PLAN EDITION TO MARK JUBILEES

On Guard!

By Rev. Patrick J. Flynn

Mr. Roger W. Babson is the man, if we remember correctly, who forecast the depression. Mr. Babson is a widely-known and very eminent statistician and last week he pulled something new out of his bag of statistical tradition. Unless the practice of birth control in America is stopped, Mr. Babson warns, "America will some day be conquered by some other state." (Attention, Premier Tojo!)

"The truth is," declares statistician Babson, "that the United States birth rate has been going down for years. Even more serious is the fact that the decline is greatest among those most fit to raise good children. This tendency must be stopped or America will some day be conquered by some other race." (Yellow or brown, Mr. Babson?)

"Babson battles for Babson's all the policy of a great war song. When a man who predicts depressions and advises Wall Street begins to worry more about the birth rate than he does about the interest rate, even the Birth Controllers should be impressed. Facts and figures, we are told don't lie. When a statistician challenges the Sangerites, then the latter have something to worry about. The Birth Controllers who so assiduously slay the Catholic standard of marital virtue as "Anglo-Saxon prudery" can hardly dispatch the search researchers of Mr. Babson as Anglo-Saxon primitives."

If the statistical warnings of Mr. Babson can in anyway result in rescuing our declining birth rate then Mr. Babson deserves to be immortalized in the highest priority bronze next to Miss Liberty in the Harbor of New York. Historians, moreover, should glorify the hour when our national birth rate takes the up swing as the Era of the Babson Baby.

Some of us recall from the romantic Stork Age which antedates the days when Mrs. Margaret Sanger and the Freudians made sex education a parlor subject and even a public subject. To us the spectacle of the Babson Baby presenting his statistical credentials to life may be a bit fantastic. But remember that in this small world of aeroplanes there are poised practically on the very shores of our Planned Parenthood country the Red hordes of Russia and the Yellow Peril of the Far East. Tomorrow—and this is what Mr. Babson means—the Russians may pour over our borders. The Japs, prairie as they are, may easily outlive us after they have failed to outfight us. Even the teaming myriads of China may yet be our grave-diggers.

The Babson Baby of course, is a real baby. Mr. Babson, if statistics mean anything, has proven that the Birth Control Baby is simply a myth. His statistics demand real children; not dream children. Birth Control propaganda has always promised us fewer children but healthier children; children we could feed better. Children we could afford to educate. Mr. Babson proves and facts don't lie—that Birth control has given us not only fewer children but as time goes on less and less children and even no children! Planned Parenthood has made it possible for America not only to afford to feed and educate a small family but also to feed and educate no family at all.

Pope, President Try Vainly To Have Rome Declared 'Open City'

Pope Pius XII and President Roosevelt, world leaders who once lunched together when the Pope, then Cardinal Pacelli, visited America in 1936, have revealed in separate statements that they each had made desperate but futile attempts to have Rome declared an "open city" prior to its bombing by American planes.

In a letter to his Vicar General for the District of Rome, Francesco Cardinal Marchetti-Salvati, the Holy Father promptly deplored the bombing of the Eternal City and called upon Catholics throughout the world to pray for a speedy peace.

"In our messages to all peoples," explained the Pope, "we called upon the belligerents on both sides that if they wanted to hold the dignity of their country high, and the honor of their arms, they should respect the inviolability of peaceful citizens and monuments of faith and civilization."

Hopes Unrealized. Pointing to the historical, cultural and religious importance of Rome, the Pope then said:

"All that we put before competent authorities on several occasions in clear terms, recommending to them in the name of human dignity and of Christian civilization the inviolability of Rome."

This so reasonable hope of ours," grieved the Pontiff, "has been disappointed."

The Pope expressed the new hope that the air raid on Rome would not be repeated, because of the danger that Allied bombs may hit and destroy some of Rome's many historic churches, shrines, and other historic Christian landmarks.

President Roosevelt, in a Friday press conference, declared that Rome had been bombed to save Americans and British lives. Every argument, even pleading, had been used to convince the Axis leaders that they should declare the Italian capital an "open city."

Military Necessity

The President, who on July 16, before the invasion of Sicily, sent a note to Pope Pius XII, promising him that "churches and religious institutions will to the extent that is within our power, be spared the devastations of war in the struggle ahead," insisted in his Friday conference that the Allied decision to bomb Rome was a matter of military necessity.

"It seemed perfectly clear," explained the President, "that the advance of all the American troops and the British troops in Sicily was being made greater by the constant influx of troops, ammunition, guns and planes from the

National, Diocesan Authors To Prepare Jubilee Publication

To mark the diamond jubilee of the Rochester Diocese and the golden jubilee of St. Bernard's Seminary, the CATHOLIC COURIER will publish a special jubilee supplement next November.

A staff of writers representing the cream of national and international Catholic thought, is being assembled to present special articles for the jubilee supplement according to an arrangement by the Rev. John B. Randall, managing editor.

Among those who already have committed to prepare these articles are several members of the Rochester hierarchy, well-known Catholic editors of national renown, a prominent layman, and a famous woman author of books and national magazine articles.

Record History. These writers will be assisted with the aid of diocesan writers who will present sections on the past and present history of the Diocese and its major seminary, with special emphasis on the impact of war. Stories by the guest writers will be included in a section of the post-war era. These writers are expected to deal realistically with some of the many problems we will face after victory in a series of thought-provoking studies which the CATHOLIC COURIER feels privileged to bring to its readers.

The Rev. Dr. Robert McNamara, professor of history at St. Bernard's, is preparing an article on diocesan history while the story of the Seminary will be told by the Rev. Msgr. James J. Hartley, F.C., rector emeritus of St. Bernard's and a member of the original faculty.

The Rev. John M. Duffy, superintendent of diocesan schools will recount the history of the school system and the teaching orders which are responsible for bringing that system to its present high level. The Rev. Dr. Charles J. McNamee, associate superintendent, will contribute an article on the contribution of the school system to the present war effort.

To the Rev. Msgr. William M. Hart, V.G. editor-in-chief of the Catholic Courier has been entrusted the task of reviewing the impact of the present war on the Rochester Diocese in its main fields of activity.

Doctor McNamara is editing the section devoted to the Diocese and its major seminary.

Deplores Nazi Ruin Of Polish Religious Culture

LONDON (N.Y.)—Destruction of Polish religious culture by the Nazi occupants of his homeland was deplored in a letter written for the Catholic Press throughout the world by the Most Rev. Karol Radomski, Bishop of Wloclawek, Poland, and now here with the Polish Government-in-Exile, in connection with the Polish Catholic Congress held here. KAP, Polish Catholic Press Agency, reports.

The letter stated that for ten years prior to the war there was an intense development of religious life, both within and without the Church, in Poland. Since the Nazis have overrun his homeland, Bishop Radomski said, "the majority of the men who did the work and that leaders of the Catholic Action were among the first of the war in Poland to face the German firing squads."

It added, "We deplored the wanton destruction of religious life and service for the week-end during the present months, we feel compelled to bring this to the notice of the world, in the hope that the people of Poland and especially all the members of the Polish diaspora will do their best to help the Glimmer Society."
