our soldiers finally drive the Axis out of France and elsewhere they will not be faced with the delicate and difficult task of driving countless females out of factories and industrial life. Let us hope that the ladies will go quietly and graciously.

The shrewd editorialist of the Saturday Evening Post frankly espects that there will be more working women after the war than there are now. In a more and cynical fashion, however, he does offer what might be a practical suggestion for demobilizing and "deconverting" an army of working women. "Tell Rosie the Riveter," he says, "that when she

BISHOP NEIDHAMMER

Seven Of Hierarchy
Attend Consecration
Of Bishop Neidhammer

NEW YORK (C.N.) — In the presence of seven Bishops, a large number of Monsignors, priests, and Religious and a lay congregation of 2,000, who braved a day of record heat to attend the thirty-hour ceremony, the Most Rev. Matthew A. Neidhammer, O.F.M. Cap., was consecrated Titular Bishop of Calice and Vicar Apostolic of Bluefields, Nicaragua, this morning in St. Patrick's Cathedral.

The Most Rev. James E. Walsh, Superior General of Maryknoll, was the consecrator. The Most Rev. John E. O'Hara, C.S.C., Military Delegate, and the Most Rev. Stephen J. Donahue, Auxiliary Bishop of New York, were the co-consecrators.

Franciscans in Van

Recalling that since the days of St. Francis, members of the Order he founded have been in the vanguard of missionaries of the Church, the Very Rev. Apollinaris Baumgartner, O.F.M. Cap., Vice Delegate Provincial, who presided, said that "our boys on battlefronts, posts and stations all over the world are seeing the familiar brown habit of the Franciscans in remote and far-away places."

"When the war broke out," he said, "the Order of Friars Minor had priests in 52 places all over the globe and everyone was a volunteer. Some of them have fallen; some are prisoners of war; some continue to labor, hiding in the hills of distant countries and praying for the return of peace."

Father Baumgartner said that of all the Capuchins in China only one remains and that eleven are prisoners of war; in Japan.

He emphasized that the only purpose of the missionaries in Nicaragua is "to bring the light in the Name of Jesus Christ, to do His work that they may strengthen, propagate and conserve His faith."

India Bishops Vary On Church's Outlook

Admitting that the leaders gratefully accept the educational and charitable efforts of the Christians, yet frown upon their work of conversion, the Bishop sees no reason to fear opposition for the missions from an Indian Government.

In his statement he said:

"It is unlikely that there will be an open antagonism, much less persecution, of Christian missions under an Indian Government. Hinduism always has been a religion of tolerance. There may even be a better prospect of Christianity disengaging itself from the official and political world under an India Government and asserting in a more striking and emphatic manner the spiritual values for which it stands as well as their influence on the lives of men. Christian things done in a Christian manner can never alienate the Hindus and the Moslems. There is no cause for gloomy forebodings or a pessimistic outlook."

Ghandi Critic

Archbishop Porey of Calcutta was somewhat pessimistic about the future. He said: "If we are to rely on the various angles of Ghandi and other big guns of the Congress, missionaries will not be favorably looked upon. Perhaps purely humanitarian works would be tolerated, but no proselytizing. A situation similar to the one existing "in Japan where little if any progress is possible" may develop."

Taking a more optimistic view, Bishop Crowley, of Dacca, and Superior of the Holy Cross Fathers from the United States laboring in the Bengal country, declared that "unless all signs conspire to deceive us, the Church among Bengal's fifty-three million has much to hope for, and very little to fear, from the coming new order in India generally. Bishop Crowley believes that much of Mr. Ghandi's idealism will be forgotten and the educated native of Bengal, although he may not appreciate the real purpose of mission activity, will highly value their educational, medical and other activities, together with their devotion to the poorer classes."

Certain thoughts are present. There are moments when, whatever be the attitude of the body, the soul is on the loose.

HERE at home folks take electricity for granted because it's right at our finger tips and costs so little. The average American family gets nearly twice as much electricity for its money as it did during the last war. Soldier, we're sorry we can't send you electricity over there. But we are pouring power into war industries over here so that you can have the planes, ships, tanks and guns that you need. That's our job and our 2,000 men and women workers are going to tell their best at it until you're back here where there are lights and all the other things you miss.
