Nazareth World Court Studies Papal Peace Plan

BY DORIS DUNLAP
Student interest is being focused these days on the formation of a student World Court for the purpose of planning for International Peace and Rehabilitation. During the year preparations have been made by interested groups of the Nazareth College Program and peace plans proposed by scholars and students.

The following girls have been chosen from the senior and junior classes to head the various commissions: Helen Goshko, Human Rights; Virginia Sullivan, economic order; Patricia Goodwin, world courts; and Jessup Tully, rehabilitation.

A. L. C. Meeting
The college International Relations Club will be reorganized at the meeting of the national I. R. C. at Trinity College, Washington, D. C., on Monday, Apr. 28, by Margaret Dunlap, president of the club. The topic under discussion will be Unity for Peace After Victory. Miss Dunlap will be chairman of the committee considering the Catholic students' task in preparation for world rehabilitation.

Sodality Elects
The newly-elected Prefect of the Sodality of Our Lady is Mary Jane Schwartz. Dorothy O'Malley was elected to the office of vice-prefect.

The first of the individual classes to elect officers is the future junior class which announces Rosemary Welch, president, and Beverly Jones, vice-president.

College Play Aides
Preparations are being completed for the college SRO production of Stage Door Campaign to be presented on May 6 and 7. Marjorie Wickes is general manager of the affair. Jean Schmitz, director, has made announcement of the following girls as committee chairmen: Florence McInnis, music; Ann Stello, stage; Jane O'Brien, publicity; Virginia Gould and Jean Flanagan, costumes and scenery; Joan Dugan, dancing; Joanne Chavon, Betty Battersby and Jessie Ann Butler, advertising; Ella Mekunka and Dorothy Redington, properties; Patricia O'Grady, lights; Peggy Driscoll, tickets, and Madeline Naccitelli, posters.

ON THE HOME FRONT

A GAY FLOWER BED
Here is an adorable bassinet without the usual complicated fittings. The washable cotton material for the full skirt and covered hood should have some body to it so that no lining will be required. A gay flower pattern in pink and blue is most appropriate. Pink or blue bias tape may then be used for the edge bindings and for the corded working at the top of the skirt and edges of hood sections. You will need eight yards of thirty-six-inch fabric; about twenty-four yards of bias tape and seven yards of cable cord for a bassinet thirty-two inches long and thirty inches high.

If you cannot find a hooded basket, wooden hoops from a salt or sugar barrel may be cut to fit and bolted to the sides of an ordinary clothes basket. A stand with a hand shelf like the one shown here, is substantial and easy to make.

Rev. Lucian Lamerian, Director of the N.C.C.W. School in Washington, has an inspiring article on the Catholic Pattern for Social Service in the April Monthly Message to affiliated organizations of the N.C.C.W.

We quote the final summary: "Self-giving with sacrifice is the heart beat of the Catholic pattern in social service. Catholic social service means to love and do as Christ loved and did. Christ, our Leader, served His followers with a cross. The cross, symbol of another's burden which we carry, can be used as the final measure of service. No person likes the burden of the cross. Our Lord prayed that the Chalice might pass from Him. But the cross is the pattern. There can be no social service without it. The boys in the camp don't appreciate what we do" is a cross. "The buses or street cars are crowded on run so infrequently" is a cross. "Mrs. X is dictatorial" is a cross. "Someone is always collecting for something" is a cross. "The director didn't even know I was there" is a cross. "The extra time and energy, the expense, the nervous little irritations and impediments, might be the crosses which obstruct active love of neighbor."

So, in brief, the Catholic pattern in social service consists in loving our neighbor with both heart and hand. Humbly and joyfully, without thought of rewards in praise or money, it implies giving ourselves in the assistance of others. If one has performed social service or has the chance to be of service, let him ask if the service makes itself into the form of a cross, instead of into the form of a wreath of honor, or a newspaper headline, or a glittering jewel of pride. If our service for others matches the outlines of a cross, it is the Catholic pattern.

In Algiers
In Algiers, a White Sister, traveling by camel, sets out to visit the sick Mohammedan women in a distant village, a picture taken in more peaceful days. Six White Sisters were killed in the bombing of Algiers where they staff a hospital. (N.C.W.O.)

Apr. 25, Easter Monday, is also the Feast of Our Lady of Good Counsel, Patroness of N.C.C.W. Let us this year invoke her assistance with special fervor. In the Augustinian Church in the little town of Genazzano, not far from Rome, is venerated the miraculous picture of Our Lady of Good Counsel. Many special privileges are offered those enrolled in the Augustinian Seminary Guild, Villanova, Pa. For example, the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass is offered daily, the Rosary is recited in common and Holy Communion offered weekly by the Seminarists, and those enrolled are remembered daily by them in prayer.

May Easter be a joyous feast for all our Members!

Rochester Deanery Council, N.C.C.W. will hold its postponed meeting on Friday, Apr. 30, at 8:15 P. M. at the Columbus Civic Centre.

INDORSE MRS. SULLIVAN AS 'TYPICAL MOTHER FOR 1943'
BROOKLYN—Mrs. Thomas Sullivan, mother of the five Sullivan boys who lost their lives on the U. S. S. Juneau, was endorsed for the honor of "The Typical Mother for 1943" by the National Department of the Catholic War Veterans and their ladies' auxiliaries. The Rev. Matthew J. Toohy, national chaplain, has announced.

In presenting the name of Mrs. Sullivan, Father Toohy said: "They were her own flesh and blood; she could not have given more. Her daughter had now learned the WAVES, and both she and her husband, despite their heart-breaking loss, toured the country to encourage others to make sacrifices for the perpetuation and restoration of the rights and freedom of mankind. She will not be chosen as the patron saint of the Birth Control League, but perhaps the Masses or Communion would like to adopt her as theirs. She raised a large family, educated them well, and kept them physically fit, so that when their country called for valiant sons to defend her honor, these boys enlisted and were found fit to endure the arduous duties of the U. S. Navy."

Jesus Open Another School in India
BOMBAY, India.—Occupied by the growing need for additional educational institutions, the Society of Jesus has decided to open a new school here. Founding of the school has been entrusted to Father Savall, noted Jesuit educator, who is headmaster of St. Mary's High School.

Let the eyes be simple and pure which look so often on the Maker of heaven and earth.
