

ST. PATRICK'S, Owego

GRADUATION RITES HELD

By MARY C. SHIRMAN

OWEGO—Sixty pupils, having completed their work in St. Patrick's Parochial School were given proper recognition and were shown well merited respect on Friday evening at the Commencement exercises which were held in St. Patrick's Church.

Members of the class, accompanied by Sister M. Walburga, principal of the school, entered the church and marching down the main aisle, proceeded to the front pews which had been reserved for them.

Following presentation of the graduates to the congregation, the diplomas were distributed by the Rev. Michael L. Hynes, pastor.

He was assisted in this by Mally Farrell, a member of the first grade who handed out the diplomas from a white wicker basket which stood on a tall pedestal in the sanctuary.

The commencement sermon was delivered by Father Hynes. He called the attention of the class to the fact that all of our great leaders and men in authority were emphasizing the fact that there must be greater moral training and more religion taught in our schools and many of the educators in the schools of higher learning were also realizing this fact.

Much of the present day deficiency was due, in a great measure, to the fact that the children are receiving little or no religious training. He reminded the graduates that they had received along with their secular education a religious training, which if they followed it carefully and faithfully, would enable them to be better students in their advanced studies, better citizens of the community and better employees in their chosen work.

Father Hynes stated that while the class was small in number it had one of the highest averages of any class to be graduated from the school that average being 92. The members of the class were Mary Brown, John P. Conroy, Ruth Farahan, Mary Ellen Murphy, Daniel Thompson and Henry Tracy.

Fighting for a just form of government based on Christian principles, Prawda has made enormous gains in circulation since 1942, when it first appeared, and has outlined its policy in these words:

"Some time ago we adopted the watchword: 'Any system with God is good, any system without God is bad.' That is our whole political creed. We do not formulate our own political program, we do not indulge in controversies with existing movements; but we do definitely oppose any political activities in Poland that may be contrary to the principles of Catholic faith and morality! We demand honesty. We have confined Palms and spring flowers decorated the church. Miss Mary Chase, of the organ, played a program of wedding music.

Given in marriage by her older brother, Auguste Nardi, the bride was attended by her sister, Miss Rose Nardi, as maid of honor; Joseph M. Johnson of Albion was best man.

After an informal wedding luncheon at the Club Claret for members of the immediate families and friends, the couple left on a wedding trip to New York City and Maine. For traveling, the new Mrs. Fallon selected a green brown and white polka-dot suit of silk crepe, with which she had white accessories. Her corsage was of gardenia.

A graduate of the College of Arts and Science at Cornell with the Class of 1936, the bride has been employed as secretary to Dr. W. L. Myers of the Department of Agricultural Economics at Cornell. Ensign Fallon, who received his bachelor's degree from the University of Maine, and was awarded his master's degree from Cornell in February, was recently commissioned an ensign in the U. S. After Thursday, July 1, the couple will be at home in Seattle, Wash., where Ensign Fallon will be stationed.

The next time you pass a War Bond Booth, don't stop in and dig deep in those pockets and purse and loan your government as much as you can possibly afford. If you can't purchase a bond at the time, then at least invest in some stamps.
