Priest In Baccalaureate Holds There Is Hope For Future Of Young Graduates

AUBURN—Rev. Richard T. Tormey, assistant pastor at St. Mary's Church, delivered the Baccalaureate address on Sunday at Central High School Auditorium. The Classes of 1943 of West and Central High Schools, united for the annual Baccalaureate service.

Father Tormey said in part:

"No one who accepts the principles of Christianity can be anything except a definitely disoriented revolutionary. God always taught in terms of advancing the Kingdom of God. He taught that that Kingdom can be established only when the hideous kingdom of injustice and evil has been overthrown. People who follow Christ who know they are children of God, are not pale conservatives. They do not struggle to keep things as they are. They must fight for better things and most of this lies in themselves. YOUTH IS GOLD."

Father Tormey told the story of the parable of the sower who planted four different types of soil and secured four different harvests.

Continuing he said: "You graduates are the soil in which seeds of education and training have been sown. The soil has been good and the sowers have tried seriously to prepare a field that will bear rich harvests to make us proud. But, as heard in the parable the final success or failure of the harvest must rest in the soil you are thus sown. The future value of all our past efforts depends upon your acceptance and use of the seeds we have tried to sow."

"Today even in your present happiness we will pardon you if you wonder what security you can hope for in the months and years ahead. For the world never was so confused and unsettled. Never have young people stepped out of the routine and quiet seclusions of their school with greater anxiety. But you do have a possession that will bring lasting happiness into your lives.

"You are children of God and heirs of the kingdom of heaven. God is your father, your best friend, your only hope and your final judge. You are His beloved creation and on your Christian souls there is embazoned the family crest of God. That doctrine I feel should be your greatest security, for that relationship with God gives each a heritage and an ideal to which we must ever be true."

Father Tormey concluded his address by saying: "Let me tell you of one heavenly virtue that your nature must display if you are a true child of God. That quality is moral courage. You have heard and read many new tales of courage in face of physical danger. The news of the day gives one war story after another, but how far bolder, how truly saintly is moral courage, the courage to be a continual reflection of Christ's presence within the soul, the courage to be different from the mediocre and the average, the courage to obey conscience to contrast injustice, to defy the customs of the age, that are sinful and evil. To practice this form of courage is proof of your loyalty to the Family of God. And so I give you this one final talisman for honest, lasting personal happiness—live every moment of your life as a child of God and a future heir of the Kingdom of Heaven."

Blessed are all they that fear the Lord, that walk in His ways. Psalm 112 v. 1

Open House Set By Air Corps Unit Here

For the first time since the establishment of the unit, the veil of exclusiveness that has sheltered them from civilian eyes will be lifted from the men of the 1st College Training Detachment at Hotel Seneca, Captain C. V. Hardy, the Commanding Officer has announced that an Open House will be held on July 5, 1943 at the Hotel Seneca.

At this time young men of Rochester and the surrounding area are invited to visit the living quarters of the men, the classrooms where the fundamentals of ground school are learned, the drill and athletic fields, and the flight line at the airport where ten hours of flight instruction is given to each student.

"We have been looking forward for a long time to a chance to repay the hospitality of the people in this area by allowing the young men 16 to 20 to give up a respite over," Captain Hardy said, "and I hope as many of them as possible will be able to take this opportunity to see how our boys, and thousands like them in similar College Training Detachments all over the country are living and working. I am sure they will all find it very interesting."

The students of the Detachment are especially interested in seeing the men between the ages of 16-20 who themselves might be interested in joining the Air Corps. "We would like to show them what sort of a course the Air Force is giving to all of us. We know it is the best in the service and are looking forward to this opportunity of convincing everyone," said Student Group Captain Fred Farnan.

The Open House will get under way at 10 o'clock at the Hotel Seneca on July 5, and will continue until the completion of the retreat formation, when the day is officially ended.

Holy Family High Graduates 36 Young Men And Women

ing and this I gladly do this night, I am sure that if he were here on this occasion, that he would not only express the sentiments that I am going to try to express, but but that he would also tell you that the motto of your high school, which I have read with great interest, is one well worth believing in and practicing. You have had to discipline yourselves in preparation for your future lives; you possess knowledge in proportion as it will be an aid to you in carrying on the work assigned for you in the future. The first thing in your motto was not knowledge, it was that you might mold your lives and pattern them after the principles of Jesus Christ Himself.

Your kind priests and sisters have instilled in your minds and hearts not merely knowledge because that can be obtained anywhere, but that you might have knowledge based upon faith; that you might carry out and solve not only in the four years of your High School, the problems required by the Board of Regents of the State of New York but that you might recognize what was taught to you in the first grade of your school; to know, to love and serve God in this world and to be happy with Him forever in the next. Knowledge indeed has been given you as is evidenced by the fact that you are here tonight. You have been prepared to be of service, not only to God, but also to man.

Recalls Marshal Foch

I recently read a very interesting article in a magazine of what happened to Marshal Foch in World War I. I am sure you would like to hear about what a great man did during the greatest test of that great war—something that is being done by a great many today. You may be the most learned man and woman in this world, but knowledge alone does not amount to anything. He said that the greatest consolation he had during the World War was to arise each morning at 5 o'clock, go out to the chapel and assist the priest at Mass. He said that he had some mighty problems to solve and that sometimes his mind wandered from the meditation, but he believed that the Lord understood. There are accounts of other brave men with mighty problems to solve who were not afraid to stand up before atheists and declare their faith in God. I always had this motto: Knowledge and Faith. Now I say: Faith and Knowledge.

I would say to you that the thing you want to treasure most in this world is the faith that has been given you in Baptism and
