A Moment's Taste

Our greatest misfortune is the value we set upon visible things which are the only things we prize. If we could but taste for one moment the treasures of heaven, how we should despise those which now excite and fascinate us!—St. Nilus

Archbishop Calls For Sacrifices At Home To Back Men In Battle

Archbishop Spellman, speaking to the people of Washington, called for sacrifices at home to support the men in battle.

"Our goal is our own salvation, both national and personal. National in time and personal in eternity. We hope and we wish to believe that we are achieving this purpose by the destruction of barbarism which is here conceived by pagan gods, resulting in the inhuman spirit of destruction of humanity. We ask ourselves if there is anything with which we may oppose this frenzy of deplorable hatred that has been unleashed against God and against humanity.

One Antidote To Hate
"While the best of America's spiritual, physical and material resources are the rest of us doing everything possible to stop the hateful nonstop-sneak of Cain incarnate again. Are we doing everything possible to stop the current tide of hate, crimes and ferocious debasing destruction?
"So far as I know, there is only one antidote to hate and that is love. There is only one antidote to greed, and that is charity. And even amid the blackness of war, the light of love and charity must shine. Otherwise we shall lose not only the lives of our dear ones but we shall also lose the war, even if we win it.

"War may perhaps be won by force of arms, but peace is won only by justice. Justice is the mind of civilization and charity is its heart. If America, as we know it and love it, is to win the peace as well as the war, then America must be true and just to herself and her sons and daughters, as they are now proving themselves true by their loyalty and their devotion to her on all the battlefronts of the world as well as on the home front."

Problems of Labor Now Loom Large On Washington Horizon

WASHINGTON (NC)—The problem of labor is looming large on the Washington horizon. It is not merely a question of finding workers to man the war plants and repair the equipment of our navy and army, but also of regulating wages and conditions of employment, halting strikes and preventing costly controversies within the ranks of labor itself.

Advocates Speed-Up Plan For Grade School

CHICAGO.—"Speed our present eight-year, eight-grade elementary system, but arrange courses so that bright pupils can go through the eight grades in seven or even in six years without skipping or retarding any subject matter."

The speaker advocated taking the subject matter of the present eight-grade and concentrating all essentials in six of the eight years, leaving two years free for advanced instruction and review for average and slower pupils.

A man strikes, gears around, the machine stops. Paul has lost his right arm. He may die but it will take a month to repair the machine if parts can be found.

This happens daily in the factories of Czechoslovakia, Norway, Holland, Belgium, France.

In America we can hurry Hitler's doom by striking to our jobs and buying War Bonds every pay day.
