VOLUME XV

JULY 29, 1943

NUMBER 36

Official Newspayer of The Rochester Diocens With the Apprehation of the MOST REVEREND JAMEN EDFARD KEARNEY, D.D. Globop of Cochemer

MUSSOLINI AND PIUS IX

Thy mention these two names together? One the name of a saint ly Fope, the other the name of a stifful appreciar. The Eternal City has witnessed the carrier of each of these men. Pins IX saw the seizure of the l'apal States by Garibaldi, became the Prisoner of the Vatienn. fived as a true friend of the poor, chose to be buried in the Basilica of San Lorenza. Mussolini had a leading part in restoring temporal holdings to the Papacy, in overcoming the conditions that made the Pope the Prisoner of the Vatican; forced Italy into the war, used Rome and its shrines as a shield for his tallitary stores and factories and Dishop of the Catholic Charch. transportation facilities: thereby brought about the recent bombing of Rome with the partial desiruction of the finitian of In Lorenzo of his succeed office. with damage to the Tomb of Fins IX.
Massolini is now through, His career is at an and. Only the retribution that mon of peace shall visit on his unfortunate person now remains. Crimes by men in high places shall not uscape fawful punishment. Plus IX living set the mode of lasting papel protest against the usurpation of a revolutionary station Covernment. Pine IX dead registers from his violated tomb the pro est of the Italian King and the littien people that removes the naurpation of a conscienceless Home is, indeed, the Eternal City! Twenty-one years of Museulini is as nothing to her. She has seen other tyrants, other dictators. She has seen them come, she has seen them go.

Rame is the Eternal City! Not for her past alone, but for her present life, her future destiny. Rome remains through the years because she is the See of Peter, the hunte and diorese of the Popes, the center of the Catholic world.

With the passing of the enemy of Rame, the man who would shield his war efforts by sucred shrines, precious relies of the past and houses of prayer of the present, may we not pray that staly may soon find pedar among those nations that wish her well! May we not pray that the Allied Nations may soon find in the Etc. pal City a condition that will enable them to retrain in all safety and respectful esteem from further bombing of Rome!

Mussolint passes and Rame rejoicest Plus IX lives in renewed memory, and Rome rejuices!

GENEVA AND DE SALES INSTITUTE

All the discove is interested in the drive for funds currently in progress in the two purishes in Geneva for a permanent addition to besales institute. The drive will close on Sunday and is expected to furnish the money needed to pay for the new addition to the school, which will replace the wing destroyed by fire.

Geneva has been fortunate in the advantages offered her children over many years by her Catholic High School for girls and boys. Suppart of the school has meant constant work on the part of the Pastors, understanding generosity on the part of a truly Catholic people. But private and people have had always before them the compelling need for Catholic training for these pupils in their high school years, and have made every scarifice readily and eagerly. Their devotion and that of the priests and Sisters on the faculty beholds its results in the generation of graduates who have taken their place in business and society as worthy exponents of the best in Catholic training,

No wonder the people of Geneva are ready to make a corceful re sports to the present drive for funds to complete their High School! Admiring friends of other faiths rejoice a have a part in their laudable undertaking. The prayers and good wishes of clergy and laity from all parishes go with them as their drive draws to a close. May the success of the drive he in keeping with the glorious history of years gone by, with the blessed future that surely lies ahead of De-Sules histilite!

praising some poor victim. "He's a Catholic, but not a bad fellow, considering." Last week's COURIER carried the words of a Protestant confirere who said some nice things about Cathoric doctrine and practive with some admixture of things not so nice.

He liked the way in which we hold the cross of Christ on high, but adds we use it as a fetish, we overdo the symbolic in kneeling before it. He speaks with apparent admiration of the fact that we place the cross high over our churches, that we wear it around our necks, hold it before the eyes of the dying, carve it on our tombstones; but brushes much of this away as idle superstition.

He tikes our emphasis on the miraculous, in the past and in the present. Healing Shrives at Lourdes and Beaupre give us no shock He feels we are wrong but admires our faith in God's power. He likes our practical attachment to the good works which Catholic charity promotes, although he admits some of them were prompted by some thus more sinister than were goodwill.

Our Methodist friend is getting away gradually from much of the old Protestantism that hated everything Catholic and assailed religion and common sense together in condemning Catholic practices. The Catholic Church invites bonest interest in her life, her history her current program of religious and charitable practice. She encourages true examination into her claims. She knows that the honest heart cornestly searching for the right, will inevitably find in her the marks of her divine institution, of her living character as the Church of Sock of the indwelling within her of the Holy Spirit. The Church not only looks good, she is good! She not only looks reasonable, she is reasonable! She can abraye give a reason to the honest inquirer for the faith that is in her.

