

SAVINGS PROTECTION SECURITY

for the whole family

U. S. WAR BONDS
SAVINGS BANK LIFE INSURANCE

The FIRST and MOST IMPORTANT step towards greater security is to BUY WAR BONDS. Every man and woman in America should buy them and keep buying them for the duration.

Another important step to security is to protect your family's future with LOW COST SAVINGS BANK LIFE INSURANCE. It is Legal Reserve Life Insurance at a real saving in cost. Savings Bank Life Insurance is "Direct-to-buyer" insurance. The saving is passed on to you in lower premiums.

To secure the protection of

Low Cost Savings Bank Life Insurance

First—Get complete information and folders at either office of the ROCHESTER SAVINGS BANK. Call, write or telephone Stone 1423.

Second—Fill out the application for your insurance. Do it at home or at our office. Let our Life Insurance counsel advise you as to the kind and amount of insurance best suited to your individual needs.

Third—Take our regular physical examination.

Fourth—Pay your first premium and enjoy the satisfaction of greater security for you and your family.

ANNUAL DIVIDENDS BEGIN THE FIRST YEAR—
CASH VALUES IN SIX MONTHS

For the safety of your War Bonds, policies and other valuables you should have a SAFE DEPOSIT BOX at this Bank. You can rent one for less than 1c a day. Ask about them.

We Are Open Monday Evenings 6:30 to 8
For Your Convenience

ROCHESTER SAVINGS BANK

Two Convenient Offices

47 MAIN ST. W. • 40 FRANKLIN ST.

Asks 'Fundamentals Of Industry' Course In State High Schools

BUFFALO.—(NC) —Establishment in the high schools of the State of a course in "fundamentals of industry" as a part of the third and fourth year curricula has been proposed by the Rev. William J. Kelley, of Buffalo, a member of the New York State Labor Relations Board.

Father Kelley, who recently was appointed to the Board, succeeded the Rev. Dr. John P. Boland, who resigned as its chairman at the end of last year to resume parish duties in this city.

"By grounding boys and girls in the fundamental principles of our industrial economy," Father Kelley said, "we will have equipped them to evaluate the declarations coming from either side—industry or labor. These fundamental principles should be ingrained in youngsters before they inherit the prejudices of either side."

One of the greatest needs today, he said, is intelligent public opinion based on calm and judicious sifting of facts. "Judgment," Father Kelley added, "means the possession of certain facts as the basis for a conclusion. It is my conviction that there are plenty of men of good will both in industry and labor. However, one of the greatest weaknesses both sides must endeavor to correct is the pre-conceived opinion that those on the opposite side must of necessity be enemies. Mere tolerance of each other does not equal intelligent industrial relations based on intelligent cooperation."

SEEK TO REPEAL STATE LAW BARRING HASTY MARRIAGES

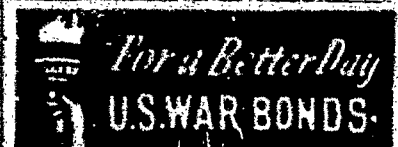

SACRAMENTO—Legislation has been introduced to repeal the California law which makes it mandatory that there be a three-day interval between the time that marriage licenses are applied for and issued.

Assemblyman Gardiner Johnson, author of the repealer, indicated that more recent regulations which make premarital medical examinations necessary would sufficiently care for evils of too-hasty marriages which the three-day interval had been designed to avert. The Assembly judiciary committee has already sent the repealer to the lower house with a "do pass" recommendation.

Italy Leaders Permit Retreats In English For Prisoners of War

VATICAN CITY—Italian military authorities have agreed, at the request of the Holy See, to allow the preaching of a series of Easter duty retreats in the English language to all English-speaking prisoners of war in Italy by the Irish Jesuit, Father John Hannan, who for the past several years has been visiting Christian Brothers' communities throughout the world.

In view of the large number of camps, it is expected that the preaching of the retreats will require a period of two months.

