'Dear Folks'
(Suggested by a reader that letters from Americans be carried under this heading, the first of such letters is printed below. Excerpts of letters from boys and girls in the service describing spiritual activities or mental training in their posts, camps or stations are preferable for their religious newspaper. Send them to the Home Editor, CATHOLIC COURIER, 10 Chestnut St., Rochester, N. Y.)

John Collins, apprentice seaman, U.S. Navy, Naval Training Station (home parish, St. John the Evangelist's, Rochester):
"I just came from Mass. It was beautiful. We had it in the drill hall, which is a massive structure with the floor about the size of a football field and no posts, all clear floor space.
"A big cupboard in the wall opens up into a canopy with a small altar and stage. The canopy is said over the air by big amplifiers. A small electric organ is played by one of the sailors. Two other sailors are altar boys.
"It looks good to see all these young men in the going to Mass (about 700 men at one Mass). The Mass had an unusual feeling to it, too. I had to stand and I was right in front of a gun rack containing about 60 rifles. Somehow the Holy Mass doesn't seem to tie up to such things as guns and ships.
"I did a lot of thinking at that Mass and for the first time it really held a deep meaning for me. At the end when closing prayers were being said, St. Michael, the Archangel, defend us in battle, etc., suddenly struck home and I realized that he is indeed our patron saint."

OPA Checks Restaurant Prices

Rochester OPA was notified today that the New York Regional office moved swiftly on Apr. 12 to prevent price increases in every eating and drinking establishment in the country, following a Washington price control order effective Sunday.
Copies of the order entitled "Fixing of Prices by Restaurants and Similar Establishments: Delegation of Authority to Fix Maximum Prices," and an explanatory letter from Administrator Preston M. Brown, have been sent, Dunham A. DeLoe, Jr., Rochester price official said, to all local rationing boards and district offices in New York. Two which includes New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

Boards are instructed to notify proprietors of every establishment within their jurisdiction where food or beverages are sold receive a copy of the Brown letter. In accordance with the general order, the letter directs that each proprietor shall file with his local board before May 1st a list of prices charged for all items of food and drink sold by him during the seven-day period between Apr. 8 and 15.
"The purpose of this filing," Mr. DeLoe stated, "is to establish a price base period for the guidance of the Regional Administrator, Sylvan L. Joseph, New York, in ordering a freeze of restaurant prices in any area where such action may be deemed necessary."
