Denies State Aid For Child Care In Religious Schools

ALBANY (NC)—Attorney General Nathaniel L. Goldstein, of New York, has drawn up an opinion which holds there is no prohibition against the granting of funds for care of children of war workers to any organization, public or private, provided the child care project "is not conducted or maintained in the same structure, building or other or any school or institution of learning wholly or in part under the control or direction of any religious institution."

The Attorney General's opinion was submitted to the New York State War Council, here, and recited that he had received a number of inquiries from various denominational groups who asked whether public funds can be granted for a child care project operated in a denominational school, such as a parochial school or a Talmoed Torah.

Mr. Goldstein stated it was his opinion "that the maintenance of a child care project in a parochial Talmoed Torah or religious school building, even though outside school hours, would be in direct violation" of the State Constitution.

He added that he also had been asked whether the funds can be granted for a project to be operated by a Board of Education, Department of Social Welfare, or a private social agency in a parish house, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., or Y. M. H. A. building. He stated:

"The mere fact that a building is owned by a religious corporation does not, in my opinion, prevent its use by public agencies for non-educational projects. The same would be true in respect to assistance to projects conducted by non-sectarian private agencies which carry out a public purpose. I am predicating my opinion on the fact that the purpose of the child care program is to provide care and not instruction and the program is not an educational one."

Catholics Unite In Rally Marking 'American Day'

Taking their places with fellow-citizens of other faiths, Catholic persons were prominently identified with the impressive and colorful "I Am An American" Rally which attracted 3,000 to the Eastman Theater, Sunday night.

Opened with an invocation by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. William M. Hart, V.G., the program included pledge of allegiance, reading of a proclamation from Mayor Dieker, swearing in of WAACs, songs by WAVES and SPARS, and appropriate addresses.

Representing the Catholic faith, the Rev. Charles J. Bruton, pastor of St. Margaret Mary's Church and Monroe County American Legion Chaplain as well as Captain 21st Regiment, New York Guard spoke on the topic "Responsibilities of American Citizenship."

"We don't owe our rights as human being to any king, czar or sovereign, or to the President himself," Father Bruton declared, "but to the founding fathers. Our principles of America are as eternal as the Eternal God himself."

Presiding over the assemblage was William A. Long, Deputy Director of Civilian Protection. He welcomed new citizens of many lands and young people who have reached their majority in the last year. Two of the latter on the stage were Miss Margaret N. Dunlay, Nazareth College student, and Joseph F. Stauffer, a Navy V. student at the University of Rochester and an Aquinas Institute graduate.

Patriotic airs were played by the Aquinas Institute Band directed by Raymond J. Hasenauer. The observance was the third "I Am An American Day" Rally.

Decency Legion Condemns 'Lady of Burlesque' Film

The Legion of Decency has placed the motion picture "Lady of Burlesque," produced by Hunt Stromberg and released through United Artists, in the condemned classification.

Such action rates a "C" listing for this film, and no member of the Legion of Decency can in conscience witness this picture.

Catholics in Rochester should take note that the picture will be shown at Loew's Rochester, beginning Thursday, May 20, and continuing through the week.

The Rev. John S. Randall, Diocesan Director of the Legion of Decency stated that an effort has been made to have this picture withdrawn. The local management informed him that the officials of Loew's Corporation told him that despite his condemnation, that picture would be shown in Rochester. Father Randall said: "Catholics