BISHOP MACENTEGART CONSECRATED

The Diocese of Ordensburg has been blessed by Pope Pius XII presses the feeling of Rishop Kearney and of all of our Rochester with the appointment of Most Roy. Bryan Mackategart as its new clergy to wishing him every blessing as he undertakes the responsi-Indian. The consertation will take place freslay in

QUERIES and Meant By The

The "Holy Ger" is the Bishopria of Rome. The word "See" taken from the Lettn "seden" means eest or chair of authority. For this reason the chair of authority of every Bishop is called a "ice." The chair of authority of the Bishop of Rome is par excellence the "Holy See" because it stands for the authority of the Pope who is the Bishop of Bishops as well as the Bishop of Rome. The term "Holy" or "Apostolle See" is aften used to designate the Pope in the exercise of his jurisdiction as chief Thus he is called: View of Christ, from the Latin word vicarius, meating a deputy or sub-stitute because he in the visible deputy or substitute of Christ in the government of the Church; Successor of St. Peter, because that is historically what he is: Bishop of Romo, which office he holds as successor of St. Peter and because of that office is actually the head of the whole Church: Holy Father, because he is the spiritual father of all Christians (the word Pope is taken from the Greek Pappas and means Father): Ms Hollness, not because he is necessarily a Saint but because his effice - is supremely hely: Chief Shopherd, because our Lord gave to St. Peter and his successors the duty of feeding His lambs and His-aheop (of. John 21, 15): and Sery-ant of the servants of God, be-cause in the words of our Lord, 27).

RANGE BUT

"Whoever wishes to be first among you shall be your slave" (Matt. 20,

From the pen of Father Richard Fells, O.S.B., Defenders of the Faith, Conception, Moseum).

Dubiously Moral

=By REV. JAMES M. GILLIS. C.S.P.=

moral character of missionaries to the heathen. "I have travelled widely in the Orient," she said, "and have mot many missionaries. but never in all my experience have I come upon one like the Reverend Mr. Davidson in Somerset Maysham's 'Rain'."

Unfortunately the remark was made "off the record." It is a pity that the lady who is well known in America, Europe and Asia couldn't have seen her way to say in the public speech which she had just finished the exstement she made in private conversation shortly after the had returned from the platform. Her testimeny - negative though it was—would have been extremely valuable, for her name is one of the best known in jourmain anonymous.

REVEALS METHODS

Oddly enough when I heard of that bit of conversation I had just been rereading—for perhaps the tenth time—Maugham's striking story "Rain," and the preface to "East and West" a collection of his short stories, in which "Rain" enjoys the place of honor. That preface is of value not to me (for I never attempt fiction) but to any one, student or proficient, who likes to know the methods em-ployed by fumous writers in the construction of a story.

Mr. Maugham explains that in common with Sir Walter Scott, Turgeney, Flaubert, Dickens, Chekhov and, he thinks, virtually all other masters, he using living models upon which to base his stories. "The imagination," he says, "can construct nothing but out of a Sitting in recently with a group writes what is professedly fiction of clergy and laity interested in need not reproduce his model in the Society for the Propagation of liberties. He changes a portrait or the Society for the Propagation of liberties. He changes a portrait or the Faith, I heard a university a character at will. Mr. Mangham president queting a famous woman says, more explicitly. "The model columnist on the subject of the a writer chooses is seen through moral character of missionaries to his own temperament, and if he is a writer of an originality what he sees need have little relation with the facts.

Mr. Maugham, sailing from Honolulu to Pago Pago, saw a missionary and his wife Mr. and Mrs. W. and a prostitue to whom he gave the name Sadie Thompson. He observed "Sadie" at a distance. He observed "Sadis" at a distance, never speaking To her, and confesses with slightly veiled pride that the world has not found his description, of her "wanting in vividness." With Mr. W. and his wife he talked only once. In his note book the missionary is described as "a tall blue man with scribed as "a fall thin man, with long limbs loosely fointed, hollow cheeks and high cheek bones, fine large dark eyes deep in their NOT TOO BAD!

