

K. of C. Sets National Meeting in Cleveland

DETROIT—Cleveland was chosen for the 1943 convention of the Knights of Columbus at the concluding session of the quarterly meeting of the National Board of the organization here yesterday. The session will be held Aug. 17 to 19. The convention sessions will be limited to strictly business and only the official delegates will be invited to attend the convention.

Work of the Knights of Columbus for the world through their cooperation with the National Catholic Community Service was praised by the Most Rev. Edward Murney, Archbishop of Detroit, Chairman of the Administrative Board of the National Catholic Welfare Conference and President of the Board of Trustees of the NCCS, at a dinner held Sunday night in honor of the supreme officers and brethren. Archbishop Murney particularly lauded the work of Supreme Knight Francis P. Matheux and the other supreme officers who are active in NCCS and the USO.

Archbishop Murney stressed the splendid cooperation between the clergy and laity in this country and said this spirit of unity was particularly striking in visitors from other countries. The Archbishop also urged the Knights to continue their record of demonstrating practical Catholicism, one of the chief aims of the order.

50 Passionists Serve

Union City, N. J.—Headquarters of the Eastern Province of the Passionist Fathers here has announced that 23 more priests of the community have been released from assignments to assist the chaplains service of the U. S. armed forces. This number brings the total of Passionist Fathers serving as chaplains to approximately 50.

PLAN FOR NATIONAL FAMILY WEEK

The Catholic Committee on National Family Week, which will be observed from May 2 to 9, plans to hold the headquarters of the National Catholic Welfare Conference in Washington, to plan for Catholic participation in the celebration. A 12-point program on marriage and the family has been issued by the Catholic Committee, members of which are: Most Rev. (right) Rev. Dr. John J. Sheehan, C.S.B., Director of the Family Life Bureau, N.C.W.C.; Most Rev. J. Lynch, (left) Executive Secretary, National Council of Catholic Women; standing, left to right: Edward J. Sullivan, Executive Secretary of the National Council of Catholic Men; Rev. Leslie J. Lammiman, Director, National Council of Social Service; and Dr. Andrew J. Evans, Vice-President of the National Catholic Organization on Family Life, New Orleans, (N.C.O.F.L.).

National Family Week Aims Receive Praise Of President Roosevelt

CHICAGO (UPI)—As a warm greeting to the plan of National Family Week, which is to be observed May 2 to 9, President Franklin D. Roosevelt issued the following statement today: "The President praised the program which will be the chief objective of National Family Week, the members of which are: The Rev. Dr. John J. Sheehan, C.S.B., Director of the Family Life Bureau, National Council of Catholic Women; standing, left to right: Edward J. Sullivan, Executive Secretary of the National Council of Catholic Men; Rev. Leslie J. Lammiman, Director, National Council of Social Service; and Dr. Andrew J. Evans, Vice-President of the National Catholic Organization on Family Life, New Orleans, (N.C.O.F.L.)."

Addressing his letter to Dr. Murney, secretary of the committee, the President wrote: "I am very happy to learn of the plan for a national observance of National Family Week, May 2-9, 1943, by the great religious leaders of this country. The aim of this observance is to bring to the attention of the American people the importance of the family as the basis of our civilization. The President stressed the program which will be the chief objective of National Family Week, the members of which are: The Rev. Dr. John J. Sheehan, C.S.B., Director of the Family Life Bureau, National Council of Catholic Women; standing, left to right: Edward J. Sullivan, Executive Secretary of the National Council of Catholic Men; Rev. Leslie J. Lammiman, Director, National Council of Social Service; and Dr. Andrew J. Evans, Vice-President of the National Catholic Organization on Family Life, New Orleans, (N.C.O.F.L.)."

Helps Children
The program will help the child to understand the meaning of family life and the importance of the family as the basis of our civilization. The President stressed the program which will be the chief objective of National Family Week, the members of which are: The Rev. Dr. John J. Sheehan, C.S.B., Director of the Family Life Bureau, National Council of Catholic Women; standing, left to right: Edward J. Sullivan, Executive Secretary of the National Council of Catholic Men; Rev. Leslie J. Lammiman, Director, National Council of Social Service; and Dr. Andrew J. Evans, Vice-President of the National Catholic Organization on Family Life, New Orleans, (N.C.O.F.L.)."

Easter Greetings
F. G. Rosovsky
Co.
Plumbing and Heating
100 JEFFERSON ST.
CHICAGO 17, ILL.

