A Moment's Taste

Our greatest misfortune is the value we set upon visible things which are the only things we prize. If we could but taste for one moment the treasures of heaven, how we should despise those which now excite and fascinate us!—St. Nilus

The opinion was expressed in the Attorney General's report on the hearing of the House Appropriations Committee on April 1 of the annual appropriations for the Department of Justice.

Rev. Francis Biddle - The Bishop of (Continued) with the Soviet Revolution by Vice-President Henry A. Wallace is a speech in 1936 was criticized by Dr. Norman Vincent Pease, pastor of the Marble Collegiate Church, in a sermon delivered here.

Dr. Pease quoted the Vice-President as having said: "Every revolution since that began by Christ almost 2,000 years ago in the Soviet Revolution of 1917 speaks for the common man, who shed blood on the battlefields." He then commented:

"It is true that Christianity is profoundly interested in raising the conditions of the common man and, for that matter, of all men. However, to compare Christianity to the Russian Revolution is stretching the imagination considerably for the latter emphasized force, whereas Christ emphasized love and said 'Love your neighbor' and 'Love the other'."

One Antidote To Hate

"While the best of America's spiritual, physical and material resources are the rest of us doing everything possible to stop the hateful neo-paganism of Cain incarnate again. Are we doing everything possible to stop the current tide of hate, crimes and ferocious debasing destruction?"

"We are as I know, there is only one antidote to hate and that is love. There is only one antidote to greed, and that is charity. And even amid the blackness of war, the light of love and charity must shine. Otherwise we shall lose not only the lives of our dear ones but we shall also lose the war, even if we win it."

WASHINGTON (NC)—The problem of labor is looming large on the Washington horizon. A change in the traditional attitude of Congress toward labor is indicated in the report of the Truman Commission. It is no longer regarded as the underdog needing special protection. In the past analysis, the Commission speaks of labor as a "powerful" force.
