

First Easter Rites Set For Navy Men At Sampson

SAMPSON, N. Y.—An elaborate program of Protestant and Catholic services has been completed for observance of Holy Week and Easter at the U. S. Naval Training Station here. The Jewish Synagogue also will be observed with traditional services during the same week.

This is the first Church Holy Week to occur since the Station has been in full operation and the program developed by Commander William W. Dill (USN) USN, Senior Chaplain, is as comprehensive as would be found in a city of much larger size.

Arrangements have been completed for a total of 40 Catholic and Protestant services during Holy Week. Commander Dill said that this would compare favorably with the total for a city of the population of Sampson. Total attendance at all services is expected to reach 10,000 or about what might be expected in a city

Would Continue Liberal Education

CHICAGO—Advocating a continuation of liberal education for our people during our time, the Rev. Edward J. Rooney, D.D., director of the Jesuit Educational Association, in an article titled "Will It To the Army and Navy" in the current issue of "The National Schools" published here, asserts the time has come for the country's educators to do "some bold and courageous thinking and speaking" to accomplish this purpose.

The article points out that the nation's educators lost no time after Pearl Harbor in placing educational institutions at the disposal of the Army and Navy in specialized programs to go away entirely with liberal education for the war duration is criticized by Father Rooney.

"Never was there a time when bold and courageous thinking and speaking were more necessary on the part of educators since never before have they been faced with so difficult a problem," Father Rooney asserts in advocating some retention of liberal education to train youths to win the peace.

"The wiser the man, the greater the folly."