In Belgium alone there are more than 130 secret newspapers published in French or Flemish. The National Front for Liberation has published 6 monthly papers totaling 64,000 copies. Sixty-three thousand pamphlets against the employment of Belgian workers in Germany have been distributed. Each section of the country has its own "anti-Nazi" newspaper. But Hitler's firing squads exact their price.

Prisoners of Hitler's Europe are permitted to read only what their conquerors decree.

Make certain you do not lose the freedom to read as you please.

Do more than your part in the war effort and buy War Savings Bonds every pay day.

U. S. Treasury Dept.
143,000,000 GOAL SET BY
K. OF C. IN APRIL

WAACs Aid Soldiers Even In Ft. Washington Choir; One Represents Diocese

By Katharine McKiever

(Staff Writer, N.C.F.C. News Service)

WASHINGTON—When Corporal Peter Re began to organize a choir at Ft. Washington, he did not know that it would turn out to be a mixed choir. But he welcomes the Washington has been inactive during most of its existence. It is still very quiet within the walls of the Old Fort which was designed by Major L'Enfant, the French Catholic engineer who drew the plans for the Capital City; but everywhere else there is activity and mosh building.

Since January, 1942, it has served as the site of the Adjutant General's School where officers, officer candidates and enlisted personnel are trained in administrative procedures, classification techniques, machine records and the postal service.

Several WAACs are attending the School individually, but the Company of WAACs commanded by Second Officer Dorothy A. Tompkins of Katherville, Ia., arrived on March 2 from the training center at Daytona Beach, Fla., and got right down to work.

The WAACs are quartered in a former men's barrack which has been "completely done over with a few changes." "What sort of changes?" was asked. The principal additions, we learned as we followed Officer Tompkins and Top Sergeant Lucinda Fitch of Fort Wayne, Ind., on their morning inspection tour, were a laundry and a beauty parlor, the latter opening off the recreation room and labeled "WAVES for the WAACs."

This company of WAACs is composed of an unusually good-looking group of women, but the assembled reporters could not decide whether credit for this should go to the beauty parlor or to healthful living, uniform neatness and good posture enforced by military discipline. Another indication of the "feminine touch" was the gaily figured curtains which some WAACs, off duty, were stitching. These are to be hung in the reception and dining rooms. The sleeping quarters are strictly military, and rows of two-tier beds are primly aligned.

Regular Rations
Mess Officer Eva Morrison of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., said that the WAACs draw the same rations as other members of the armed forces, but the WAAC mess officer may vary the menu and do a little bartering with the post supply officer. For example, the supply officer is glad to allow her extra fruit and vegetables in lieu of meat which is more in demand by male contingents. Also, because the majority of the Auxiliaries prefer it, the WAACs at Ft. Washington have their main meal in the evening and lunch at noon, and "mors salad" is the popular demand. The WAACs have not had to send their kitchen personnel to cooks and bakers schools; most of them got their experience at home.

A PILOT HIMSELF. Chaplain Eugene F. McCahey, Chicago, about to board bomber at San Angelo, Texas, Army Air Field, where he serves at Bombardier School. (NC Photo).

WISCONSIN PRIEST PRISONER OF JAPANESE IN PHILIPPINES

TWIN LAKES, Wis.—The Rev. Mathias Zervas, formerly assistant pastor at St. Mary's Church, Fond du Lac, and now a U. S. Army chaplain, is a prisoner of the Japanese in the Philippine Islands.

His father, Edward Zervas, of this city, has been informed by the War Department. Father Zervas holds the rank of captain.

The priest served with the American troops who made the heroic stand on Bataan when the Japanese stormed the Philippines. He had been mentioned in dispatches for gallantry and devotion to duty, and shared in a citation awarded his regiment.