To damn a man with faint praise is an old and not entirely unapproved practice. "Too bad he drinks," aften closes a sentence allegedly unapproved practice. "Too bad he drinks," aften closes a sentence allegedly unapproved practice. "Too bad he drinks," aften closes a sentence allegedly unapproved practice. "Too bad he drinks," aften closes a sentence allegedly unapproved practice. "Too bad he drinks," aften closes a sentence allegedly unapproved practice. "Too bad he drinks," aften closes a sentence allegedly unapproved practice. Too bad he drinks, aften closes a sentence allegedly unapproved practice. Too bad he drinks, aften closes a sentence allegedly unapproved practice. Too bad he drinks, aften closes a sentence allegedly unapproved practice. Too bad he drinks, aften closes a sentence allegedly unapproved practice. Too bad he drinks, aften closes a sentence allegedly unapproved practice. Too bad he drinks, aften closes a sentence allegedly unapproved practice. Too bad he drinks, aften closes a sentence allegedly unapproved practice. Too bad he drinks, aften closes a sentence allegedly unapproved practice. Too bad he drinks, aften closes a sentence allegedly unapproved practice. Too bad he drinks, aften closes a sentence allegedly unapproved practice. Too bad he drinks, aften closes a sentence allegedly unapproved practice. Too bad he drinks, aften closes a sentence allegedly unapproved practice. Too bad he drinks, aften closes a sentence allegedly unapproved practice. Too bad he drinks, aften closes a sentence allegedly unapproved practice. Too bad he drinks, aften closes a sentence allegedly unapproved practice. Too bad he drinks, aften closes a sentence allegedly unapproved practice. Too bad he drinks, aften closes a sentence allegedly unapproved practice. Too bad he drinks, aften closes a sentence allegedly unapproved practice. MOSTLY FICTION

That was all the novelish had by way of fact. The rent is fiction.
"The missionary finding out the profession of Sadio Thompson' persecutes her: reduces her to misery, shame, and repentance: has no mercy on her. He induces the Governor to order her return to Honolulu. One morning he is found with his throat cut by his own hand and she is once more radiant. She looks at men atornfully and exclaims 'dirty pigs'.

Millions of persons read the story and bundreds of thousands saw the play on the stage. It can on Broadway—thanks partly if not chiefly to the skill of Jeanne Eagels—for several years. In consequence a whole world of reader and play-goers conceived the idea that Mr. W. fin the story and the nothing but out of a play called Reverend Mr. David-But of course one who son) was typical of those who go

Cathedral, New York City. The new Bishop has been in official life in the Curia of New York Archdiocese over many years, and is well known throughout the country. He has visited often in Rochester, and

Bishop Foery has been associated in charity work with the new

Bishop. The close friendship of Bishop Coursy and carlier Bishops under the episcopate of Bishop MacEntegart. The COURIER ex-

He will be installed at Ogdensburg by Bishop Foery on August 10.

numbers many of our priests among his friends.

off to the South Seas to preach the Gospel. The fictional missionary is remembered, the factual missionary forgotten or nover known. The story and the play are read and seen by great multitudes; the tes-timony of one who knows the Orient, "I never met a missionary like Somerset Maugham's Mr. Davidson" is spoken to half a doz-en people in private and is "off the

Those who know the ways and methods of the writers of Action and drama are few compared with the great numbers of the unsus-pecting and unsophisticated who suppose that since such things are printed and played they must be typical. It is a pliy that the truth must be spoken behind closed doors in intimate conversation while fiction is enormously publicized. It is a plty too that we have not making the area. have not writers who can make the truth about missieneries vivide and dramatic. And let 110 one write in and tell me that De. Cronin's "Father Chisholm" in columnist said she had never met "Mr. Davidson.

(Copyright, 1943, N.C.W.C.)

Feast Days

Sunday, August 1-ST. PETER'S CHAINS.

Monday, August 2-ST. Ale-PHONSUS. Tuesday, August 2-FINDING OF ST. STEPHEN'S RELICS.

Wednesday, August 4-ST. DOM-

Thursday, August 5-OUR LADY of the snows. Friday, August 6—TRANSFIG-URATION OF OUR LORD. Saturday, August 7-ST, CAJE-

Sunday Gas Rationing

Bus to Catholic church will not run tomorrow. See Isalas XI, 31," run a notice in a newspaper at Burton on Trent, in England. Those who looked up the chapter and verse found this: But they that hope in the Lord shall renew their strength, they shall take wings as eagles, they shall run and not be weary, they shall walk and with the Bishops of Rochester is a tradition that shall be continued not faint"

> An Eton College (England) statute of 1440 ordered scholars to say the matins of Our Lady as