FAIRPORT
PUBLISHING
CO., Inc.
Publishers
Fairport
Herald-Mail
Commercial Printers

Pittsford
National Bank
PITTSFORD, N. Y.
Complete
Banking Facilities
Member of Federal Reserve
Insurance Corporation

TIMELY ETERNALS

By Rt. Rev. Msgr. Peter M. H. Wynhoven
Editor-in-Chief, Catholic Action of the South

THE ADVICE OF A PSYCHIATRIST

Not so long ago, we received a distressful letter from a mother. Since it was intelligently written and portrayed the plight of a few mothers, we reproduce it here.

I read the letter in the morning and contact was necessary. My first of all, the child had been from the state school he had been by this mother, and the mother had several children who were boys, you could not understand it. I have not succeeded in training my son to control his temper, and I am worried about it.

He is twelve years old, intelligent, polite, healthy and under normal circumstances, amiable. He has a room of his own, and goes to school, and his mother is very much interested in him. He has chosen to do, and he does these things readily enough and well.

He is almost a great deal, there being no boys of his age in the neighborhood for him to play with, and he hasn't the patience and tolerance he should have when playing with his sisters. I tried to interest him in music, and I paid for lessons for more than a year—but he isn't interested.

He is extremely sensitive and arrogant. He continually breaks his glasses in fits of anger. Before he had glasses, he would take it out on something else. He has injured children and damaged property because of this wrong disposition.

He's been whipped, deprived of his pleasures, isolated and lectured to—but all to no avail. He is easily provoked, and when he is, he wants to hurt someone or something.

CHILD DIFFICULTIES
The fact is, however, that on Saturday evenings and Sundays, and, therefore, can't give him much attention. I try to keep him busy, but I can't give him all my time. He doesn't get along well with the boys at school, either, always suspecting everyone is taking advantage of him, and he mistrusts everyone during games.

We have tried to be fair and impartial to our three children, sharing everything equally. Perhaps this wasn't right. Now, if everything is not equally divided, there is an argument. No one of them will compromise or give in to another. I thought I was teaching them to be fair, but it seems to have made them selfish. How can I correct this?

I have tried to talk this over with priests, teachers and others, but I always end up in tears of discouragement, just as I am doing now.

It is difficult to give correct advice at long range, in cases like this. Personal observation, study and contact are necessary. My first of all, the child had been from the state school he had been by this mother, and the mother had several children who were boys, you could not understand it. I have not succeeded in training my son to control his temper, and I am worried about it.

He is twelve years old, intelligent, polite, healthy and under normal circumstances, amiable. He has a room of his own, and goes to school, and his mother is very much interested in him. He has chosen to do, and he does these things readily enough and well.

He is almost a great deal, there being no boys of his age in the neighborhood for him to play with, and he hasn't the patience and tolerance he should have when playing with his sisters. I tried to interest him in music, and I paid for lessons for more than a year—but he isn't interested.

He is extremely sensitive and arrogant. He continually breaks his glasses in fits of anger. Before he had glasses, he would take it out on something else. He has injured children and damaged property because of this wrong disposition.

He's been whipped, deprived of his pleasures, isolated and lectured to—but all to no avail. He is easily provoked, and when he is, he wants to hurt someone or something.

CHILD DIFFICULTIES
The fact is, however, that on Saturday evenings and Sundays, and, therefore, can't give him much attention. I try to keep him busy, but I can't give him all my time. He doesn't get along well with the boys at school, either, always suspecting everyone is taking advantage of him, and he mistrusts everyone during games.

We have tried to be fair and impartial to our three children, sharing everything equally. Perhaps this wasn't right. Now, if everything is not equally divided, there is an argument. No one of them will compromise or give in to another. I thought I was teaching them to be fair, but it seems to have made them selfish. How can I correct this?

I have tried to talk this over with priests, teachers and others, but I always end up in tears of discouragement, just as I am doing now.

Lengthen the life of your fur coat!

Revitalize your furs! Keep their color there, give them longer life!

Complete Stock OF FURS & NECK PIECES ROCHESTER FUR DRESSING CO. MAIN 5117 290 Broad St. Rochester, N. Y.

Old Ranger Premium Beer
HORNELL BEER ALE
"Beer As You Like It"
HORNELL BREWING CO., INC.

BUY A BOND
Remember Them in The Service
They Give Their Lives
You Lend Your Money
BRIGHTON PLACE DAIRY

Easter Greetings
from
FLOWER CITY SPECIALTY CO.
158 Hollenbeck St.
Main 630