. G. Jeffers.

"I venture to say that, however violently opposed, on principle, to parochial schools a man might be, he would not hesitate in making a trip taking him past a parochial school to pick up a child struggling through snow or rain to get to that school, on the grounds that he was by such an act supporting parochial schools," Justice Robinson said. "If charged with so doing, would he not justly reply: 'I was only doing a kindness to a little child?'"

"The statute under consideration, was professedly enacted for the welfare of the children, not for the support of the schools, though they may get some indirect benefit from it. I am not convinced that it authorizes a forbidden diversion of school funds, or that its purpose or its effect is to apply public money to the support of a religious establishment, nor am I at all able to conceive how or in what manner it can possibly subject schools, supported in whole or in part by public funds, to sectarian control or influence."

The majority opinion, says Justice Mallory, confuses the word benefit with the word support. "A religious school," he said, "gets as much benefit from a city fire department as it is possible for anyone to get, yet the fire department does not SUPPORT the school."

The concluding fallacy of those who voted the law unconstitutional, he said, is the erroneous presumption that "it is the school and not the pupils that benefits from the transportation."

Auburn Sergeant Wins Army's Air Medal

overseas service last May. Maxzeo was a good student and after his graduation from the Auburn school was employed by Frank D'Antonio at his store in Van Anden Street and later was an assistant to his cousin, William Frumante at the Bellevue Restaurant.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Maxzeo are justly proud of their son. At his home, 66 Van Anden Street, Mrs. Maxzeo is proud to show his friends his photograph and that of her other two sons who are also serving with the Air Corps. Pvt. Anthony Maxzeo is in the Communication Dept. at Greensboro, N. C., and has been in the service since last August. Pvt. Henry Maxzeo who has been in the service since September is a radio mechanic at Jefferson Barracks, Mo. Both are graduates of St. Aloysius School and attended Central High School. A young brother, Jackie, is an eighth grade pupil in St. Aloysius School and an older brother, Nicholas, who is married and lives at 246 Seymour St., is engaged in a local defense plant.

Sergeant Maxzeo also has a cousin, Cpl. Gabriel James Maxzeo, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Maxzeo of 12 Spring St., who is serving overseas. Last Tuesday the War Dept. listed him as missing in action.

Child of Ignorance

Prejudice is the child of ignorance, it is the reason of fools and when the judgment is weak, it (prejudice) is strong—prejudice squints when it looks, it lies when it talks, and all looks yellow to the jaundiced eye.

Armed Services Call Many Youths From Auburn

Pfc. William Snyder of 35 Steel Street, Pfc. Marie Ross of 1 Jefferson St. and Pfc. Harold D. Giffur of R. D. No. 4, are among the soldier students who have enrolled for radio and technical training at the Armored Force School Communications Dept., Fort Knox, Ky.

Cadet Jack Raymond Crehan, 34 son of Mrs. Iona Crehan, 24 Chapel Street, has entered the Classification Center, Army Air Center, Nashville, Tenn. At the school Crehan will take physical and psychological examinations to determine for which branch of aircraft service, bombardiering, navigating or piloting, he is best fitted. Cadet Crehan was graduated from Cazenovia Seminary in 1933 and took a post-graduate course at Holy Family High School in Auburn. While in high school he won letters in football, basketball and boxing. When he completes his present course he will get an officer's commission.

Cpl. Jack Carrigan, a former Auburnian, who is stationed at O'Reilly General Hospital, Springfield, Mo., is continuing his conquests in the squared circle and is making a name for himself in U. S. Army boxing circles. Recently he added to his long list of ring victims Eddie Don, well known New York brawler. Carrigan won the decision in a six-round battle and was given a big hand by the doughboys. Corporal Carrigan is the son of the late Harry J. Carrigan, and has a younger brother in the U. S. Navy, Sqn. Harry J. Carrigan, Jr.

Thomas Henry Higgins, son of Thomas Higgins of 16 Chapman Ave., has been commissioned a first lieutenant and has been made an aviator commander at the San Marcos, Tex., Airfield.

Gerard Aloysius Sherwin, 6 Camp Street, Auburn, has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army of the U. S. at the Field Artillery Officer Candidate School at Fort Ell, Okla.

Noted Welfare Worker

Mitwaukee. Mrs. Gertrude Simmert, who has died here, was a charter member of and an active worker in both the Apostolate of Suffering and the Good Samaritan Guild. She was active in the work of the Apostolate of Suffering since its establishment in 1922 and had charge of funds contributed for the education of poor youth to the priesthood. In the work of the Guild, founded in 1933, she had charge of the magazine section and aided in its publication.