Boys Town War Effort Stressed on Radio

BOYS TOWN, Neb.—Father Flanagan's Boys Town was saluted Mar. 27 on the Columbia Broadcasting System's "The Spirit of 1943" radio program, which was carried on a hook-up of 121 stations throughout the country, and stressed the juvenile community's war effort.

Highlight of the broadcast was the actual securing in James Ross, 19-year-old Hawaiian-born former Mayor of Boys Town, in the U. S. Marine Corps.

BUY U. S. BONDS and STAMPS

Washington has been inactive during most of its existence. It is still very quiet within the walls of the Old Fort which was designed by Major L'Enfant, the French Catholic engineer who drew the plans for the Capital City; but everywhere else there is activity and mosh building.

Since January, 1942, it has served as the site of the Adjutant General's School where officers, officer candidates and enlisted personnel are trained in administrative procedures, classification techniques, machine records and the postal service.

Several WAACs are attending the School individually, but the Company of WAACs commanded by Second Officer Dorothy A. Tompkins of Katherville, Ia., arrived on March 2 from the training center at Daytona Beach, Fla., and got right down to work.

The WAACs are quartered in a former men's barrack which has been "completely done over with a few changes." "What sort of changes?" was asked. The principal additions, we learned as we followed Officer Tompkins and Top Sergeant Lucinda Fitch of Fort Wayne, Ind., on their morning inspection tour, were a laundry and a beauty parlor, the latter opening off the recreation room and labeled "WAVES for the WAACs."

This company of WAACs is composed of an unusually good-looking group of women, but the assembled reporters could not decide whether credit for this should go to the beauty parlor or to healthful living, uniform neatness and good posture enforced by military discipline. Another indication of the "feminine touch" was the gaily figured curtains which some WAACs, off duty, were stitching. These are to be hung in the reception and dining rooms. The sleeping quarters are strictly military, and rows of two-tier beds are primly aligned.

Regular Rations

Mess Officer Eva Morrison of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., said that the WAACs draw the same rations as other members of the armed forces, but the WAAC mess officer may vary the menu and do a little bartering with the post supply officer. For example, the supply officer is glad to allow her extra fruit and vegetables in lieu of meat which is more in demand by male contingents. Also, because the majority of the Auxiliaries prefer it, the WAACs at Ft. Washington have their main meal in the evening and lunch at noon, and "mors salad" is the popular demand. The WAACs have not had to send their kitchen personnel to cooks and bakers schools; most of them got their experience at home.

Some 20 of the Ft. Washington WAACs are detailed to "keeping house" for the Company, but they have regular hours and shifts and must drill the same as those on other duties. What do the others do? Anything that can release a man for active duty. The only trouble is that there are not enough WAACs.

The WAACs are driving all the staff cars at Ft. Washington and each driver is responsible for servicing her car, keeping it clean and making minor repairs. The girls who drive trucks—and this is one of the most popular assignments—must add loading and unloading to the other duties.

These WAACs are not raw recruits. They received their basic military training before being sent to Ft. Washington. Most of them had training in civilian life for the tasks they are now performing, although wherever possible they are given a choice as to whether they shall continue in their usual line of work or try another.

At present the company strength, authorized at 123, is not complete and therefore all assignments have not been made. The plan calls for one WAAC clerical worker to the Chaplain's office but none has been appointed as yet. But indirectly the presence in camp of the WAACs is aiding the Chaplain, who reports increased attendance at religious services.

Catholic WAACs at Ft. Washington represent nine Archdioceses and 15 Dioceses. Brooklyn leads the Diocese with four, and Boston Archdiocese with three.

Now In Progress!

Sibley's 39th Semi-Annual Basement Sale

It's saving-time now in Sibley's Big Basement! The Sale you've been looking forward to is in full swing... with important savings on thousands and thousands of items you want and need for yourself, your family and your home. Remember, the Sale ends Saturday at 5:30! The earlier you come, the greater the selections! Don't delay... come in today, and save!

BASEMENT
SIBLEY, LINDSAY & CURR CO.